Post Halted By Fog, Hop To Pacific Is Facing Delay

Round-World Airman Is Held Up in South Central Siberia by Storm.

Time of Departure Seems Indefinite

Flier 16 Hours, 34 Mins. Ahead of Gatty and Himself in 1931.

Irkutsk, Siberia (Wednesday), July 19 (AP).—Heavy rain and fog early today delayed a take-off by Wiley Post, American aviator on an around-the-world flight, for his next stop, Khabarovsk, Siberia, 1,400 miles east of here.

The Oklahoman, who landed here at 3:35 p. m., Moscow time (7:35 a. m., Eastern standard time), yesterday, after a flight from Novosibirsk, Siberia, had intended to take off for Khabarovsk at 11 o'clock last night (3 p. m., Tuesday, Eastern standard time). The heavy weather prevented his doing so.

The time of his departure was indefinite.

When he descended at this city in south central Siberia, near the southern end of Lake Baikal, the Oklahoma flier was 16 hours and 34 minutes ahead of the record set by Harold Gatty and himself in 1931.

Rested But Two Hours.

With his partner two years ago Post reached Irkutsk from New York in 91 hours and 59 minutes, but flying alone on his present attempt he covered the distance in 75 hours and 25 minutes.

Post hopped off from Novosibersk at 9:02 a. m. yesterday, Moscow time, having rested but 2 hours and 35 minutes after completing a difficult journey of 1,818 miles from Moscow in which he was twice forced to land in unknown areas because of bad weather.

When he got to Irkutsk, the daring airman had accomplished more than half the distance of his projected round the world flight.

Having declined all opportunities for sleep since he left Moscow at 5:12 p. m., Monday (9:12 A. M. E. S. T.), Post looked forward to a night of rest at Irkutsk.

His next scheduled stop was Khabarovsk near the Pacific Coast, from which city Jimmie Mattern, Texas airman who was making an attempt to fly alone around the world, hopped off on June 14 for the last time before his disaster which stranded him in northeast Siberia near the Anadyr River.

Had Unexpected Strain.

Post was sighted yesterday as he flew over Krasnoyarsk, about half way along the 890 mile route between Novosibirsk and Irkutsk.

The American was almost exhausted when he left Novosibirsk, having been subjected to unexpected strain because of the failure of his automatic copilot and the foul weather which he encountered after crossing the Ural Mountain barrier.

Novosibirsk, July 18 (AP).—Wiley Post, who descended here at 6:27 a. m., Moscow time today (10:27 p. m., Monday E. S. T.), reloaded his ship the Winnie Mae with 170 gallons of gasoline and 12 gallons of oil but refused to take a nap before he roared away again two hours and 35 minutes later for Irkutsk.

The American aviator rested a short while on a couch at the airport and chatted with Miss Fay Gillis, American aviatrix, his representative here for the flight.

Miss Gillis, who fed the almost exhausted flier with fruit and bouillon as he reclined on the couch, gave the following account later of their conversation and what she learned of his experiences en route.

Almost Missed Town.

"Wiley landed twice before arriving here because he lost the way and almost missed Novosibirsk because he was still floundering about in cloudy and rainy weather when he got here.

"Only a lucky guess on his part, which helped him come down at the local airport, saved him, for the fog was pretty bad.

"En route here, Post flew at an altitude of 21,000 feet for two hours

400 Postal Substitutes Ask $1,000 Annual Pay

New York, July 18 (AP).—About 400 members of the National Substitute Postoffice Employes Association called on Postmaster Kiely today to present a petition asking a minimum wage of $1,000 a year.

They then collected in Madison Square and marched downtown to city hall to voice their grievances there.

Former Governor Stuart Of Virginia Is Very Ill

Lebanon, Va., July 18 (AP).—The condition of former Gov. Henry C. Stuart, ill at his country home at Elk Garden for a week, was reported to be serious tonight.

His daughter, Miss Mary Stuart, of California, arrived yesterday by airplane and other relatives have been summoned.

2 Die in Blast

Locomotive Boiler Blows Up in Viaduct Near Omaha Station.

Omaha, Nebr., July 18 (AP).—The engineer and fireman on the Burlington Railroad's crack train, the Ak-Sar-Ben, were killed and a Union Station porter seriously hurt tonight when the boiler of the locomotive pulling the train blew up under a viaduct near the Union Station here. Others were reported hurt.

The dead were Charles E. Utter, Creton, engineer, and K. Z. Zimmerman, Lincoln, Nebr., the fireman. The injured porter was James McCrae, of Omaha.

The train, en route from Lincoln to Chicago, was pulling into the covered areaway connecting the Union and Burlington stations when the explosion occurred. The areaway was almost cut in two as the force of the blast sent the boiler of the locomotive 25 feet in the air.

Hospitals showed that at least 16 others had been injured. For a brief time after the blast panic ruled in the two stations as the crowds milled about, ignorant of what had happened. The explosion ripped out a 20-foot section of the passenger viaduct and broke windows for hundreds of yards around the scene.

One Man Dead, Two Are Dying In Gun Battle

Ninth Street Pool Parlor "Shot Up," Policeman Narrowly Escapes.

Victim of a pool room shooting affray, Frank Snow, 30, of 907 H street northwest, died early today in Emergency Hospital, while his alleged assailant lay in a critical condition in an adjoining ward, a bullet from a policeman's revolver lodged in his side.

Carrying out earlier threats to "get" Snow, Charles McAvoy, 36, of 635 Eleventh street northeast, went to the Academy Pool Room, 744 Ninth street northwest, and before a policeman, who trailed him to Ninth and H street northwest, could interfere, shot him through the chest.

In the hail of bullets, a bystander, Charles Nell, 27, of 1223 Twelfth street northwest, fell to the floor, perhaps fatally wounded.

McAvoy was felled by the shots of Policeman U. M. Gales, of the First Precinct, who had pursued him from a second floor apartment at 917 H street northwest.

Police, reconstructing the affair, declared it all started at the H street address, where McAvoy became envolved in a "whisky quarrel." It was alleged that McAvoy, after telling of his intentions to "get" Snow, shot Dewey Whaley, 27, of the H street address, when he attempted to restrain him.

The battle was brought to an abrupt end, according to Detective Sergeant John Dalgish, when Private Gales dashed into the bullet-swept poolroom. Dalgish said McAvoy was standing on his feet with a smoking revolver in his hand, according to witnesses.

The detective declared McAvoy fired several times at the policeman, who returned a like volley. Whether the policeman's shots felled McAvoy could not be learned.

By this time, a dozen or so poolroom hangers-on had fled, said Dalglish, reconstructing the scene. Most of them dashed to a nearby rooming house at 917 H street northwest, he continued.

A half-dozen policemen surrounded the boarding house, and from the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pope herded eight men and several women to police headquarters. Whaley, held for investigation, told police McAvoy first shot him in the hand during a previous argument. He left the H street address, Whaley declared, to "get" Snow in the poolroom.

Ninth street from Pennsylvania avenue to New York avenue by this time was a vortex of excitement. News of the gun fusillade ran like

U. S. Charges 'Kid' In Luer Kidnaping

St. Louis, July 18 (AP)—A charge of violation of the National extortion act was filed tonight against Percy M. Fitzgerald, a former convict known as "The Dice-Box Kid," after he was identified as one of the kidnapers of August Luer, elderly Alton, Ill., banker.

Identification was made, police said, by the wife of the banker, who came here from Alton late today and viewed Fitzgerald at police headquarters.

Fitzgerald was arrested last night at Madison, Ill., across the Mississippi River, at the request of Department of Justice agents after Mrs. Luer had picked out his photograph from a group of pitcures, and told them it resembled one of the two men, accompanied by a woman, who seized her husband a week ago Monday night at their home in Alton.

Employment And Pay Rolls Continue Rise

Fourth Straight Month Increase Is Noted Over Nation.

392,500 Receive Jobs; $10,081,000 Weekly Wages Added.

By Lawrence Sullivan.

The quickening ace of American business was chronicled again yesterday in a report of the Department of Labor showing notable increases in both factory employment and industrial pay rolls during June.

With the upward trend still accelerated in July, American industry has reported steadily increasing pay rolls and factory employment for four successive months since April this year.

Not since the first four months of 1929 has the country as a whole experienced a similarly sustained advance in both of these basic prosperity indices.

Despite the encouraging figures, however, Secretary of Labor Perkins took occasion to warn factory managers against "over optimism and speculative production," and to enter a nation-wide appeal for a general improvement of wage scales, to provide a normal "mass purchasing power."

Factory employment in June showed an increase of 7 per cent over May, and combined factory pay rolls were up 10.8 per cent.

Upswing Continues.

April showed a slight advance in both indices over the depression low of March, and the steady upward trend then begun has continued well through July, according to up-to-the-minute telegraphic reports now in the department. Preliminary comparative figures for July are not available.

Since the reports tabulated in the department's compilation cover 17,952 establishments in 89 manufacturing industries, which employ roughly 3,000,000 persons, or about half of the factory workers in the entire country, the June index figures mean that about 392,500 workers were restored to factory pay rolls, alone, during the month; and that about $10,081,000 weekly was added to the Nation's combined factory pay roll.

Step by step with this steadily broadening tendency in manufacturing production, expanding employment and pay rolls also have been reported during these last four months in railroading, agriculture and mining, and, to a less marked degree, in construction. The important service industries also have reported a similar trend in both the numbers employed and total pay rolls.

Improvement General.

Yesterday's figures for June indicated general improved employment conditions distinctly against the normal season trend for the month. For the 10 years 1923-33, the Labor Department's factory employment index showed an average decline of 1.4 per cent from May to June, and factory pay rolls showed an average decrease of 3 per cent for the month.

Using the year 1926 as the index base of 100, the Bureau of Labor Statistics fixed factory employment in June this year at 62.8, against 58.7 a month earlier. In June, 1932, the employment index stood at 57.5, and the depression low, for March, 1933, was 55.1.

For combined factory pay rolls, the June, 1933, index was 43.1, against 38.9 for May and 39.3 for June, 1932. The depression low for factory pay rolls also was registered in March this year at 33.4 per cent of normal.

The 1932 low for factory employment was registered in July, at 55.2, when factory pay rolls stood at 36.2. As compared with the 1932 trough, therefore, the June employment figure this year is up 13.8 per cent, and pay rolls are 19.1 per cent better.

Warns of Overoptimism.

"The 7 per cent gain in employment and the 11 per cent increase in manufacturing pay rolls in June as compared with May, a period when employment usually declines, is heartening," Secretary Perkins said. "The marked employment increase in 16 nonmanufacturing industries covered by the Bureau of Labor Statistics' survey, as well as in agriculture and railroad transportation is also gratifying. But we must not allow ourselves to over-

King's Envoy From Ethiopia Arrives Here

Ras Destu Demtu, Son-in-Law of Emperor, Gets Pompous Welcome.

(Associated Press.)

Ras Destu Demtu, son-in-law and special ambassador of Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, was received in Washington yesterday with pomp and pageantry in keeping with the rank of a member of the most important royal family in Africa.

He came to this country to return the visit of the special American mission which attended the coronation of his father-in-law three years ago.

The Army Band played the Ethiopian national anthem as the visitor emerged from the Union Station dressed in his native costume.

He was greeted by cheers of hundreds of sightseers who had been attracted by the squadron of Cavalry and company of Marines, which awaited him at the Presidential entrance.

Dignified and 40.

Ras Destu, which in English is King Destu, is a dignified, swarthy man of 40, with a smartly trimmed Van Dyke beard and an easy, regal bearing. He wore tight white trousers and a white tunic over which was thrown a long black cape richly embroidered in gold. His hat was a white sun helmet encircled by a heavy gold sash.

William Phillips, acting Secretary of State, in conventional morning coat and high hat, accompanied the visitor out of the station, and they stood at attention while the band played the Ethiopian anthem and then posed for photographers.

Ras Destu good-naturedly shook hands with the acting Secretary of State repeatedly at requests from the cameramen, which were translated into French, the only foreign language which he understands well.

Requests for a smile were immediately complied with by the visitor, who had long training as a camera

Schubert asked the city to do something about the situation.

Gilbert Haugen Dead at 74 in Northwood, Ia.

Served in Congress for 34 Years; Funeral Set for Friday.

Northwood, Iowa, July 18 (AP).—Gilbert N. Haugen, 74 former Congressman from Iowa, died at his home here tonight.

He had been suffering from heart disease and complications brought on by an attack of influenza last winter.

When he left office March 4, the co-author of the McNary-Haugen bill and militant farm leader had completed 34 years continuous service in the House of Representatives, the longest record of any national congressman.

Haugen won the Republican nomination a year ago after a close race with former State Senator C. A. Benson, of Elkader, but was defeated in the Democratic landslide in November by Representative Fred Biermann, of Decorah.

Haugen had been in poor health since his return from Washington in March and his son, Lars G. Haugen, an officer of the National City Bank of New York, was called here two weeks ago. He and Haugen's daughter, Mrs. Joe Johnson, of Northwood, were at the bedside.

Haugen's wife died 40 years ago and he never remarried.

Funeral services and burial will be held here Friday afternoon.

Arkansas Votes Repeal As Alabamans Pile Up Three to Two Majority

Codes to Lift Nation's Pay Nearly Ready

Roper Sees Agreement Today; Acceptance to Be Voluntary.

Publicity Drive to Make Up Lack of Enforcement Authority.

By J. Bernard McDonnell.

The National Industrial Recovery Administration drove forward yesterday with its plans for broad blanket codes designed to boost wages and employment throughout the country immediately.

Problems involved in formulating the codes and making them effective were discussed at a meeting of the new executive council at the White House and later were taken up by the special industrial recovery Cabinet board.

The Cabinet board is to resume consideration of the subject at a meeting at 11 o'clock this morning and Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper, chairman, indicated he expected an agreement before adjournment.

Final decision rests with President Roosevelt, who already has indicated plainly his approval of the plan in general.

Several Codes Needed.

Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, following the meeting of the executive council, said there would have to be more than one blanket code to make allowance for the differences in industries, businesses and classes of workers.

"White collar" workers will be covered by the codes. "The 'white collar' workers represent the greatest field of unemployment there is today," the general said.

Lacking authority to enforce such blanket codes, the Administration will depend on volunteer acceptance. This would be temporary, pending approval of special codes for particular industrial and business groups.

It is proposed to make up for lack of enforcement authority by pressure brought through a great advertising and publicity campaign, similar to those with which the Government "sold" its proposals to the country during the war.

Posters, placards and various insignia would be used. Employers who cooperated would be given the benefit of Government approval as was given to subscribers to liberty loans and other war activities.

Would Use Public Opinion.

Soon after he undertook the job of directing the Recovery Administration Gen. Johnson made it plain that he would, if necessary, employ the force of aroused public opinion against those who refused to cooperate with the administration's recovery program. Presumably employers who refused to accept voluntarily the contemplated blanket codes would feel in their tills the disapproval of public opinion.

Delay in whipping the codes into shape has been due to many complications, aside from the patent ones involved in so dividing the codes as to make them reasonably acceptable to the varied branches of industry and business. Which were proving the big stumbling blocks, however, was not disclosed.

The first untoward effect of the new textile code was reported to American Federation of Labor headquarters and brought a protest from William Green, president, against discharge of union members or sympathizers.

Some of the textile mills had been working three shifts a day. Under the cotton code limitations on employment and machine use, these were forced to curtail activities. Several employes were discharged. Mr. Green said he had received several complaints and would demand careful investigation by the recovery administration.

Johnson Undisturbed.

Gen. Johnson, however, didn't seem to think the matter very serious, describing it as "just some of the eggs which are broken in making the omelet." Administration

Wet or Dry, They Must Vote Alike

Little Rock, Ark., July 18 (AP). A majority of the delegates to the State convention on repeal elected at today's referendum on the eighteenth amendment may be dry and yet have to vote wet in the convention, or vice versa.

In each of the 75 counties is a wet and dry candidate for convention delegate. The delegate will be elected by the majority vote in each county.

Yet the convention as a unit will be bound to cast the State's vote on the repeal question in accordance with the result of the referendum for the State as a whole. The convention will be held here August 1.

Public Works Cabinet Board Rift Revealed

Dispute Whether Army's Projects Are Eligible to Financing.

A conflict over army construction between Secretary Dern and his colleagues on the Cabinet board in charge of public works broke into the open yesterday while Secretary Ickes was denying any "serious difference of opinion" with his associates in the administration's recovery climb.

Dern, in a formal statement, indicated he had asked the board to defer consideration of the army construction program to avoid adverse action, but he said reports that he had withdrawn the estimates were misleading.

President Roosevelt is expected to be the final arbiter in the dispute as to whether army construction should be included in the public works program.

Before Dern issued his statement, Ickes took cognizance of published reports of friction between himself and Lewis Douglas, budget director, and Hugh S. Johnson, industrial administrator.

Denies Feud Report.

"I don't know of any feud or serious difference of opinion between Douglas and me or Gen. Johnson and me," Ickes said at a press conference.

There have been reports of disagreement between Douglas and Ickes, the public works administrator, over the extent to which the Government should carry out its $3,300,000,000 public works program.

Douglas suggested recently the plan should be curtailed in view of industrial gains this summer, but Ickes has urged going ahead. President Roosevelt let it become known last week that the Government would spend all the fund in the effort to provide jobs for the unemployed.

The controversy over the Army program was said by some to have been based upon the views of some members of the public works board that it did not meet with the requirement that all projects financed under the construction fund should be "socially beneficial."

Pass States' Plan.

Approval of plans submitted by nine States for spending $40,000,000 on roads was announced, but this will come out of the $400,000,000 already allocated to highway construction and represents no addition to the total distributed.

The nine States which received approval of their tentative plans today were Idaho, North Dakota, Maine, West Virginia, Delaware, Louisiana, Florida, New Hampshire and Montana.

Beet Sugar Group Blocks Agreement

Refuse to Accept Proposal to Limit Production to 1,525,000 Tons.

(Associated Press.)

Unable to bring beet sugar spokesmen into an accord, a committee of sugar representatives yesterday failed in its final session to gain approval of an agreement allocating American continental and insular sugar production.

Beet sugar representatives, headed by J. D. Pancake, of Greeley, Colo., secretary of the National Beet Growers Association, and W. D. Lippitt, of Denver, president of the United States Beet Sugar Association, balked at the limitation on beet production suggested in the agreement.

Pancake explained to newspapermen that the agreement sought to limit beet production to 1,525,000 short tons of raw sugar, while beet interests asked that the limit be the productive capacity of existing mills, which he estimated at around 1,700,000 tons.

"This was voted down in the committee," Pancake said, adding that the beet interests at least for the time being had withheld approval of the agreement until they could go into the situation more thoroughly.

Balloting Brings Total of 18 States Into Wet Column.

Tennessee and Oregon Go to Polls This Week on Issue.

(Associated Press.)

Prohibition repeal piled up sizable leads last night as returns poured in from elections in Arkansas and Alabama in the first test of the eighteenth amendment in Dixie.

Repeal jumped into the lead from the start and several hours later had a large margin. Arkansas was decisively wet. Alabama's late vote cut into the wet lead, but dry leaders conceded that repeal had carried.

The voting in the two traditionally dry States was considered by both wets and drys as a crucial test of prohibition sentiment.

2 More Vote This Week.

Antiprohibitionsts, including James A. Farley, Postmaster General and chairman of the Democratic National Committee, had predicted that Alabama and Arkansas would bring the total number of States voting for repeal to 18.

Sixteen already have approved repeal, with none in opposition. Favorable action by 36 is necessary to take prohibition out of the Constitution.

Two more States—Tennesse and Orgeon—vote this week. Arrangements already have been made for sufficient additional States to record their sentiments to bring the total acting to 35 by November 8.

Any one of five other States—Colorado, Montana, Oklahoma, Utah and Virginia—may be the thirty-sixth.

3 to 2 In Arkansas.

Little Rock, Ark., July 18 (AP)—By a ratio of more than 3 to 2 on the basis of tabulations of two-thirds of the estimated total vote cast, Arkansas went on record today in favor of repealing the eighteenth amendment.

Returns from 962 precincts out of 2,103 in the State, including the most populous centers, gave 51,890 for repeal and 32,676 against repeal. These figures included 58 of 63 precincts in Pulaski County (Little Rock) and 28 out of 39 in Sebastian (Fort Smith).

A vigorous campaign was conducted in Arkansas by the united prohibition forces and the Roose-"New Deal" Club. The former made a whirlwind campaign of the State in sound trucks with prohibition speakers, mostly ministers, carrying appeals into virtually every section to "hold Arkansas for prohibition."

Loyalty Is Wet Plea.

The repeal drive was carried on largely through county organizations with scarcely any public speaking. Appeals for repeal votes were based both on the claim that national prohibition was a failure and on loyalty to the Democratic platform and to President Roosevelt.

With the continually rising majority of votes for repeal tonight, there came a statement from one of the State's political leaders that success of repeal may mean early legalized beer for the State.

H. K. Toney, speaker of the Arkansas House of Representatives, at Pine Bluff said he would confer with Gov. Futrell and other leaders tomorrow at Little Rock and if the State went for repeal, he would urge an immediate session of the General Assembly to legalize beer.

Drys Reduce Lead.

Birmingham, Ala., July 18 (AP).—Dry strongholds, reporting late, cut sharply into the lead for repeal piled up in early returns from today's prohibition referendum in Alabama, but a heavy lead was maintained with city boxes expected again to push the vote for repeal far out in front.

Returns from smaller rural counties cut down the early repeal lead. The vote at 10:45 p. m. (C. S. T.), representing 66 counties out of 67 in the State, with 1,075 boxes out of 2,137 reported, stood, for repeal, 62,684; against, 40,911.

This vote represented half of the boxes in Jefferson County (Birmingham), and a good portion of Mobile and Montgomery counties. The more heavily populated coun-

U. S. Workers Prepare Code To Cut Hours

Government Says 30-Hour Week Would Result in Reduced Pay.

By Robert C. Albright.

While labor is clamoring for a shorter work week in industry, and the National Industrial Recovery Board is doing everything to help them get it, no machinery has been put in motion to cut down working hours of Government employes.

So far as the new recovery administration is concerned, this was admitted yesterday by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator.

"I have heard it suggested," said Gen. Johnson. "But it is not a question for me to decide. It is up to the Budget Bureau."

Budget Director Lewis W. Douglas said he had not gone into the matter. He explained he knew little or nothing about it.

Forwards Code Plan.

Undismayed, a little group of Government workers, headed by David R. Glass, vice president of the American Federation of Government Employes, is going ahead with plans for a "code" for Federal employes.

Informed last night of Gen. Johnson's position, Mr. Glass said he had not discussed the "code" with officials of the National Recovery Administration.

He believes an act of Congress will be necessary to put through some of the reforms being incorporated in his plan.

Nevertheless, when the program is complete, copies will be laid before both National Recovery Administrator Johnson and Budget Director Douglas.

30-Hour Week.

The "code," still in process of formulation, will call for a 30-hour week and will propose legislation covering minimum wage features.

The group has been informally advised by administration leaders that if Government hours of labor are further reduced, pay would have to be scaled down correspondingly, unless Congress decides otherwise, Mr. Glass said. It is primarily for this reason the "code" will call for certain legislative reforms.

Organizations affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, having Federal employe membership, will send representatives to a joint conference early next week to discuss the scope of the program.

In anticipation of this action, President William Green of the American Federation of Labor last week formally announced labor's intention of supporting Federal workers in their stand for a 30-hour week.

Policy Undecided.

Meanwhile, the administration's policy regarding rehiring of married workers, at least in the new emergency Federal agencies, remained in the air yesterday. Secretary of Commerce Roper said the situation will be cleared up at a meeting of the National Industrial Recovery Board next Monday.

Secretary Roper and Attorney General Cummings again declined to disclose details of a decision rendered on the issue by the Attorney General, and scheduled to be called up Monday.

The Attorney General intimated it did not altogether douse with cold water the hopes of unemployed married workers.

subject during the coronation of his father-in-law.

Ras Destu was accompanied by Ato Paulos Manamano, the Ethiopian Consul General at Jerusalem, who speaks English, and wore the conventional morning attire of a Western gentleman, and a youthful Ethiopian messenger who wore white trousers, a simple white tunic, a white scarf draped about his shoulders, and a large broad-brimmed black hat, not unlike those generally worn in Spain.

Ras Destu will lunch with President Roosevelt at the White House today, and at night will be the guest of Phillips at a dinner in the Pan-American Building.

He will return to New York Friday, after visiting the Naval Academy at Annapolis, the tomb of Washington at Mount Vernon, and the tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington.

The Ethiopian mission arrived in New York yesterday on the steamer Majestic and was escorted to Washington by Jefferson Patterson, of the Protocol Division of the State Department.

Brave Men and Dead Cats

Johnson Wants Deputy Administrators Who Can Confront Industrialists and Won't Be Lost and Have Pants Trimmed Off."

(Associated Press.)

Maj. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson is building his organization with an eye toward the day when the "air will be full of dead cats."

The recovery director yesterday was discussing qualifications for his deputy administrators. Here they are:

"The first question I ask is—Is this man an industrial adept such that when confronted by business and industrial leaders standing before his desk he won't be lost and have his pants trimmed off and make me ridiculous?

"I know there won't always be all this applause and that sooner or later the air will be full of dead cats. Then I'll want deputies who'll stand and not run.

"I pretty nearly have to choose somebody I know, know well and know all about. I must trust them with a responsibility that is mine.

"Most of my friends are in industry or the Army, so perhaps industry will predominate among the deputy administrators. In my organization except for the deputy administrators I have tried to get every point of view possible."

Ritchie to Talk At Excursion of Tobacco Trade

10,000 Farmers to Attend Picnic Tomorrow at Seaside Park.

Important legislation affecting the Maryland tobacco industry, and efforts of the Federal Government to bring about acreage reduction, will come up for consideration at the annual farmers picnic of the Maryland Tobacco Growers Association tomorrow at Seaside Park, Chesapeake Beach.

Newton T. Gibson, of Huntingtown, Md., chairman, estimates that 10,000 persons will attend, exceeding by more than 1,000 last year's attendance. Among the prominent speakers at the picnic will be Gov. Ritchie, who is expected to discuss recent tobacco legislation passed in Maryland.

Athletic contests of various kinds, including foot races and swimming races, will occupy the excursionists. A chicken dinner will be served early in the evening in the picnic groves of the resort by the women of the Friendship, Md., Methodist Episcopal Church.

Former Congressman Thomas Parran, president of the association, also will speak at the afternoon business session.

Education Fight Looms in Chicago

Chicago, July 18 (AP).

"Good-by schoolroom, good-by books!
Good-by teacher's cross-eyed looks!"

That ancient farewell to learning, shouted when pupils dashed from classes to summer vacation joys, is the theme song of the latest battle over Chicago's educational system.

The school board sang it today in announcing its intention of going ahead with a $5,000,000 retrenchment program, calling for wholesale discharge of teachers, elimination of departments and restriction of curricula.

It was the lament of teachers, pupils and their parents as they began girding themselves for a battle to compel the board to rescind its action.

A week of sharp skirmishes, in court and outside, loomed.

Continent Is Submerged On Bottom of Pacific

San Diego, Calif, July 18 (AP).—Capt. C. B. Mayo, who as captain of the naval tanker Ramapo, plying between San Pedro and Manila, made an extensive study of the ocean bottom, said today he had mapped a submerged continent in the Pacific twice the width of America.

"On it there are mountains higher than Mount Everest and great depths, 6 miles to their bottom," Capt. Mayo said. "Between the ranges of the underwater mountains are great valleys, marking ancient rivers. There are submerged volcanoes, still active, and all these, with the broad plateaus, go to make up the terrain of the Pacific subcontinent."

Azana to Seek Freedom for Five Americans

Decision on Jailed Citizens Likely Tomorrow; Envoy Here May Help.

Madrid, July 18 (U.P.).—Premier Manuel Azana told the United Press tonight that he would personally intervene in the case of five Americans held for 42 days on the Island of Mallorca.

He said that he already had ordered that the prisoners be given every consideration within the law.

It was believed the premier might announce his decision in the case on Thursday, as American Ambassador Claude G. Bowers arranged yesterday for an interview with him on that day. Hope for early release of the Americans held at Palma appeared greater tonight than at any time since their arrest.

The growing concern of the American Government over the fate of five Americans, including one woman, jailed on the island of Majorca was yesterday expressed to Spanish Ambassador de Cardenas, by Acting Secretary of State William Phillips. Secretary Phillips sent for the Ambassador in the hope that something might be done to secure the immediate release of the Americans who have been imprisoned without a judicial hearing or chance of bail for the past 42 days.

At the same time instructions were sent to American Ambassador Bowers to reiterate the interest of this Government at the fate of the Americans. Consul General Claude I. Dawson, who visited the island several days ago, returned to Barcelona after turning in a report to the State Department that the prisoners "were comfortable" with the exception of the woman.

Mrs. Clinton Lockwood, of West Springfield, Mass., is near a nervous breakdown as she has been confined in the same cell with a demented Spanish woman. Acting Secretary Phillips also told the consul general to go back to Majorca and stay there until the release of the prisoners had been effected.

The charges against the Americans are vague, but center about an alleged attack on a member of the civil guard. What complicates the case is the evident division of authority between the central authorities in Madrid and the local authorities on Majorka.

front steps to the sidewalk, she made off toward the corner of Lanier place and Argonne place. The world was just beginning, for she wandered farther until she found herself in front of a fire house. Or, rather, the firemen found Virginia in front of their house.

A gentle cross-examination by about 16 firemen with bass voices began. She lost her speech, or maybe she just didn't like firemen. So the firemen took her over to the Tenth Precinct Police Station where she also found some men with bass voices. Virginia kept silent.

Then the most natural thing in the world happened—her mother missed her. Out to hunt for their sister went Caroline, Lee and Jake Barrett. Together they learned from the firemen that the policemen had their sister. And pretty soon everything was completely all right.

Once before Virginia went on an adventure. They found her paddling in a horse trough.

U. S. Suggests Copper Nations Hold Conclave

War Debts Again Avoided at London as Wheat Agreement Nears.

London, July 18 (AP).—The American delegation to the World Economic Conference today laid the groundwork for regulation of copper production, struggled to extricate its proposals for rehabilitating silver from a new deadlock and threw up a fresh barrier against possible injection again of the war debts issue.

Meanwhile the American wheat delegation, working in the margin of the parley, pushed their negotiations for wheat acreage restriction nearer to a successful conclusion.

The war debt safety brake was clamped on by Senator James Couzens, of Michigan, who succeeded in attaching to a resolution dealing with international debts a clause specifying that intergovernmental debts were not included.

U. S. Offers Resolution.

The first definite step for continuing the work of the conclave after the final plenary session July 27 was taken by the American delegation in offering a resolution urging countries which produce copper to submit their opinions before September 15 as to the desirability of holding an international copper conference. The opinions are to be sent to the secretriat of the present conference.

The wheat negotiations were pushed through two meetings. After the first, between representatives of the big four—the United States, Canada, Argentina and Australia—with the Danubian countries—Hungary, Jugoslavia, Roumania and Bulgaria, Henry Morgenthau, the American delegate, announced that an understanding had been reached by which the Danubian states would limit their wheat exports to 54,000,000 bushels this year and 50,000,000 bushels next year.

Importing Nations Sympathetic.

The second meeting was between Mr. Morgenthau's group and spokesmen for importing countries, principally France, Germany and Italy. Here the discussions were of a general character, but the importing states were said to have manifested a sympathetic attitude toward the scheme which would seek to increase their intake of the cereal.

Senator Key Pittman's committee on silver, which was slated to reconvene today, put off its session until tomorrow as a sharp disagreement developed with Spain on proposed restrictions of sales of demonetized silver. The Indian and Chinese delegations also raised objections to various details of the latest draft of the Pittman proposals.

Empire delegates were entertained by the king at luncheon today. Those in attendance included the Prince of Wales, the Duke and Duchess of York, Prince Arthur of Connaught, the Earl and Countess of Athlone, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and Dominions Secretary J. H. Thomas.

Man Indicted in Theft Of Bonds From Liner

Chicago, July 18 (AP).—Ben Warner, alias George Cohen or Benjamin Weiss, was indicted today on a charge of stealing from the United States mails, conspiracy, and possession of stolen property because Federal operatives found five $1,000 Kingdom of Italy bonds in his possession.

The Government alleges the bonds were part of the loot taken from the mail sacks on the S. S. Leviathan last winter. An accomplice, desginated as John Doe, was indicted with Warner on a charge of possessing stolen goods.

Students Take Teacher Appeal to White House

A delegation of students of Western High School went to the White House yesterday in an effort to have their mechanical drawing teacher restored to the school service.

Mrs. Page Kirk, the teacher, resigned at the end of the school year so that her husband, Dr. Edwin Kirk, could keep his position in the Geological Survey. The students presented a petition at the White House asking that Mrs. Kirk be reinstated without impairing her husband's position. The petition was signed by 48 boys. It was received by Marvin McIntyre, secretary to the President.

British, French Take Russian Trade of U. S.

Foreign Nations to Ease Credit Terms in Bid for Business.

New York, July 18 (AP).—England and France, in the view of Russian trade circles tonight, are uneasy over the possibility of American recognition of the U. S. S. R. and are rushing forward with easier credit terms for the Soviets.

Along with word from Paris today that France and Russia are discussing a $22,000,000 order for steel and allied products came advices from London that British firms are looking forward to greatly increased exports to the Soviet Union.

The British, according to the belief held here, are anxious to erase the bitter aftermath of the Metropolitan-Vickers incident — with its embargo on Russian goods—and are ready and willing to listen to the trade proposals of Maxim Litvinov, commissar for foreign affairs and leader of the Russian delegation to the London Economic Conference.

Already, Litvinov's visit to London has proved costly to American exporters.

It was authoritatively learned tonight that one contract with an American industrial firm, calling for purchases upward of $30,000, has been canceled within the last few days and the order placed in England.

The reason assigned for the cancellation was that the British firm granted easier credit.

Plan Revived At Annapolis For Annexation

Mayor Also Is Advocate of Electric Plant Construction.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., July 18.—Annexation of Homewood and Germantown and possibly other surrounding communities, was among the first projects laid before the newly elected city council of Annapolis, which held its initial meeting last night.

The annexation proposal is one of a six-point program prepared by Mayor Walter E. Quenstedt, who entered upon his third term.

A committee was appointed to study the matter. It is not a new issue, having been broached several times during a score of years, but encountered opposition from the Democratic party the fear being that taking in certain suburban areas might materially affect the registered vote of the municipality. While the Republicans have in a number of instances succeeded in electing a mayor and two or more other officials, the Democrats always have maintained voting control in the council.

Mayor Quenstedt also advocates a municipally owned electric plant, which, he says, could be constructed at small cost, and would mean a 50 per cent reduction in rates; city planning and zoning to eliminate filling stations in certain residential sections; placing all electric and telephone wires in underground conduits, and improvement for certain streets.

Paul Smith Named By Rail Engineers

Elected Editor of Journal at Annual Convention of Brotherhood.

Cleveland, July 18 (AP).—Paul Smith, of Chicago, today was elected editor of the Locomotive Engineers Journal at the triennial convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

His election, won over four other candidates, completed selection of major officers who will fill the 11 places on the advisory board for another three years.

W. J. Burke, of Cleveland, and V. F. Feth, of Columbus, were named financial directors.

Five insurance trustees remain to be named, but the forces supporting Grand Chief Engineer Alvanley Johnston, who has been reelected, have won a working majority on the important advisory board over the self-styled "progressive" faction.

Boston Rites Today For Jack Moran

Funeral services for Jack Moran, Department of Commerce aeronautics branch engineer, killed in the crash of an airplane he was testing Saturday at Wilmington, Del., will be held in Boston this afternoon, it was announced here.

Inspectors Joseph S. Marriott and George Gardner, of the department, will fly to Boston this morning to represent their companions, Moran's friends, at the funeral.

Moran was flying a new plane when it plunged into the river. He was rated one of the best test pilots in the country, and had been a member of the aeronautics branch inspection service for several years. It had been believed that a propeller failure caused the crash, since the engine was torn away from the fuselage, but yesterday the propeller and engine were recovered by dragging the river, and the propeller was intact. Moran's home was on Long Island.

Fell's Second Wife Launches Estate Battle

Charges $1,250 Monthly Allowance Is Unpaid Since February.

Philadelphia, July 18 (AP).—A battle over the estate of John R. Fell, socially prominent sportsman of Philadelphia and New York, who died of a stab wound in far-off Java last February, appears to be in prospect as a result of exceptions filed to the final account of his fortune.

Rated at a million some years ago, the estate is reported to have dwindled. What it amounts to now is not definitely known.

It became known today that Mrs. Mildred Santery Fell, the second wife, has filed a petition in orphans' court making exceptions to the account filed by the Pennsylvania Company for Insurances on Lives and Granting Annuities, executor of the estate.

Fell's first wife was the former Dorothy Randolph, now the wife of Ogden L. Mills, former Secretary of the Treasury. His third wife was the former Martha A. Ederton, whom Fell married in January, 1932, and was with him on a tour of the East Indies when he met death.

Authorities in Java reported he had accidentally stabbed himself. He was buried at Whitemarsh, near this city, in May. His stepfather, Alexander Van Rensselaer, art patron, sportsman and philanthropist, died today in Philadelphia.

The second wife, the former Mildred M. Santery, in her petition of exception, alleged Fell had agreed to give her $1,250 a month for the remainder of her life. She avers she has not received anything since February, this year, the month Fell died.

It is understood Fell's will provided for his three children by his first wife to receive the bulk of his estate, and that his third wife is to receive a life interest from a trust fund of more than $400,000 unless she remarries.

The second wife filed her petition because the accountant neglected to include the agreement of December 15, 1931, between Fell and herself. They were divorced in Reno, Nev. According to the agreement, she was to relinquish all further claim upon him in return for the $1,250 a month.

Convention August 8.

There seemed little doubt that the State would definitely join those voting for repeal of the eighteenth amendment, binding the 116 delegates selected today in the same election to vote as a unit for ratification of the twenty-first amendment on August 8.

Four State constitutional amendments voted on in the same election held commanding majorities with the vigorously contested income tax and $20,000,000 warrant issue proposal pulling steadily out in front.

The vote from 996 boxes gave for the income tax 53,697, against 35,834. For the warrant issue 778 boxes gave for 44,229, against 21,530.

Guy, 64, of St. Augustine, Fla., well-known in medical circles for his research and experimental work, suffered a fractured jaw and a possible fracture of the skull yesterday when struck by a truck as he alighted from a street car in the 1500 block of Wisconsin avenue. He was taken to Emergency hospital and his condition is regarded as serious.

Dr. Guy was in Washington for a series of consultations and experiments at Georgetown University. While here he was also visiting with Mrs. E. W. Spink, of Takoma Park, Md., a relative.

Police said the truck was driven by James B. Gilbert, 1335 Wisconsin avenue.

Hispano-America Trade Treaty Talk Started

Madrid, July 18 (AP).—Preliminary negotiations for a new Hispano-American commercial treaty began today with conversations between Claude G. Bowers, United States Ambassador, and Foreign Minister De Los Rios.

Senor De Los Rios said that a commercial treaty with the United States was very important for Spain and for Europe. The regulation of American commerce would have a stabilizing influence on relations between Europe and America, he said.

Spain has important potential markets in America for products like cork, grapes and onions, the minister declared.

Boys Rescued From Potomac After 4 Hours

Undaunted by Experience They Bewail Loss of Catfish.

Two Cabin John boys, Edward DeGroat, 13, and John Donaldson, 8, were marooned on a rock in the channel of the Potomac off Swainsons Island for more than four hours yesterday.

They were rescued by two playmates, William Landis, 13, and George Ankney, 15, who live on Swainsons Island.

The boys had gone fishing early in the morning in a leaky rowboat. The rapid current soon drove the boat onto a rock, where it rapidly filled and sank.

Frightened, the boys took refuge on the rock. Their frantic calls were finally heard by Landis and Ankney, who carried them to safety in their own boat.

The boys were undaunted by their experience, but mourned the loss of their catch, a lone catfish.

Codes to Increase Pay Nearly Ready

officials pointed out that other employers would quickly absorb the discharged workers along with others who have been idle.

Labor leaders were marshaling their forces for a battle on another front when the code of the steel industry, submitted last week, is taken up in public hearings. They insist that the steel men have incorporated in their code provisions directly aimed at organized labor and designed to coerce workers into company controlled unions. All codes, Gen. Johnson told newspaper reporters, would have to embody adequate safeguards for collective bargaining as provided in the recovery act.

There have been 190 codes submitted so far. Others are in preparation and are expected to be submitted within the next few days. Public hearings, preliminary to formal action placing them in effect, have been ordered on eight important codes. Most of the others which have been turned in represent small industries or groups and some obviously do not conform to the requirements of the law.

Won't Fix Prices.

That the codes are not to become vehicles for fixing of prices and the extraction of exorbitant profits was made clear by Gen. Johnson.

"When we find there is a general and even increase in prices in an industry that would indicate prices have been fixed by agreement in violation of the law," he said, "we will take the code away from them, and they will be subject to prosecution by the Attorney General for violation of the antitrust laws, which haven't been repealed by any means."

Among other business which is considered of major importance in the program is that of the retailers. A code has been prepared by the Retail Trade Association, with a membership of 350,000. There are something like 2,000,000 retailers through the country.

In the drive to boost wages little attention will be paid by officials to the percentage of increases proposed for minimum wage bases. The emphasis will be on the actual dollars and cents minimum wage it is proposed to pay and that minimum must be reasonably adequate, Gen. Johnson said.

Another important code which administration officials have been informed is on its way to Washington is that drafted by the automobile industry.

Woman Named "Collector" For Grandfather's Clock

The matter of the grandfather's clock that has reached the attention of the District Supreme Court, appeared to be on its way to an ultimate disposition yesterday when Justice Oscar R. Luhring appointed Marie Dent Carlon "collector" to take over the aged timepiece pending a final settlement of its ownership.

The clock was left by Eugene C. Moxley as his "estate" when he died in May. The W. W. Chambers Undertaking Co., now in possession of it, took the clock pending the reaching of an agreement as to its acceptance in payment of Moxley's $77 funeral bill. Mr. Chambers declared he did not know that the clock cost $1,200. He also denied that any of his agents had "seized" the clock to insure payment of the bill.

Miss Carlon, beneficiary of Moxley's estate, sued in the District Supreme Court Monday to regain the clock, and yesterday she was given authority to take it, provided she posted a bond of $1,000.

Harriman Put In Psychopathy Ward by Judge

Banker Missing 30 Hours Returns to Hospital Dripping Wet

New York, July 18 (AP).—Joseph W. Harriman, with water trickling from his clothes, reappeared late today at the nursing home from which he had disappeared 30 hours earlier, and was committed promptly to the psychopathic ward of Bellevue Hospital.

The 68-year-old indicted banker, object of a search throughout the East, hailed a taxicab shortly before 3:30 p. m. (E. S. T.), telling the driver he had just climbed out of the North River.

"Drive me to 115 East Sixty-first street (the nursing home) in a hurry," Harriman said, after he had given the two other addresses.

"I have fallen into the river and must get to that address at once."

His voluntary reappearance brought prompt service of a warrant for his arrest as a fugitive issued in the morning by Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey, who also had ordered his $25,000 bond forfeited.

Although Harriman's chief counsel, Col. William Donovan, asked for a postponement of arraignment on the warrant, saying the banker had been ordered to bed, he was taken at once to the Federal Building.

In the same courtroom where Judge Caffey has been hearing evidence as to Harriman's mental fitness to stand trial on a charge of falsifying his bank's records, Donovan and U. S. Attorney George Z. Medalie agreed to a proposal that the aged man be sent to Bellevue.

"I think it is not only in the interests of others concerned but in the interests of Mr. Harriman," said Donovan.

Harriman's return ended his second disappearance from the nursing home in two months. After his first escape he was found on May 19 in an obscure Long Island inn, where he attempted to commit suicide by stabbing himself near the heart.

Robert W. Thayer, one of Harriman's attorneys, said the banker told him that accounts of his having been on ferry boats yesterday were "all wrong."

"He said he was not on any ferry boat and spent almost the entire time in the park," added Thayer. "He said he slept on a park bench and didn't eat at all."

Two Men Wounded In Eviction Rioting

Cleveland, July 18 (AP).—Two men were shot and wounded slightly and a third was burned by a tear gas bomb today, as 100 policemen and detectives broke up an eviction riot in which they said 5,000 persons took part.

Frank Wachter, 25, who said he was a bystander, was shot in the right leg. A man who refused to give his name was shot in the left leg and finger, and another, who also refused to identify himself, was burned on the leg by tear gas. At the height of the rioting 60 tear gas bombs were set off.

The disturbance started when a crowd attempted unsuccessfully to carry John Sparanga's furniture back into the house from which he and his family had been evicted.

lightning through every restaurant and dance hall. Shrieking ambulance and police cars added to the bedlam.

Dalglish said he believed the quarrel had its inception after a drink fest at the Pope apartment. Threats and counter threats were passed, it was said.

The pool parlor's walls were sprayed with dozens of bullets. Furrows were plowed on billiard tables and several windows were smashed.

Early today Emergency Hospital physicans indicated they held scant hope for recovery of the two wounded men.

Homicide Squad detectives early this morning were still grilling the group picked up at the rooming house, but announced they had not yet cleared up the motives for the quarrel.

District Holdup Suspect Convicted

Man Sought in Washington Robbery Identified as Gang Leader.

Philadelphia, July 18 (AP).—John Barr, 30, a former convict wanted in connection with a bank holdup in Washington, D. C., was convicted today as one of six men who robbed the Lehigh National Bank of $10,719 last November.

Barr, who will be sentenced later, attempted to show that he had been served with a subpena at the time the bank was robbed. Two of his three codefendants, who all pleaded guilty, testified Barr was leader of the holdup gang.

Those who pleaded guilty are Louis Wagner, Joseph Adams and Harry Johnson. Two others are fugitives.

Barr was arrested here two weeks ago and sent to Philadelphia. He had been identified in the holdup of the Washington Mechanics and Savings Branch Bank April 6.

He and the others mentioned are members of the bank "mob" which has been identified in the robberies of the East Capitol street branch and the Georgia Avenue branch of the Washington Mechanics and Savings Bank.

$325 Taken From Tin Box.

Thieves who broke into the home of Marie Walsh, at 5128 Fulton street northwest, early yesterday morning ransacked the upper floors of the house and took $225, which Miss Walsh cached in a tin box.

Strike in Carolina Reported Growing

Work Said to Be Resumed in Two Plants; Men Stage Parade.

High Point, N. C., July 18 (AP). Announcement of work resumption at two plants and reports of impending walkouts at two others mingled here today as striking workers celebrated with shrieking automobile horns the first anniversary of the local union, which yesterday called approximately 6,000 employes from hosiery and furniture plants.

The day passed quietly. Threats on part of some workers to interfere with the celebration parade failed to materialize and several score cars, bearing placards, passed through the city's business section without molestation.

Demanding wage increases of 25 per cent, the Industrial Workers Association claims manufacturers have broken contracts entered into following a similar shutdown last year when higher wages were promised "as soon as business will permit."

Jobs, Pay Rolls Continue Gains Fourth Month

392,500 Workers Added as Weekly Wages Rise Ten Millions.

look the fact that we are far from being out of the woods of this depression.

"Although the percentage increase in employment and pay rolls has been large, it must be borne in mind that the actual rise in both cases was small as compared with the total number of workers normally employed and the total pay roll normally paid out."

As evidence of the current shrinkage in factory pay rolls from the long-time normal, Secretary Perkins pointed out that for every $10 paid in wages during the average month of 1926, the total for June this year in the establishments surveyed was but $4.31.

"To increase this shrunken purchasing power, and thereby create a market for our industrial output is the task we must accomplish through the codes to be set up under the Industrial Recovery Act," she added.

Beer Aids Expansion.

The continuing expansion of beer production was again reflected in the June employment report. For the month, the beverage group reported factory employment at 160.8 per cent of the 1926, normal, with pay rolls at 151.6 per cent. A year ago employment in the beverage group was but 82.1 per cent of the 1926 figure.

Among 105 industrial groups reported in the Labor Department's monthly survey, 39 showed employment still below a year ago. These declines, however, were more than offset by increases in other groups, to bring up the national total.

"With the exception of the beverage industry, where the legalization of beer has been the cause of a sharp increase in employment, and the aircraft and rayon industries, which were in their infancy seven year ago, there was not a single manufacturing industry in the United States whose pay rolls approached anything like the average for 1926," Secretary Perkins' analysis of the June figures continued.

"The pay rolls of the durable goods industry, like iron and steel, agricultural implements, machine tools, electrical machinery and building materials—industries without whose sustained operation industrial recovery can not be attained—have not yet reached the size that a healthy economic situation demands. Some of these pay rolls are still below a year ago."

Cites Textile Industry.

Secretary Perkins cited the cotton textile industry as a peculiarly impressive example of declining worker purchasing power.

"The cotton goods industry, which consumed more raw cotton in June, 1933, than in any other month for more than 20 years, had a money pay roll which was less than two-thirds of that for 1926. After correction for the decline in the cost of living, the earnings of the workers dependent upon the cotton textile industry were sufficient to absorb about 14 per cent less of the goods of American industry than in 1926."

In expanding her warning against speculative production, Secretary Perkins emphasized the basic theory of the recovery act, that wages should be high enough to move increasing production.

Fire Extinguished At New U. S. Office

Catching fire before the eyes of the night watchman, a blazing pile of insulating material on the doorstep of the new Postoffice Department Building, Eleventh street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, quickly was extinguished by several of the great number of firemen who answered the downtown alarm.

Albert Shipston, of 712 Eighteenth street northwest, who is employed as night watchman, called the Fire Department. He said that the superintendent of construction had told him that the material was combustible and to watch it closely. The new building will house the offices of Postmaster General Farley on completion.

"I'll Blow the Lid Off," Hutton Says of Temple

Los Angeles, July 18 (AP).—Angered by comments of Angelus Temple officials on his divorce suit against Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton, the evangelist's barytone husband, Dave Hutton, tonight threatened to start talking "and blow the lid off Angelus Temple unless the crowd down there lays off."

Federal Help In O'Connell Hunt Is Likely

Investigator Has Belief Kidnaped Man Held on Waterways.

Albany, N. Y., July 18 (AP).—District Attorney John T. Delaney said tonight he considered calling the United States Coast Guard into the search for the kidnaped John J. O'Connell, jr., in the belief that he may be held on a boat in the Hudson or St. Lawrence River or off the New England Coast.

Delaney said he was "seriously considering" asking the Federal Government to search the waterways, and indicated he would act within the near future. Thomas F. Cullen, chief agent of the Department of Justice, in charge of the Eastern States, agreed to give the district attorney complete cooperation.

Within the small circle of those "in the know" it was believed that the young National Guard lieutenant, nephew of Democratic dictators, would be released by his abductors within 36 hours.

O'Connell, whose uncles are Edward J. O'Connell, county chairman, and Daniel P. O'Connell, has been held 12 days for a ransom of $250,000.

A personal advertisement in today's New York World-Telegram, presumably in connection with the kidnaping, read:

"Roma: Please get in touch with me.

"(Signed) Manney."

The names in the ad were considered to be those of two of the intermediaries listed in the last group offered by the O'Connells. "Roma" was believed to mean Fred Roma, a hotel operator, and "Manney," Manney Strewl, employed by a beer-distributing agency.

While Dan O'Connell denied that the family knew of the newspaper message, he remarked: "It's a very encouraging sign."

Schenectady, N. Y., July 18 (AP).—Acting on a tip that young John J. O'Connell, jr., was being held by his abductors in an unoccupied building near Broadway and Hamilton streets, Schenectady police tonight searched the neighborhood armed with shotguns, rifles, tear gas and other weapons. The area is an old mill district with many untenanted buildings.

The tip came from a man who said he overheard a conversation between four or five men to the effect that each was to get $10,000 for the O'Connell kidnaping. His name was withheld by police. Police found nothing to indicate a hideout in any of the buildings searched.

Scout Injured in Fall Threatened by Tetanus

Robert Guy, 11-year-old cub scout, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Guy, of 3518 S street northwest, is said to be in a serious condition at Childrens Hospital from a broken arm he suffered while on a summer farm for children near Manassas, Va., about a week ago.

The boy fell from a cherry tree and fractured his arm. Rushed to the Washington hospital, his condition was thought not to be serious, but symptoms of tetanus appeared and his condition is uncertain. He is a member of the Washington Presbyterian Church Cub Scout pack.

Steak Dispute

"Jim" Ferguson Disagrees With Hotel on $1.25 as Price for Meat.

Is a beefsteak weighing one-third of a pound served in a hotel dining room worth $1.25?

Former Gov. "Jim" Ferguson of Texas, in an interview with Capital reporters, declared it wasn't. He said he recently sold for 2½ cents a pound some 3-year-old beef steers he had fed for five months at a cost of 10 cents a day.

H. P. Sommerville, manager of the Willard Hotel, says it is.

Expenses for laundry, music, menus, china, glass, silver, linen, kitchen fuel, rent, taxes, interest and wages for serving make the raw material of which the former governor was speaking worth $1.25 as one-third of a pound of beefsteak.

Sommerville told Gov. "Jim" so in a letter yesterday.

Roosevelt Criticized For Repeal Efforts

Charlotte, N. C., July 18 (AP).—In an appeal to North Carolina and the South to vote dry, Bishop Edwin D. Mouzon, of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, said today President Roosevelt by his support of prohibition repeal has given "genuine pain to millions of his most loyal supporters."

"And when he sends into the South Postmaster General Farley, chief dispenser of political jobs," Bishop Mouzon continued, "to urge loyal Democrats to vote for repeal, he is doing a thing that ought not to be done."

Lithuanian Mausoleum To Honor Dead Fliers

New York, July 18 (AP).—The Lithuanian Consul General in New York announced today that a mausoleum will be erected in Kaunas, Lithuania, for the bodies of Stephen Daruis and Stanley Girenas, Lithuanian-American aviators who were killed in the crash of their plane in Germany while attempting to fly from New York to their native land.

The consul general's announcement said a high mass will be celebrated in Kaunas Thursday and the bodies will be interred temporarily until the mausoleum can be built.

Road Program To Be Revised For Arlington

Streets to Be Chosen for Paving Without Affecting Sewerage Plans.

While the major road-building program as outlined by the Arlington County board has been delayed until it is definitely learned if funds for a county-wide sewer system can be obtained from the Federal Government, County Manager Roy S. Braden announced last night that he will present to the board at its meeting July 31 a list of streets that will not be affected by laying of the main trunk line for the sewer.

Braden said he will recommend that roads not affected by sewer construction and which are included in the road-building program be improved now.

"It is to the advantage of the county to have as much road work done now as is possible, providing it does not interfere with sewerage construction, as prices are now lower than they will be later," he said.

He pointed out that it would be false economy to proceed with the road program and then tear up the roads to lay sewers. He stated that the estimates which have been prepared for the construction of the system have been checked by outstanding sanitary engineers and found correct.

The newly elected officers of Arlington Lodge, No. 193, I. O. O. F., were installed last night at the Odd Fellows Hall in Clarendon. The ceremonies were conducted by C. E. Reynolds, district deputy grand master of Odd Fellows in Virginia.

Two colored youths from the Maryland Reform School at Cheltenham, Md., were arrested yesterday on charges of entering Mumford's Store at Reds Corner, Md., early Monday morning. Approximately $4 in change and a quantity of cigarettes and clothing were taken.

Prince Georges County Policeman William G. Gray, who made the arrest, said the boys, Frank Johnson, 14, and Junior Shoemaker, 17, were allowed to go about as they pleased and apparently had not been checked Sunday night. They were returned to the school.

Fairfax County Outlines Plans For Primaries

Voters May Write in Name of Favorite Candidate on State Ballot.

Rules for conducting the Democratic primaries in Fairfax County were adopted last night at a meeting of the Democratic executive committee at Fairfax Courthouse.

Because of the death of Edmund H. Allen, candidate for the House of Delegates, after the ballots were printed, the committee ruled that should a ballot be unchanged by a voter, the vote will go to the other candidate whose name appears on the ballot, L. C. Painter.

However, it also was ruled that if a person wishes to cast his vote for any other qualified Democrat, lines should be drawn through Allen's and Painter's names, and the name of the other choice written in.

These rules were adopted after an opinion from the assistant attorney general of Virginia, Edwin H. Gibson.

The committee also decided to hold no primary nor convention for the special election of August 15, to fill the vacant seat in the House of Delegates. Candidates are John C. Mackall and Herbert F. Williams.

The following were named to draw up a motion of regret at the death of Mr. Allen: W. H. Lamb, Samuel H. Styles, Charles Pickett and Mrs. E. S. Vosbury.

County Heads Ban Brewery In Tuxedo, Md.

Prince Georges Officials Refuse to Change Area to Business Zone.

There will be no brewery built near Tuxedo, Md.

Prince Georges County officials yesterday turned a deaf ear to the long-debated plea to rezone the Cheverly-Tuxedo area from a residential to an industrial tract.

Appearing before the regular meeting of the county commissioners at Marlboro, representatives for and against the project engaged in heated arguments in presenting their contentions. Order was maintained with difficulty.

Marvin Peach, attorney for William P. Magruder, owner of the land under discussion, opened the session by presenting a petition signed, he said, by several hundred property owners.

Seeks Small Section.

"There is no need for the rezoning of 40 or 50 acres," he declared. "We would be content with 10 or 15 acres. The land along the Pennsylvania Railroad is already being used for industrial purposes. This has not been questioned. As for the use of this land for a national park, it is the last tract that will be converted to such. And if the brewery were there at such a time, the Government would not hesitate to confiscate it."

Magruder declared 100 per cent of the Tuxedo residents favor the proposed establishment.

"The Cheverly people are chronic kickers," he continued. "A Washington concern once desired to build a packing house in the county, and no one kicked but Cheverly. If you take the advice of these people, then you don't want to be the commissioners. They will run the county."

Cites Park Project.

Irving C. Root, of the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, opened the opposition's counter attack. Backing him, it was indicated by the large crowd that packed the commissioners' office, were many Cheverly citizens.

"If this area becomes industrial any one will be allowed to build. It will be detrimental to the future Federal park scheme, which is the building of a park along Beaver Dam Creek to connect the Anacostia development."

Root then referred to the hearing, several months ago, at the Cheverly-Tuxedo School which nearly ended in disorder. He said that after the hearing the Park and Planning Commission, which controls, in subordination to the county commissioners, the Metropolitan area, had met several times on the matter. The final decision was to disapprove the project.

Property Values Pointed Out.

R. W. Bellamy, of Cheverly, told the commissioners that the residents of Cheverly had put their life savings in their property with the understanding that it would never be rezoned for such purposes.

Bellamy was followed by Robert W. McCullough, of the Cheverly town council, who pleaded for protection of home owners.

Mayor Fred W. Gast pointed out that the property now occupied by the town had increased in value from $6,000 to $800,000. This would revert, in a great degree, to its original value if the brewery were built, he said.

Chevy Chase Asks Repairs to Gutters

Will Seek Public Works Loan for Municipal Improvements.

The relaying and repairing of gutters will constitute the major part of this year's improvements in Chevy Chase, Md. Bids for the laying of concrete gutters on Rosemary street and for the relaying of those on Blackthorn street and the east side of Meadow lane, from Blackthorn to Leland will be considered at a meeting of the citizens' committee of section 4 tomorrow.

The section has made application for a 30 per cent grant under the national recovery act, which, if obtained, will enable the Rosemary street improvements to cover the entire length of the street. Otherwise, the gutters will be laid only from Connecticut avenue to Tower Circle.

In section 2, funds usually needed for extensive street repairs will be used for gutter improvement and general maintenance work.

Justice McCoy Rites on Friday At Cambridge

Burial Saturday to Be at Troy, N. Y., Birthplace of Jurist, 73.

Funeral services for Walter I. McCoy, former chief justice of the District Supreme Court, who died Monday at the home of a daughter in Cambridge, Mass., will be held Friday at 2:30 p. m.

Following services in Christ Church, Cambridge, the body will be taken to Troy, N. Y., for interment in Oakwood Cemetery, Saturday.

Ill for more than a year, the former chief justice took a turn for the worse only a few days ago. So weak had he grown that a petition filed in District Supreme Court last Saturday by himself and two sons was signed with his mark.

Justice McCoy, who was 73 years old, made his home here in the Ontario Apartments. He served on the Supreme Court bench for 11 years, being succeeded by the present chief justice, Alfred A. Wheat.

Princeton and Harvard Graduate.

A native of Troy, N. Y., Justice McCoy was a graduate of both Princeton and Harvard Universities. He practiced law in New York from 1886 to 1911. He abandoned practice upon his election to Congress as a representative from the Eighth New Jersey District. He later served in the House from the Ninth District of the same State.

On October 5, 1914, he was appointed an associate justice of the District Supreme Court. He was named chief justice May 31, 1918, and retired 11 years later at the age of 70.

Justice McCoy served as a delegate to the Democratic national conventions in 1904 and 1908. He was once vice president of the Essex County, N. J., Democratic committee and attended various county and State conventions of his party.

The former chief justice was noted for his unerring judgment on the District Supreme Court bench. First offenders brought consideration, but hardened criminals were meted just punishment. He imposed sentences as high as 40 years for robbery under arms.

Lost Son in War.

The loss of a son, George Baldwin McCoy, during the World War aroused unending sympathy in behalf of former service men.

Justice McCoy held membership in the Cosmos Club, the Kirkside Golf Club, the New York Bar Association and the New Jersey and New York Harvard Clubs. He was past president of the Alfalfa Club, being succeeded by Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada.

He is survived by his children, Percy B. McCoy, Philbrick McCoy, Catherine B. McCoy and Dr. Eleanor Holman McCoy.

W. W. Millan, president of the District Bar Association, formally notified the court of Justice McCoy's death. Justice Oscar Luhring immediately adjourned proceedings as a token of respect. Mr. Millan submitted a resolution of sympathy for the bereaved family.

Two Spotted Fever Cases in Maryland

First Typhoid Fever Also Found in Prince Georges by Health Officer.

Following a recent report from the Prince Georges County health department, which showed the county to be free from spotted fever, two cases of the disease were reported yesterday by Dr. A. B. Hooton, health officer.

In addition to the spotted fever, the first case of typhoid fever was also reported.

"Both victims of the spotted fever," Dr. Hooton said, "are young women. One of the women had a definite history of a tick bite. The origin of the other case is not so easy to determine. Both are expected to recover."

Federal Aids Linked in Crash Of Large Bank

Quiz Shows Cleveland Board, Officers Withdraw $2,000,000.

Cleveland, July 18 (AP).—More than $2,000,000 was withdrawn from the Guardian Trust Co. by officers, directors and stockholders a short time before it was closed, the State Senate's special banking committee was told today.

This testimony, presented by A. H. Ganger, assistant in the investigation, came on the heels of a statement by Irving Silbert, accountant, that the bank loaned money to one president and one former high official of the Cleveland Federal Reserve Bank.

Mr. Silbert said E. R. Fancher, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank, and George DeCamp, former chairman of the board of the same bank, both borrowed from the Guardian.

Loan to Fancher.

Mr. Fancher's loan, made jointly with A. W. Dean, a director of the Guardian, on February 5, 1931, amounted to $53,201, according to Mr. Silbert. Mr. DeCamp's loans at one time totaled $40,000, the witness said.

The Fancher-Dean loan was repaid on February 10, 1933, just 10 days before the Guardian went on a restricted withdrawal basis. At present the Decamp loans, Mr. Silbert continued, stand at $12,500 in unsecured loans and $16,500 secured by collateral now valued at $3,824.

Mr. Silbert told the committee that on a loan card in the Guardian's records he found a notation by A. B. Cook, vice president, saying:

"Because of Fancher's connection with the Federal Reserve Bank, we can not press for payment." That was early in 1932.

Insurance Policy Security.

The Fancher-Dean loan was described during testimony concerning the Enos Coal Co., of which Mr. Dean is a treasurer. This loan was secured by a $390,000 insurance policy in the name of George A. Enos of the coal company, operating in Pike County, Indiana, which also secured other borrowings.

Mr. Silbert testified that the coal company and its 22-mile railroad, the Algiers, Winslow and Western, withdrew $57,000 from the Guardian in the last few days it was open on a full basis. The coal company and the railroad had a total indebtedness to the bank of $1,300,000, he said.

A COOLING BREEZE

Your NEW CAR —be sure it is MODERN —as well as— NEW!

The 4-door Sedan, $695, f.o.b. Pontiac. Body by Fisher. Special equipment extra.

just where you want it!

"Fisher Controlled Ventilation"—here's a magic phrase that means more than you can believe till you've experienced it yourself.

At a turn of a handle you adjust ventilators—get the breeze just where you want it, and in just the volume you want.

And speed of travel doesn't make any difference—for a turn of the wrist adjusts the breeze to suit you. It is really controlled ventilation, you see—and you, yourself, control it, not the speed of the car or the direction of the breeze.

This one feature alone would make Pontiac an outstanding car compared with others at or near its price.

But Pontiac gives more. It is a Straight Eight, with a 77-horsepower engine that gives 78 real miles per hour.

It is a big car—115-inch wheelbase, and due to its balanced weight and design, it gives you safety, comfort, durability.

All this may lead you to think of Pontiac as a costly car. But its first cost is low and as for operating, ask any Pontiac owner, and you'll learn that it is giving 15 miles or more to the gallon.

Try a demonstration. Note how easily it handles; how smooth it is; how comfortable and roomy. And don't forget that it takes a Straight Eight to give Straight Eight performance.

Be sure to try Fisher Controlled Ventilation. You'll be amazed and delighted. No car can be really modern without this comfort feature.

Ask your dealer for a copy of the booklet, "What do you mean —Balanced Value." It is free.

Arlington Due To Participate In Fire Parade

County Volunteers Accept Invitation to Join Labor Day Fete.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 809. Clarendon, Va.

The Arlington-Fairfax Counties Volunteer Firemen's Association, meeting last night, accepted an invitation extended by Sergt. A. J. Bargagni to participate in the Labor Day firemen's parade in Washington.

Sergt. Bargagni, general chairman in charge of the arrangements, said that had it not been for the support of The Washington Post the parade, which has been an annual event, would not have been made possible this year.

Outlining the program, he said it is proposed to have a three-day affair, instead of a one-day affair, with the parade. The committee will seek a proclamation by President Roosevelt setting Saturday before Labor Day as "National Firemen's Day."

That afternoon a trip will be made to Mount Vernon, where a wreath will be placed on the tomb of Washington, "The First Volunteer Fireman." On Sunday it is planned to hold memorial services as a tribute to firemen all over the country who have lost their lives in line of duty.

In the evening the annual convention of the National Firemen's Association will be held. On Monday the annual parade will be held, starting at 11 o'clock.

George Finger, of Capitol Heights, Md., organizer of the national association, stressed the value of such an organization to the firemen of the country.

The association, on motion of Herbert F. Smith, of the Clarendon department, indorsed the national organization, and President G. Frank Allwine announced that each company would be represented as well as a delegate at large from the association.

William D. Medley, Democratic nominee for the House of Delegates from Arlington County, addressed the association, pledging his support in the interest of the firemen.

The association voted to hold its annual field day and hook-up contest the last Saturday in August.

The president appointed H. F. Smith, of Clarendon department; Percey Finisecy, of Jefferson department, and J. R. Malloch, of the Ballston department, committee on arrangements.

WE rather like the way Clarence C. Weidemann, Coast and Geodetic Survey editor, keeps his office in order. Clarence has ideas, progressive ideas. And when a man or woman has ideas it shows he or she is using his mind. We can not have the first without using the second.

Clarence, among his other many duties, has the job of seeing that all manuscript headed from the Survey to G. P. O. bears the proper directions. Rubber stamps are used for various classes of materials. Instead of having the stamps exposed lying around the desk, or on one of those revolving stamp stands he keeps his stamps in a filing cabinet arranged in good order and in easy reach.

We have not known Clarence always but we have heard he always has a place for everything and keeps everything in its place.

Prayer for the Unemployed.

Oh, Lord, let us but have a job, as now we join the idle mob under thy boundless sky. Of patience we've displayed our best; we've met this world's ruthless test. Must we pass on—to die?

We've toiled faithfully for years oppressed by weariness and fears, and did it with a smile, and through the dark, depressing hours we've shown courageous staying powers down many a weary mile.

We ask but one thing in Thy name—not wealth, nor power, nor great fame, as humbly as we can: A task to do, a life that's free from suffering and charity—the right to be a man!—Walter A Thorne, Agriculture Experimental Farm, Beltsville, Md.

CIVILIAN Navy Yard employes are required to show their passes to Marine sentries when going through the gates. Sometimes a new sentry is on duty. He confronts a man who just walks into the yard without showing any pass. And when the poor Marine learns he is a naval officer in civilian dress, it is comical to see him almost break his right arm, jerking it into a salute.

A COMMITTEEMAN reported sale of 28 tickets yesterday to the Federal Diary-I. W. L. A.-Outdoorsmen First Annual Salt Water Rodeo, Tilghman, Saturday and Sunday. The affair threatens to be a sellout, not so much so that there will not be ample accommodation for all.

"Those who want tickets must act quickly," said Chairman Francis Barstow last night. "They are going fast."

We tried to get the weather forecast for Tilghman for the two days. It is not available beyond the fact that there will be ample weather, enough for everyone. This is the open season for weather. But rain or shine at Tilghman the fish are munching bait. See last Sunday's Outdoorsmen column for proof.

The prize list and rules were published in The Federal Diary yesterday morning. Pick the prize you want and go to it. Bring your outdoors attire. Pulling fish from the Chesapeake is no rocking chair job. Rock bass, hardheads and blues hereby issue you their challenge, "Catch me if you can." And may the best men and the best fish win the best prizes.

Sorry to say, that for those who wish to attend church Sunday morning, however, the nearest church is 25 miles away from Tilghman. This will answer the question of a correspondent we would like to see make the trip.

IN a current movie program here there is an organlogue. And in that organlogue is the "Parade of Presidents," skipping from Coolidge to Roosevelt. In a newsreel on the same bill Herbert Hoover appears and is given a good hand, on a par with that given the President. . . . It would not be surprising to see the next drive directed against brother and sister in Government employ. . . . Mother and young son on corner. Son wearing flaming red whoopee sox and tie. The kid seems unmanageable. Can you blame him? . . . Capital City Spelling Club will picnic at Franklin Park Saturday at 3 p. m., E. C. Helm, president, announces. Two picnics were held last year. Meanwhile, the weekly contest will be tonight at 7:30 at Mount Pleasant Library. There still is a standing offer to any outsider who can spell down Willard S. Smith, Navy. . . . We recommend that razor blade sharpener demonstrator in window on Fourteenth street to assist Secretary Roper in telling the difference between inefficiency and comparative efficiency. The demonstrator splits hairs, too.

Consider field forces in various bureaus. No funds, they are dismissed or recalled to Washington. Then public works money is to be had and out they go again. Expenses back and forth. Lost motion. Time lost from the job . . . 'Tis better to delete than be deleted. So says Paul Cook, Merchandising Research, Commerce, who has resigned to enter a job on the outside. There goes the start of a lot of Government talent. Watch, after the depression clouds lift definitely . . . It's "Good night, chief," to the men in Commerce leaving work after working hours, when Amos S. Jackson(*), guard, salutes each as he passes. (Let's see if Mr. Jackson reads The Federal Diary.)

The Lost Words

(With apologies to the author of "The Lost Chord").

Seated one day at my typewriter, I was discouraged and ill at ease, and my fingers wandered idly over the lettered keys; I know not of what I was thinking or what inspired me then, but I wrote some words of hope and cheer for my furloughed fellowmen.

They echoed through the quiet office like the close of a angel's psalm, and they soothed my unhappy spirit with a feeling of infinite calm; they quieted all my worries like the touch of friendly hands, my fears, too anent the salary cuts and payless furlough plans.

And when disappeared that paper with the words I had written thereon, like a flash of light in the darkness, my inspiration was gone; I have sought, but I seek them vainly those long-lost words divine, which came from the soul of the typewriter, and entered ihto mine; it may be that in some near future, when I think of my fellowmen, I'll sit again at the typewriter, and write those words again.—Mathilde M. Carpenter, Division of Insects, U. S. National Museum.

British Bridge Team Has Lead Over American

England Scores 30,550 to 29,150 for U. S. in Trophy Play.

London, July 18 (AP)—The British team, after having its lead whittled down below the 1,000 mark, came back to lead the American team by 1,400 points when the second day of the Anglo-Amercian contract bridge match was concluded tonight on the ninety-sixth hand.

The score stood: England, 30,550; United States, 29,150.

The match is at 300 boards of duplicate, with 50 scheduled daily, for a throphy posted by Charles M. Schwab, of the United States.

Beginning the afternoon play 1,170 points down, Ely Culbertson, leader of the American team, and his companions were unable to make much progress for 14 hands, and the American captain used a favorite phrase, "wrecked on the invisible rocks of distribution."

At the interval for tea, however, there was a big swing in favor of the Americans, when Col. H. M. Beasley, of the British group, brought in Graham Matheson in his place. Points went sailing away as the new player, obviously nervous, blundered often and England's lead dropped to 920 points.

The home team bucked up, however, and the afternoon session closed with their lead just 10 points less than those with which it was started.

Cooperation Against Crime.

Attorney General Cummings complains of lack of cooperation on the part of the public with law enforcement officers. "It is not the habit of the people to go to law enforcement agencies for the solution of their problems," he says. "The public does not want to be drawn into crime situations. They do not cooperate with law enforcement agencies. There must be developed a new psychology."

The complaint is undoubtedly a valid one, but it is not enough merely to call upon the public to cooperate in the enforcement of law. People in some communities make efforts to protect themselves from the underworld because they do not trust their local police. It is a matter of profound regret, but this lack of confidence is all too frequently justified. In many of the large American cities the police have proved unequal to the task of protecting the people from desperate criminals. Efforts to solve crimes are too often feeble, and corruption sometimes prevents the arm of the law from reaching the most dangerous characters.

Lack of cooperation in kidnaping cases was given special mention by the Attorney General. Families of the victims usually entreat the police not to interfere with their efforts to make contacts with the kidnapers and pay the ransom demanded. Every one realizes that this attitude merely encourages kidnapers and increases the probability that some other member of the family will be jeopardized in the future. But in their anxiety of the moment distressed families are inclined to think only of the safe return of their loved ones. Something should be done to counteract this attitude, but mere pleas for cooperation will not be sufficient. A strong sentiment against the payment of ransom to kidnapers might be developed over a period of years if more effective protection against the kidnap menace were provided.

Witnesses are frequently intimidated. Sometimes they disappear, or they may be "taken for a ride." Mr. Cummings realizes, of course, that it is difficult to get a citizen to testify against criminal gangs if that act would place his life in danger. The instinct to live is far stronger in the average man than the urge to help the administration of justice. If the State should manifest ability to protect citizens who contribute to the solution of crimes and the destruction of organized gangs, a more cooperative spirit could be expected.

It is the state that must lead the way toward cooperation. There is, of course, a great need for aroused public sentiment on the crime issue. But nothing would more effectively rally the American people in support of law enforcement than a determined and effective drive against lawless elements. A revival of confidence in law enforcement agencies might produce a remarkable change in the attitude of the people.

From Ethiopia.

From far-off Addis-Ababa comes Ras Desta Demtu, Prince of Ethiopia, on a special mission from his august master, the Emperor Haile Halassi. He will be entertained at luncheon today by the President, but the exact nature of his errand has not been disclosed to public gaze.

The ties between Ethiopia and the United States were knitted during the regime of Theodore Roosevelt by one of his gifted foreign agents—Robert P. Skinner, now Ambassador to Turkey. With a keen scent for development of foreign trade, and encouraged by the far-seeing President, Mr. Skinner made the then incredible journey from the seacoast to Addis-Ababa and negotiated a treaty with Menelik II, King of Kings of Ethiopia.

The report concerning the possibilities of commerce between Ethiopia and the United States stamped Mr. Skinner as a poet and a seer. He cited the fact that stores of ivory, beeswax, goatskins, nuts, and other Ethiopian products were available in exchange for the prosaic goods of America. He named strange roots and herbs of medicinal value. He foresaw the building of a railroad to Addis-Ababa from Jibuti. He pictured the Ethiopians as waiting to transform their country into a beehive of industry under the stimulus of commercial relations with the mysterious land of America. Like Pistol of old, he could exclaim, "I speak of Africa and golden joys." His treaty was transmitted to the Senate, approved by that body March 12, 1904, and proclaimed September 4 of that memorable year.

Many moons have waxed and waned since Menelik II and "Bob" Skinner sat under Abyssinian awnings and talked of world trade. Menelik is gone, and another Roosevelt is here. The expected argosies of beeswax, ivory and goatskins have not crowded the seas, nor has the demand of Ethiopia for American products lifted this country from the curse of depression; but there is friendship, firm friendship, between the powers concerned, and when the world has recovered its sanity there may be a rich interchange between them. In the meantime Bob Skinner pursues the will-o'-the-wisp of world trade at Angora, and the Prince Ras Desta Demtu is welcomed in Washington.

District Parks.

Senator King's proposal to place parks that are maintained by local taxes under control of the District government brings into bold relief the strange relationship existing between the Federal and District governments. The District pays for the upkeep of the parks in question, but they are under the control of a Federal agency. Senator King proposes that the governmental unit which finances these recreational centers should also have jurisdiction over them.

Under President Roosevelt's reorganization order control over Rock Creek Park, East and West Potomac Parks and various smaller park areas in Washington would pass to the Interior Department. At present these parks are in charge of the office of Public Buildings and Public Parks. Under the new regime it is assumed that their management would be allied to the National Park Service, which is also in the Interior Department.

It is difficult to harmonize this reorganization with the nature of the parks involved. The national parks are maintained by the Government for the benefit of the entire country. They are distinctly national projects. Rock Creek, on the other hand, is a municipal park. It serves the needs of District residents. Congress recognizes that fact by compelling District taxpayers to pay for its upkeep. Why, then, should it continue to be controlled by a Federal agency, with the probability that it will be merged with the national park system?

District officials might not object if the Interior Department proposed to finance as well as to manage these park areas. It is true, of course, that all parks in the Federal City are of national importance. Washington is required to maintain a more elaborate park system than would be justified by municipal needs. But there is no prospect of the Government assuming these maintenance charges. The issue is whether the Government should continue to manage the local parks while compelling District taxpayers to finance them.

At present the control of Washington parks is divided between two agencies. Economy and more efficient management might be expected from the transfer of jurisdiction over parks to the governmental unit which pays the cost of their maintenance.

Wiley Post's Endurance.

The chief marvel of Wiley Post's spectacular flight around the top of the world is not the endurance of the machine, but the endurance of the man. He arrived at Irkutsk, Siberia, yesterday morning, having made more than half of his journey of 15,400 miles, but fatigue and lack of sleep were taking heavy toll of his strength. Nevertheless, he was eager to press on to Khabarovsk, 1,300 miles further on, from which point he is to undertake the leap across Bering Sea to Nome.

Post expected to relieve his one-man vigil in the air by utilizing a "robot" steering mechanism, but this apparatus was a failure. It misdirected him on the flight after leaving Moscow, and he was forced to land twice before reaching Novosibirsk. He remained there less than three hours, although nearly exhausted. And yet he made the Novosibirsk-Irkutsk lap at his usual speed and with his customary accurate sense of direction.

The airplane in which Post is making his flight is the tested machine which carried him and his companion, Harold Gatty, over the same route two years ago. The plane has performed wonderfully, but its powers of endurance are rivaled by the pilot, who, when he arrived at Irkutsk, had flown more than 72 hours with only brief periods of rest and still briefer periods of sleep.

The most dangerous stretch of Post's route lies between Khabarovsk and Nome. The Sea of Okhotsk, Kamchatka and Bering Sea are rarely clear of storms and fog. "Jimmie" Mattern had nearly spanned this treacherous region when his airplane failed and forced him to land almost within sight of Bering Sea. If Post is fortunate he will pass over Mattern, who is still in Siberia. The lone flier hopes to arrive in New York next Sunday, a few hours ahead of the Post-Gatty record of 8 days, 15 hours and 51 minutes.

Beer vs. Grasshoppers.

Gov. Berry of South Dakota furnishes an example of State self-reliance that should not be lost on Gov. Ruby Laffoon of old Kentucky. While Gov. Laffoon receives a jolt from Director Hopkins of the Federal dole system, notifying him that the invigorating stream from Washington will dry up unless Kentucky does something on its own account for its unemployed, Gov. Berry takes steps to meet the drought and grasshopper emergency by proposing "to pass a beer revenue bill in South Dakota, the proceeds therefrom to be appropriated in whole or in part for the required relief."

Not long ago Gov. Berry refused to call an extra session of the legislature to enact beer legislation. It was pointed out that the State was losing revenue because its citizens were quenching their thirst in neighboring States, but Gov. Berry stood firm. Then the drought came, and after it the grasshoppers. They created a condition, and not a theory. The State is faced with an unemployment and distress emergency. There is no alternative but to set up a system whereby the thirst of drought-stricken and grasshopper-ridden citizens will be capitalized into a relief fund. And why not? South Dakotans can kill two birds with one stone by drinking beer at home, and they will be within the law besides.

Chief Justice McCoy.

Washington mourns the death of Walter I. McCoy, former Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. After brilliant service in Congress from New Jersey, Chief Justice McCoy was appointed to the District bench by President Wilson. He served as associate justice for four years and was then appointed Chief Justice, serving until 1929.

In all the years of service on the District bench Chief Justice McCoy steadily rose in prestige as a jurist and in the affection of the people as a man. He became a devoted Washingtonian and gave freely of his time and experience in promoting the welfare of the Capital. His genial disposition and broad culture, both in literature and the law, made him a delightful companion who will be sorely missed by the many distinguished public men who were his associates.

Having declared that failure of the London conference would be a catastrophe amounting to a world tragedy, Secretary Hull ends the comedy by packing up to come home.

With Ickes pushing and Douglas pulling, there should be a fine balance struck between parsimony and pork.

If Homer Cummings will catch and imprison a few kidnapers he will not find any lack of popular support.

On further consideration, it is decided that industry does not care for a blanket this summer.

Handing Out Jobs.

By Postmaster General James A. Farley, in the American Magazine.

With a new administration assuming power, the question of who shall get the 150,000 appointive Federal jobs takes on unusual importance—particularly so with at least 1,500,000 men and women applicants. My job as arbiter is a tough one. For every person I please I am bound to disappoint ten others.

First of all, let me summarize the Federal job situation. There are approximately 750,000 jobs. Of these about 600,000, or 80 per cent, are under the civil service. In other words, the new administration has nothing to say about the vast majority of Federal positions. The Democrats have the right, however, to supplant one-fifth, or 150,000, of the Federal officeholders.

This patronage, consisting of those 150,000 jobs, is one of the chief assets of a party in office. We might as well recognize it frankly for what it is.

I was very careful, during the campaign, not to make any definite promises or commitments. It wasn't necessary to do so. Long before November I knew that a tidal wave was coming. I knew that Mr. Roosevelt had a tremendous task before him, and I did not want him to enter office fettered by obligations.

How shall these 150,000 jobs be distributed? That is serious, not only to the people who will get the jobs, but to the Democratic party, and most of all to the taxpayers who will pay the bill. What principles shall I follow in my recommendations, and why?

I am following two fundamental rules: (1) Is the applicant qualified? (2) Is he loyal to the party and sympathetic toward the program of Franklin D. Roosevelt?

I think it is only fair that those men who worked to put Mr. Roosevelt into the Presidency should be given jobs in the Federal service and be given an opportunity to help him carry out his program. I think it is not only fair, but reasonable and intelligent as a policy.

Before attempting to defend this proposition, let me state it more clearly and definitely. We call those Federal officeholders who are exempt from civil service requirements the "exempt list." I am an old baseball player, and I like to call things straight. Any Republican on the exempt list has a chance of reappointment—but he has two strikes on him.

If he is a wizard in his own field, if he knows more about his job than anybody else—he will hold his position. But if there is a Democrat just as well qualified, that Democrat will get the job.

And among the Democrats who are qualified, who will get the first chance at the job? The F. R. B. C. men. That means the men who were "for Roosevelt before Chicago." The Democrats who jumped on the bandwagon later are next in line. If they are the best qualified—they will get the jobs.

I don't think any master of patronage has ever stated the proposition so frankly before. And now that I have stated my attitude, I should like to give my reasons for it.

Often, in reading editorials, I have seen a sentence like this: "Will Farley make his appointments by merit, or by politics?"

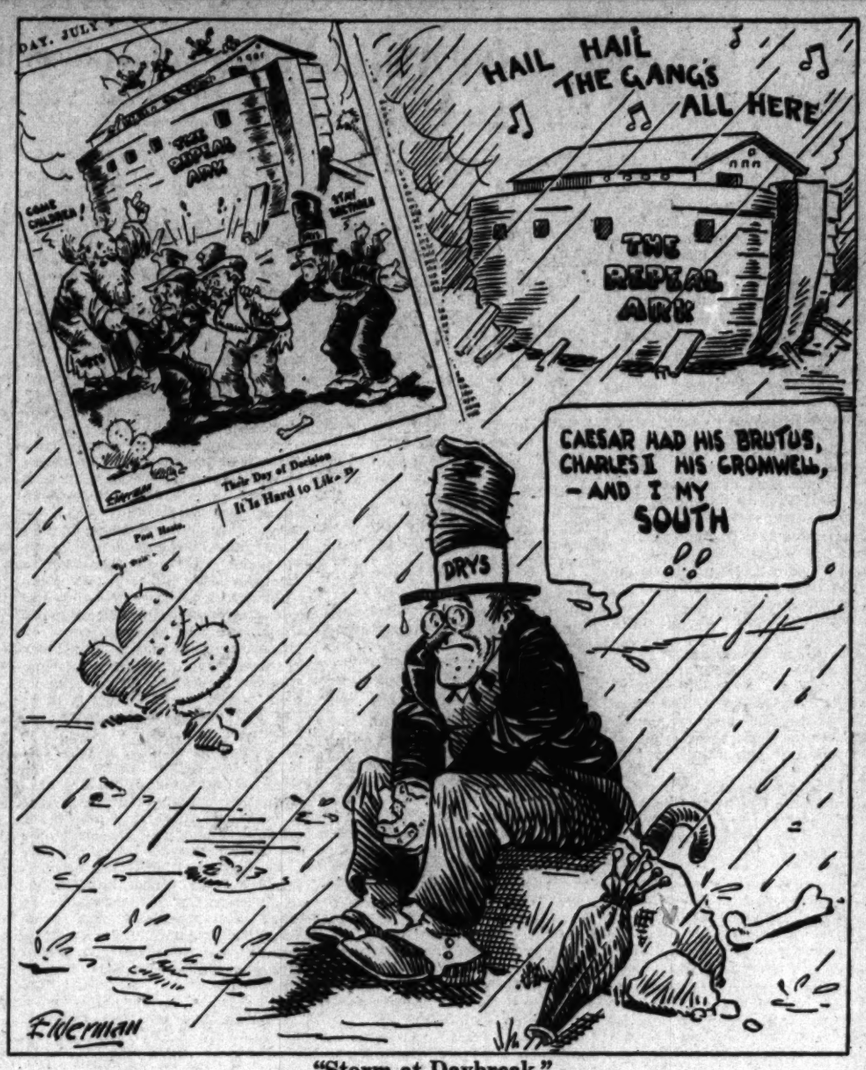
I should like to suggest to these editorial writers that merit and politics occasionally mean the same thing.

But why, the ordinary citizen may ask, do we replace Republicans with Democrats? If the Republicans have done their jobs adequately, why call in new men?

If you have ever played baseball, you know that loyalty and teamwork are the most important factors in any team. Individual brilliancy is worthless unless that individual is working for the success of the team. We want no man in public office who isn't pulling and working and fighting for the success of Mr. Roosevelt's program. A man may be a fine executive, but unless he's willing to work hard all day and sit up all night to help along the President's plans, we don't want him.

In other words, loyalty is an aspect of merit.

One of my chief duties, then, is to pass on the loyalty of the applicants. Politics, the editorial writers hint, enters into my consideration. Of course it does.



"Storm at Daybreak."

Post Haste.

States that complained of liquor bigotry should be sure they are prepared to cope with spigotry.

The four-minute men of the Liberty bond campaign are to be mobilized to sell the recovery program to the country. Lacking the war spirit, better make them two-minute men and double the eloquence.

If Wiley Post's professional robot functions too proficiently it may endanger his amateur standing and his claim for a solo flight.

Secretary Hull says the conference has laid a foundation, and he still hopes it will hatch a superstructure.

Russia claims to be the one country that is raising the standard of living for workers. If so, it should soon be out of the well up to sea level.

Next on the agenda: Will the spirit of the occasion require that our liquor code be revised for Christmas?

Senator Pittman continues a valiant fight to the last in London to restore silver to an unjustified position of importance, the same as wheat.

Gen. Johnson finds that a general code that can be fitted to major industries is too big for some of the lieutenants.

In other words, the blanket code is to be a garment of voluntary adoption, almost, and not loosely considered a hair shirt.

In connection with acreage reduction a campaign song might be useful in convincing farmers that "War-time Demand Ain't What It Used to Was."

Massachusetts proposes to reduce the overproduction of rackets with a crime dictator. Let's have 47 more, and a super one in Washington.

"Henderson in Berlin to talk disarmament." This ought to give the solemn Nazis a smile.

It might be wise to determine whether the stock market balloon is being inflated this time with non-explosive helium gas.

The London conference confronts its last decision; whether to be cyanided or sine died.

Just Folks.

By Edgar A. Guest.

While a Friend Undergoes an Operation.

'Tis 9 o'clock! How strange the day!
This minute o'er him sleeping stands
A surgeon calm, with skillful hands
To cut the painful part away.
Now to his flesh the knife is laid
And I am sitting here—afraid!

I know above his form they bend
To make him well and strong again.
That ethered body is my friend,
The kindliest and best of men.
Work quickly, surgeon, that I may
Put all these dreadful thoughts away.

Within that spotless room I know
Precisely what it is they do.
The white-robed nurses come and go.
The instruments I plainly view.
An hour to wait! 'Twill seem a year
Again till word from him I hear.

Now, troubled at my desk I stay
And put in feeble words the prayer
That God my friend to me will spare
And help him through this painful day.
Ring, telephone, your little bell
And bring me word that all is well!

Method of Working the Problem Doesn't Matter So Long as You Get the Answer

By Robert Quillen

A WASHINGTON correspondent who ranks high in his profession is a little alarmed by President Roosevelt's habit of making quick decisions.

Some weeks ago, he says, one of the President's advisers thought of a new idea that was sound but radical. It was so new and radical, in fact, that he pondered over it several days before daring to offer it to the Chief.

When he presented it, however, and made his argument to support it, the President listened a scant ten minutes and then accepted the idea and promised to back it.

To the adviser and the correspondent, this prompt decision seemed "disquieting."

Apparently they belong to the old slow-but-sure school whose disciples, numerous still, cling to the faith that sureness is achieved by means of slowness.

Our fathers were suspicious of quick thinking. They called it "going off half-cocked." The result was a "snap judgment" that could be right only by accident.

The man whose opinions had weight was one who pondered long before making up his mind. He argued everything pro and con with many a "therefore" and "on the other hand," and his decision was reserved until he had time to "sleep on it."

But that kind of thinker isn't safe now. He would be run over, or left behind.

This isn't to say that all quick judgments are dependable. The greatest enemies of progress and all good works are those well-meaning people who make up their minds before they get all of the evidence. But the fault is not in their quick thinking, but in their ignorance.

Given the problem of adding two and two, the man who never heard of arithmetic must do much preliminary ground work before achieving the answer. But the man whose mind is stored with the science of mathematics finds the answer instantly, and years of pondering could make it no more right.

Drivers must make split-second decisions. The new driver's snap judgment may be wrong. But the driver schooled by many emergencies makes the right decision as though by instinct, and its rightness is a product of experience—not of time.

The mind functions instantly if it is properly trained. And in the instant required to reach a decision, it consults the knowledge in its files, weighs the evidence, considers precedents, and automatically assmbles the only opinion that its store of informaiton will justify.

It is the material in the egg that determines what will hatch out—not the length of time required to hatch it.

Political Comment

Making a Machine.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

There is a real danger that party spoils may prove to be the Achilles heel of the New Deal. Postmaster General National Chairman Patronage Dispenser Farley is perspiring over the appointment of thousands of postmasters, district attorneys, customs collectors, internal revenue collectors, marshals, public works and home loan administrators. In addition to the 100,000 jobs which usually change hands with a change in administration, he has his eyes on some 30,000 new positions created by the President's recovery program. For all these posts he has set up the requirements of political indorsement and party regularity. New appointments are to be made, in so far as possible, from a white list of those who supported the President in the preconvention campaign and in the special session of Congress. A powerful political machine is in the making.

Recovery by Coercion.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

Discouraged by the slowness of many industries in submitting codes of competition, the Government has determined to use its weapon of last resort to compel one lagging industry to accept the new order of controlled competition. Choosing carefully, the National Recovery Administration found the milk industry to be one that showed no sign of ability to agree upon a Nation-wide code. Making that industry an example to the others, and doubtless hoping the psychological effect will be salutary, Government will require all concerned handling milk to accept a code and will deny recalcitrant firms the right to continue in business.

Worth Striving For.

Toledo Blade.

"Secretary Wallace promises Kansas $20,000,000 this fall for its crop failure." That makes failure something for which to work hard.

War on Kidnapers.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A war on kidnapers has been declared by the Federal Government and Joseph H. Keenan, former cavalry officer, has been assigned to ride down the beasts who are terrorizing the Nation. Keenan, as a special assistant to the Attorney General, is charged with combating all racketeering, but the fresh outbreak of kidnaping has caused him to concentrate all his activities on it.

In a ringing statement, in which he accepts the challenge of the underworld, Keenan urges the families of kidnaped persons or those threatened with kidnaping to take their troubles to the Federal Government. He assures them the Government will work in absolute secrecy. He points out how well the Federal authorities are equipped because of their elaborate fingerprint records and because of the proved skill of Department of Justice operatives.

Keenan makes the further point that the underworld fears the Federal Government—and for good reason.

The Consumer as the Forgotten Man.

Minneapolis Journal.

The ultimate consumer looks askance at the great relief program, reads or hears of its benefits to industry and to agriculture, and asks where he comes in. He knows that in the industrial codes labor is protected, but sees himself without protection. And he knows great plans were drawn to fill the narrowing gap between what the farmer receives for his products and what he pays for things, but hears of no such plan to fill the widening gap between the lowered level of his own income and the rising cost of living. Often, he fails to sense the long-time purpose of the program, or to grasp its scope magnitude. The immediacy of his household bills or the cash and carry purchase is his index, and it tends to rise against him.

The Once Over.

By H. I. Phillips.

REPORT ON WALL STREET MISSING PERSONS.

Woonkie, Jarvis B.—Mr. Woonkie went down with the ship in 1929, according to eyewitnesses, and was lost. He popped up again in several brokerage offices last week, however, looking as cocksure as ever and carrying the usual complete set of market predictions and an amazing fund of misinformation on pool operations.

* * * *

Pobbles, Temple K.—Mr. Pobbles lost everything but his porcelain fillings in the bull market of 1927-1929. When last seen at that time he was rushing madly around in a revolving door shouting, "Never again!" We were mildly surprised to discover Mr. Pobbles back at the old stand today trying to read four "dope sheets" at once and expressing the opinion that the major bull movement hasn't even started yet. Mr. Pobbles has taken on a wide line in ten-share lots on margin.

* * * *

Binney, Cassius P.—Mr. Binney disappeared on the evening of October 12, 1929, muttering something about being "a sucker to play the other fellow's game." He was tearing up a rare collection of charts and foaming at the mouth. Nothing more was heard from Mr. Binney until he turned up in a brokerage office Tuesday last, monopolized the seat nearest the ticker and began uttering profound prophecies about the fortunes to be made within the next few months by anybody with a few dollars and faith in America. Mr. Binney has put in his own and his wife's savings once more.

Olliphant, Mrs. Minnie F.—Minnie is one of those women who decided back in the Coolidge market that a woman could do it as well as a man. She was right. Minnie was taken for all that Uncle Zeke had left her and for the $3,000 she had saved from her literary work. Minnie left a note reading, "I was a fool to speculate. May my experience be a warning to all girls." Last week she breezed into the brokerage affice and demanded the note back. Minnie's present slogan is, "Don't sell America short!" (Gangway, boys, if we get a major reaction).

* * * *

Jadwyn, Mrs. Olive D.—Mrs. Jadwyn is one of those firm women. After what happened to her husband's savings in the last bull market, she made him promise he would never buy another common stock, no matter how good. "It was plain gambling and it served us right," said Mrs. Jadwyn. For the past few weeks there has been a nightly fight in the Jadwyn flat. It seems that her husband, Jeptha, thinks the market dangerous at the present levels and wants to keep out.

EXPLAINED.

Elmer Twitchell, after reading the testimony that a prominent indicted New York banker is mentally unbalanced, says now he understands why the words "and no sense" are stamped on so many checks.

President Roosevelt's placing of all postmasterships under Civil Service has made the politicians pretty sore. "It's getting so," said one of them today, "that we can't get four years' sleep on Government pay any more."

Letters to the Editor.

Woman Asks Why Men Haven't Courage to Dress Coolly.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: One summer I read an article in a paper saying that this was the women's season—women were the fortunate ones, for they could dress coolly. May I ask if there is a law preventing men dressing coolly? Does any one insist upon their absurd dress but themselves? On the 100-degree day my brother was the only man in the train who had the courage to take off his coat. Are they afraid of conventions? Change the conventions.

We women do not want the men to suffer with the heat. For my part, I do not understand how they bear with the coats. I am sure I couldn't. It makes me hot just to look at them. Will they not please wear rational clothing in summer? Hats off to the pioneers!

P. N. JOHNSON.

Chart Shows General Movement Toward Recovery by Many Nations.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A comparative business chart has been issued by the Cleveland Trust Co. covering conditions since 1927 in the United States, Canada, Germany, England, France, Belgium, Italy and Japan. It shows how these nations have been marching in step, economically. They all went down together in 1929, and all (except Canada) started up together in May to June of 1932. The other nations kept on going up, while we took a five-month drop after the election, resuming with a sharp rise in April, 1933, when Canada also started up.

The chart clearly reveals that no one government was responsible for the three-year-down trend, and that no one government or political medicine could be credited with the general recovery. Certainly no program of depreciated currency had anything to do with it.

Girl, 20, Hurt In Auto Crash, Is Recovering

Report of Marjorie Small Having Arm Amputated Is Denied Here.

Reports that the left arm of Miss Marjorie Small, 20-year-old Washington society girl, had been amputated following an automobile accident near Newcastle, Del., Monday, were denied last night at Garfield Hospital. Miss Small was transferred from the Union Hospital at Elkton, Md., late yesterday.

The arm was saved by an operation. Dr. Harry Kerr, noted Washington surgeon, was called to the Maryland town after Miss Small was admitted to the hospital, and successfully operated. It was at first believed the arm, mangled and torn, would be lost. With persisting reports that the amputation had been found necessary, Dr. Kerr announced that if true, it was done without his knowledge.

Miss Small, daughter of Mrs. Robert Small, 2521 Leroy place northwest, was brought to Garfield Hospital yesterday for further treatment. In denying the amputation report, hospital officials described her condition as "good."

The young woman was injured when the machine she was driving was in collision with a truck on the Glasgow-Delaware road. News dispatches reaching here Monday night reported the amputation.

Miss Small is the daughter of the late Robert Small, former Washington newspaperman.

Mrs. Irving O. Ball Rites This Morning

Funeral services for Mrs. Irving O. Ball, of Wyoming apartment, will be held today at 11 a. m. at the Foundry M. E. Church. Burial will be private.

Born in Morristown, N. J., Mrs. Ball came to Washington nearly 40 years ago with her husband, who owned and operated the old Hamilton Hotel for many years. She was an active member of the Twentieth Century Club, the Foundry Church, the D. A. R. and the board of managers of the Methodist Home.

Mrs. Ball died Monday in Garfield Hospital following a fall in which her hip was broken. Surviving are her husband, a daughter, Mrs. Frederick Untiedt, of Chevy Chase; a sister, Mrs. Etta M. Patterson, and a brother, Stacy H. Briant.

Canadian Chief Justice Dies.

Quebec, Que., July 18 (AP).—Sir Francis Lemieux, 82, veteran of many trials and chief justice of the superior court of the Province of Quebec, died today.

Elks in Parley Pledge Help to Recovery Plan

W. F. Meier, of Seattle, Is Named New Head; Earley Attends Convention.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 18 (AP).—The Grand Lodge of the Order of Elks pledged itself to make vigorous efforts to restore prosperity and contentment in America.

Under the new leadership of Walter F. Meier, of Seattle, elected grand exalted ruler at the national convention, the lodge threw its membership solidly behind all reconstruction measures.

Mr. Meier called attention to the fact that President Roosevelt is a members of the Poughkeepsie lodge and urged all Elks to "assist him in the great work of rehabilitation so that when we emerge from the uncertainty that now surrounds us our country shall continue to be that land of opportunity which it has been in the past."

Inviting the cooperation of the order and radiating optimism was Postmaster General James A. Farley, a delegate to the convention. He brought greetings of President Roosevelt, attended a Grand Lodge session today, conferred with political leaders, but made no address to the convention.

Grand lodge elections provided no upsets and the only sign of a contest developed over selection of a convention city for 1934. Kansas City won, after a spirited contest, over Atlantic City. A grand lodge committee will set the time of next year's meeting.

Other officers were named as follows:

Gov. David Sholtz, of Florida, grand esteemed leading knight; Judge James M. Fitzgerald, Omaha, Nebr., grand esteemed loyal knight; Leland O. Callaghan, Louisville, Ky., grand tiler; E. L. Safford, Santa Fe, N. Mex., grand inner guard; J. Edgar Masters, Charleroi, Pa., re-elected grand secretary; James F. Duffy, Providence, R. I., reelected grand treasurer.

Sewage Plant Cash Plea Decision Soon

"Serious Consideration" Promised District's Money Appeal.

A request for public works funds for a sewage disposal plant for the District will receive "serious consideration" from the Public Works Board as soon as the board can reach the list of municipal projects, Secretary of the Interior Ickes said yesterday.

Grants of funds for municipal construction will be the next matter to be considered by the board, the Secretary said.

The District Commissioners have not asked for money to build a disposal plant. They have asked for $220,500 to extend the trunk sewer down the river to a point near Shepherds Landing, where the disposal plant will be erected in time. The cost of the plant is estimated to be between $7,000,000 and $9,000,000. The District already has the right of way for extending the trunk sewer from just below the Naval Magazine to Shepherds Landing.

Axel Starkes Rites To Be Held Today

Funeral services for Axel N. Starkes will be held today at 2 p. m. at Memorial Chapel, Walter Reed General Hospital. Burial will be in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

A native of Metropolis, Ill., Starkes had been for many years a reader in the Congressional Library and in the Government Printing Office. Before his unexpected death Monday at his home, 1210 Floral street, he was connected with the District repair division.

Husband of the late Jennie L. Starkes, of Metropolis, he is survived by his son, Maj. Carleton C. Starkes, Medical Corps, U. S. Army, attached to Walter Reed General Hospital.

Two Chinese Fliers Killed.

D.C. Home Loan Office Will Be Located Today

Manager Charles A. Jones to Get Final Instructions From Board.

Definite steps toward opening of the District office of the Home Owners Loan Corporation are expected to be taken today when Charles A. Jones, manager of the office, appears before the board of the corporation to receive his final instructions.

A location for the local offices will be decided upon at this time.

Mr. Jones is determined to have an office centrally located. If he is not allotted a centrally located office in government space, he will ask that quarters be rented in the downtown district, preferably in one of the closed banks.

In reply to distressed home owners who have been endeavoring to communicate with him, Mr. Jones again pointed out that he is powerless to act until he receives his instructions from the board. He also requests that time be given him to place the local office in shape before the home owners begin their siege.

Appointment of H. Bruce Green as the manager of the Alexandria office is expected, it was reported last night. Mr. Green is an attorney and the son of Harry K. Green, commissioner of revenue for Arlington County. Louis M. Ainsle, native of Alexandria, is mentioned as the probable appraiser of the office.

The Prince Georges County Commissioners yesterday deferred until later the request from the police department for a finger printing department. The police were represented at the hearing by Chief J. If you are planning a Fur Coat—the shrewd thing to do is to buy now—for, despite advancing prices (and they have advanced considerably since we purchased these coats), here are really fine

Hudson Seal Coats

$139.50

[On the basis of today's wholesale prices, they would be marked $175 or more.]

More important—you know there is no risk about good fashion, good taste and good quality—whatever the price—at Woodward & Lothrop.

Weeks ago, before the fur market had started its sensational price rises, we purchased a quantity of these coats. If we had to buy them today, we would have to mark them $175 or more.

All are of selected, heavily-furred skins—strong pelts—the kind you find in expensive coats. The fashions are new—extremely interesting—and, for the first time, "young-smart" coats appear in Hudson Seal, as well as the more dignified types that have made this fur the choice of well-dressed women for many years. Here, in Hudson Seal, are trotteur swaggers—notch-collar swaggers—the swagger with the fan scarf tie (sketched)—a few broad-shoulder ideas — dropped shoulders with great chic—tuxedo revers—ripple revers (women will like these)—and sleeves as wearable as they are smart.

All this is what makes them such news—and why only this quantity can be sold at this extremely low price.

Knit Yourself A Smart Fall Bouclette Suit

Click-Clack of Knitting Needles Is Autumn's Theme Song.

By the Meanderer.

Mr. Finnigan lived a hundred years too soon. The rapidity of action to which he was addicted made him a phenomenal figure. His famous message "in again, out again, gone again, Finnigan" characterized a speed which so startled the placid natives that they handed his story down to posterity. Pardon us while we smile. We're a race of Finnigans this age. Milady dashes in from her morning ride. She's in the shower and out again. She sits down at her dressing table and daubs her hair with a "dry" liquid shampoo. Five minutes to dry. In the meantime she powders her nose with a powder that is likely to last the the morning through. She reddens her lips with a permanent rouge, and rubs a bit on her cheeks. No mixing of color schemes here. She hastily dons her scant attire, darkens her legs with hose cream, slips on her small hat, and she's gone again.

Ask the Meanderer what next and she'll tell you silver tulips with black stems. Ask her what of, and she'll say blown glass. Ask her how much and she'll surprise you. Ask her where and she'll tell you. She saw them in a shop window on Thirteenth street. In a silver bell-shaped vase of blown glass on a mirror centerpiece they glittered away at the passers-by. Their scintillating charm was too much for the Meanderer. Into the store she promptly went and overwhelmed the accommodating proprietor with a barrage of questions. And here's the outcome!

The simple lines of all fashions are beautifully set forth in the hand-knit suits displayed in an F street store. If time lies heavy on your hands, knit your own. Be sure it lies very heavy, however, for three weeks is a mere beginning. The material is $10, and the lessons are free. If, on the other hand, you prefer to order, the suit is yours within ten days. Pick your style and your color. Versatility being an outstanding attribute of these clever knitters, they will at a word from madame create anything from blouses to hats in silk bouclette, or crepe boucle. Hand-maid suits, $75.

Shshsh, here's a secret! A little closer, please. Don't forget, this is confidential. In a large department store some distance from the heart of town there's going to be a one-day sale. A midget radio which sells regularly for $12.95 will be only $8.85. Shopper, you should see it! Fabric leather finish in brown and gold.

No time to lose. Call the Meanderer, quick!

That the smallest detail may often be of great importance is apparent in present handkerchief styles. While the shopper is spending time and money to match her shoes, gloves and hat, let her give more than a casual thought to an ornamental hankie. Besides serving utilitarian purposes, it may be the finishing touch to a costume. For the sport attire there are sport prints of fine linen with hand-rolled hems. For that black satin you are going to buy there is the large black chiffon, bordered on two sides with white. Assure the chic entirety of your ensemble with the proper handkerchief touch, is the Meanderer's admonition for today.

These Four Home Gadgets Soothe Tempers in Summer

By Amos Parrish.

New York, July 18.—"Hot enough for you?" If you turn livid with rage each time that trying-to-make-conversation question is put to you, a good way to get back at the questioner is to reply in your best nonchalant manner, "Oh, I don't mind it a bit," and walk quickly away before he recovers from the shock.

Your statement needn't be wholly untrue, at that. Innumerable devices are in working order designed for the express purpose of keeping folk more comfortable as they go about summer duties.

And it's certain that using them you'll mind the heat less.

An Air Cooler.

Take that affair shown in the third sketch, for instance. It's an air cooler. Not so impressive as the air conditioner in your movie theater, but a real boon to the bedroom, on a hot night, the nursery, the kitchen or an office.

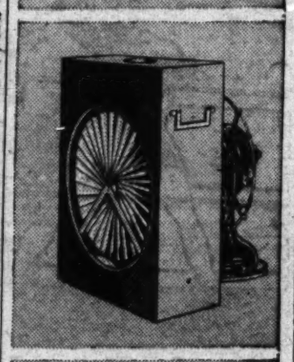
An enameled steel box (a mere 19 inches high) contains a bladed wheel colthed in cotton. Below is a water reservoir into which the blades dip as they revolve.

Place your electric fan behind it. The air from the fan turns the wheel in the box, dipping the blades into the water. Result: a cooler, more refreshing breeze, and one less likely to cause sniffly drafts.

Electric Cooker.

Below the air cooler you see one of the newest housewife's delights . . . an electric cooker which takes care of meat, vegetables and baking all at one time. It rids the kitchen of heat and keeps the cook from the stove. Play bridge, if you like, while the cooking goes on, and come to the table freshly powdered instead of lobster red.

The more hospitable you are by nature, the more you dread to see a car drive up on a hot day and discharge a load of visitors. Because your natural hospitality makes you rush for the ice, rush for a load of drinks, and another load and still another.



An Ice Crusher.

The top one is an ice crusher. For really quick chilling of drinks crushed ice is more effective than cubes or lumps. And for making ice cream it is invaluable . . . or will be, once you've compared it with the put-the-ice-in-a-bag-and-pound method.

The second affair is a smart aluminum pail with a rack to hold bottles upright on ice. Fine for porch serving. And without the rack it will hold plenty of potato chips, pretzels or hot dogs for lawn and buffet suppers.

There are many other hot weather comfort gadgets, depending on your temperament and temperature, such as the silent electric fan which cools without whirring and wheezing; the electric casserole for baking all manner of things, so decorative it may be used right on the dining table; the vegetable peeler which carefully follows the irregularities of the most lopsided potato and removes a paper-thin peeling; and the icebox rack to hold bottles which can be hung just under one of the shelves.

Comfort at any price is the idea of most people in summer and in these cases the price is not great.

Fat or Slim, For the Figure Learn to Swim

Care of Hair Is Important, However, Beauty Expert Says.

A famous physical training instructor I know feels that walking and swimming are two excellent all-around exercises that every one can indulge in, and swimming is the finer of the two.

To glide through water fearlessly, to feel the waves beating against you, your whole body ringing, to know that you are conquering space—isn't it a delightful sensation?

Swimming is one of the best "levellers" known. It develops scrawny bodies and reduces overweight ones. It makes for symmetry and beauty. Notice the roll of the shoulders, the outward and upward thrust and downward pull of the arms, the kick of the legs. Coordination of muscles there. Every part of the body working. No lazy bones or muscles.

Swimming is more than rhythmic beauty, more than merely exercising arms and legs. It teaches one confidence. It develops poise and grace, freedom of movement. It stimulates the circulation. Which means a healthier system, clearer skin, brighter eyes.

Swimming on Shore.

Those who can not swim are urged to go through the movements on shore, until they master the strokes and overcome a fear of the water. Learn to float first. Feel at home in the water. Which reminds us that in addition to action, swimming also teaches us how to relax. Learn to breathe deeply. A good swimmer knows how to breathe scientifically, which is very beneficial to the body.

In Preparation.

Before getting into the swim of things, protect your hair with a heavy chamois, first pinching, patting and pinning the waves into place. If the ends are short at the sides or your hair is rolled at the back, turn the tiny ends or clusters up and adjust with small pins. Wear a very heavy cap, or preferably two. Avoid getting salt water into the hair, as salt, as you know, will tend to break the hair if allowed to dry on.

A comfortable bathing suit is important; neither too tight nor loose, straps should stay put. The new athletic, simple, "second skin" suits are excellent, allow freedom of movement and actually mold the figure. And now, ready to dive in, have you protected your skin against sunburn? And if you use make-up have you one of the new indelible lipsticks and waterproof rouges and mascaras that promise not to run? What joys for the modern woman!

Wall of the Wallflower.

By Katherine Smith.

It must feel very nice to be
A girl of popularity
And stay out every night 'til late
And have ten different men to date.

Instead I sit and mind the cat
And muse and moan of this and that.
When other girls go out to dance
I wait, but never have the chance.

So here at home I stay and think
How nice would be the marriage link;
But all the time I know I'm smart
To keep a yet unbroken heart!

Contrasting Walnut Shades Effective for Dining Room

Decidedly new is this modern dining room furniture of contrasting shades of walnut. It is arranged in a blue-walled room with draperies in cream color and antique red. The photograph is made especially for The Washington Post, through courtesy of a leading department store.

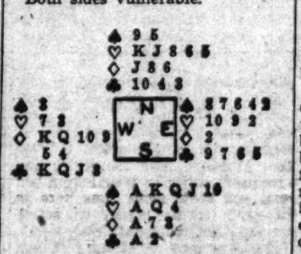
Culbertson on Bridge

745.

An Unusual Result.

DR. C. E. MOYER, of East Palestine, Ohio, seems to have an unusual facility for holding unusual hands at the bridge table. As judge of a series of contests held by a nationally known magazine, I have had the opportunity to award several prizes to him for extraordinary hands and extraordinary results obtained on the ordinary ones. The hand below, in which Dr. Moyer sat South, resulted in an unusual contract and had its final denouement in a rather interesting squeeze.

South, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



The bidding: (Figures after bids refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1♣ (1)	1◇	Pass	Pass
1◇ (2)	Pass	3♡	Pass
4◇ (3)	Pass	4NT	Pass
7♡ (4)	Pass	Pass	Pass

The following notes on the bidding, which, needless to say, did not meet with my full approval, are by Dr. Moyer:

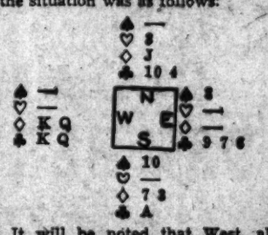
1—Wishing to force partner and keep the bidding as low as possible, I chose this bid instead of two spades, so he could respond with two or any other suit. The deception could do no harm here.

2—Evidently partner doesn't hold much. I'll make him say something this time.

3—He must have at least five hearts to the King to have a biddable suit. That should mean a Small Slam at notrump. If he rebids hearts, showing more than five, I can then bid a Grand Slam.

4—It was now to be inferred that my partner held nothing showable except his hearts and that West had the balance of honor strength. Twelve tricks should be taken at either notrump or spades, with no probability of being able to squeeze out the thirteenth. With honors the same, notrump would be the choice. But how about a heart contract? The same tricks should be taken, and in addition it seemed certain that West could be squeezed between my suit honors and partner's trump for the thirteenth trick. I determined to forego the honors and the Small Slam bonus and try for the Grand Slam. This would probably give us either a top or bottom score, according to the outcome. My partner was a careful player and I was confident he would work out the squeeze if it was there.

In the play East opened the singleton diamond in response to partner's bid, the Ace in Dummy won and four rounds of trumps were played, the club 2 being discarded on the fourth round. Then followed four rounds of spades, the Declarer discarding a diamond and a club. Just before the fifth spade was led, the situation was as follows:



It will be noted that West, although holding two King-Queen combinations, was perfectly helpless to avert the squeeze. He had to discard either a club or a diamond, and in either event the Declarer must take the remaining tricks and realize his contract.

Furniture in Ultramodern Mode Blended With Colonial Motif.

Significant in this dining room arrangement is the blending of ultra modern furniture in a colonial background.

"A distinct advantage in the use of most modern furniture is its versalility in decorative schemes," explained a decorator in the furniture section of a large department store, in discussing the dining room shown above.

"It is easy to see the proof of that statement in this use of modern furniture with colonial drapery, and accents of glassware and dishes reproduced from old patterns."

The walls of the room are Urban blue. The term Urban blue has come to be used by decorators who liked the blue backgrounds used by the late Joseph Urban, for many years stage decorator for productions of Ziegfeld Follies. It is a blue, not bright, not dull.

"Old blue" may best express the color in words—a shade soft, but very blue, as though it had once been brighter, but is now softened by time. The background of the effective chintz curtains is antique red, and the floral motif is entirely in cream color. The rug is in deepest rust color. The blending browns of the walnut furniture, the blue walls and touches of dull red and rust, make a whole effect that is pleasing in the extreme.

Twin cupboards are an interesting development in this new dining room suite. Only one of the cupboards appears in the photograph, the other being placed directly across the room from the one shown.

The contrasting walnut effects in the furniture are achieved by the inlays of burl walnut, resulting in the same artistry in walnuts used by cabinet makers of earlier days, though with the medium of distinctly different designs.

There are 11 pieces in the suite, which may be bought for $200. Readers may call The Washington Post woman's department to know where this model dining room is shown.

Many music and art lovers will be present. Among them are Senor Don Luis Churion, counselor of the legation, of Venezuela; Senor Don Pedro Rivero, attache of the legation, of Venezuela; Senor Don Francisco Palomo, attache of the legation, of Guatemala; Senor Manuel Giron-Cerna, Senor Raoul Diez de Modena, Senor Cesario Bernaldi de Quiros, all of whom will bring guests to the concert.

Among others who are expected to attend are Franklin Adams, of the Pan-American Union; Col. James A. Woodruff, U. S. A.; Capt. Doyle O. Hickey, U. S. A.; Capt. F. W. Hoover, U. S. A., and Mr. Arthur Reilly. Mr. Reilly will hear the first public rendition of the new march, "The Globe Trotter," which has been dedicated to him by its composer, Maj. R. J. Hernandez, U. S. A. For this number to be played by the Army Band, Capt. Stannard will surrender his baton to Maj. Hernandez.

Sunday Supper Often Saved By Nut Bread

Open-Faced Sandwiches Are Good When Spread With Cream Cheese.

A loaf of nut bread in the house over the week-end will make your impromptu Sunday night supper a success, or serve you in good stead if friends drop in during the afternoons or evenings. If there's any left, the children will like it for a change in their school lunches.

You can make plain buttered nut bread sandwiches, slicing the bread very thin, after buttering it on the loaf, or open-faced nut bread sandwiches are good when spread with cream cheese or cottage cheese mixed with chopped dates or figs or raisins. Don't waste any of the good flavor by trimming off the crusts or cutting the sandwiches in fancy shapes! Every morsel will be eaten.

Here's a recipe from the Bureau of Home Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Nut Bread.

2½ cups sifted flour
2 tablespoons sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
2 eggs
1 cup milk
1 cup chopped nuts
4 tablespoons melted fat

Sift together the dry ingredients. Beat the eggs. Add the milk and add to the dry ingredients. Stir in the chopped nuts and the fat. Let the dough stand in a well-greased bread pan for 20 minutes. Then bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about one hour.

What Today Means

"Cancer."

IF July 19 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a. m. to 11:15 a. m. and from 5 p. m. to 6:10 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:30 a. m. to 8:20 a. m., from 1:15 p. m. to 1:50 p. m. and from 7:50 p. m. to 9 p. m.

It is possible that a message of some sort will come to you from a distance on this day. It may be of a puzzling nature and you will not appreciate its full import until you receive further word, possibly from a different source, relative to it. Be cautious in matters of the heart and watch for the baneful interference of seemingly or supposedly disinterested third parties.

The child born on this July 19 will quite possibly have a timid nature and will not feel at ease with strangers. He will probably be slow to develop and will not advance at school as he should. About his middle teens he should "get wise to himself" and you will notice great changes in him.

If July 19 is the date of your birth, you are more than likely a person of strong likes and dislikes; seldom do you take a midway position. You are inclined to be selfish about your friends; you are jealous at times and you do not like to share them with others. Like all people, you will have your share of hard knocks. You must take care not to let them "sour" your disposition, for it is your nature to take reverses and disappointments to heart. You are not quick to adjust yourself to changing conditions and once you have lost your stride in any venture, business or otherwise, you are inclined to "give up the ship" completely.

Born on July 19, you have a rather "smooth" way with people. You have a way of saving a little in such a way as to have it construed as meaning a great deal more. You are not insincere in doing this, for you start from a sincere basis, but you do expect people to take all things with just a grain of salt. On occasions you find yourself in trying spots as a result. You are attractive to those of the opposite sex, but you are indifferent to them. You may fall in and out of love many times before you find the right one, but you will recognize your right mate when he or she comes along, and you should have many years of happy married life.

Successful people born on July 19:

Will S. Hays, song writer.
Samuel Colt, inventor.
Elbert Hubbard, author.
John P. Mitchell, former Mayor of New York.
Edward Charles Peckering, astronomer.

"Dad certainly knew what he was doing when he selected this hotel. Look out here—a bird's-eye view of the Century of Progress!" exclaims Judy. "I've been shopping, and I want you to see what I bought. This is the coolest, most practical dress. I love the brown and white broken stripe pattern!"

"Your allowance is going to be gone before you know it," warns Mother. "We're invited out to the Hoffmans this evening. Do I pass your critical inspection?" The black crepe dinner dress is cut on lines that slenderize the matronly figure while the embroidered white organza bodice adds a touch of youth.

"Before you go, Mother, look at these hats. Which shall I keep? Now, this one of black antelope with the tucked cuff is extremely Frenchy! The red orange ostrich feathers I adore, but I'm afraid the hat is a bit too old for me. Hats are such a problem—now, look at this one."

"It's called a 'cockscomb' hat, and I think this one of white velvet is particularly lovely for the new black and white transparent velvets and sleek satins we will soon be wearing. This little model also comes in white linen and crepe. All three are adorable! Tell me, which shall I keep?"

Radio Dial Flashes

By Robert D. Heinl.

ARRIVAL of Gen. Balbo and the royal Italian seaplane squadron in New York will be described from the air and various points of vantage.

The air armada will fly without stop from Chicago to the seaplane base at Floyd Bennett Field, arriving at 4 p. m. This will be carried over WRC and WMAL.

One announcer in a plane and another on the pier-end, where Gen. Balbo and his command will be officially welcomed, together with a third and fourth on the Empire State Building and at the field, will describe the proceedings.

The portable transmitter will pick up the ceremonies as Balbo is received by Gen. Dennis E. Nolan, in command of the Second Corps Area, and Admiral Yates Sterling, U. S. N. The nineteen-gun salute and the Sixteenth Infantry Band will be caught by great parabolic microphones.

Senator Royal S. Copeland, of New York, will be heard over WRC at 12:30 p. m. today as he addresses a luncheon meeting of the Advertising Club of New York on the progress being made toward the suppression of racketeers.

"The Washington Post March" will be among the Sousa compositions in a program from the Mall in Central Park tonight by the Goldman Band. (WMAL, 8 o'clock.)

A DISCUSSION of problems arising as an aftermath of the banking crisis will be heard over a National Broadcasting Co. network when James F. T. O'Connor, United States Comptroller of the Currency, speaks at the meeting of the Young Democratic Clubs of America in Washington tonight (WMAL, 9 o'clock). His subject will be "What the United States Treasury Is Doing to Reopen Your Bank."

O'Connor, formerly a member of the law firm headed by Senator William G. McAdoo, has been active for many years in the Democratic party in North Dakota and California.

All members of the cast of "Drake's Drums," new series dealing with the life of Sir Francis Drake, were roused from their sleep at 3 o'clock the other morning by the insistent ringing of their telephones.

It was James Jacobson, coauthor of the series, wanting to know if any spoke Spanish. Jacobson was writing scripts at that hour and had reached a point where Drake overtook treasure-laden Spanish galleons and had ordered them to stand by.

He wondered what a Spanish don would answer at that point.

Three episodes from the boyhood and youth of Stephen Foster, exponent of American folk music, will be dramatized in the program by John Tasker Howard at 7:30 p. m., over WRC. Howard will show how Foster early developed his flair for the minstrel type of song which later led to his writing of "Oh, Suzanna," "De Camptown Races" and many other jigs. Many of Foster's songs, and other melodies of his day, will be used to form atmospheric background for the episodes.

THE program featuring Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians and Mandy Lou has renewed its Wednesday night WABC contract for 26 additional weeks, effective August 9. Carnegie Hall is the scene of this concert, where each week the 3,000-seat auditorium has been drawing a capacity audience. More than 25,000 requests for admission have been received not only from New York but from nearby cities since the program was first staged at Carnegie Hall less than two weeks ago. (WJSV, 9 p. m.).

Having found positions for more than 100 unemployed veterans last Wednesday night, the American Legion will hold another job-auction, in cooperation with Radio Joe, over WMAL at 6:30 p. m.

The sharp crack of the auctioneer's hammer will be heard from coast to coast over WJSV this noon at 12:15 p. m., when the historic Leadbeater apothecary shop in the heart of Alexandria, Va., goes up for public sale.

The auction will be the final act in a real-life playlet, with the history-loving Virginians of Alexandria pooling funds to secure the old store for the city as another monument commemorative of Revolutionary days as the climax.

Patronized by the Washingtons, the Fitzhughs, the Fairfaxes, the Lees, the Ramsays, the Carlyles and dozens of other eighteenth century families, the quaint old business house became legally lost to the name of Leadbeater a few months ago, when the last of his line, Edward Stabler Leadbeater, died.

It was in this shop that an obscure Army lieutenant, acting as messenger for Maj. Gen. Winfield Scott, handed to Col. Robert E. Lee sealed orders which started him on the historic journey to Harper's Ferry to put down John Brown's insurrection. Here, too, is a letter from George Washington, setting forth the first President's "appreciation of your indulgence" in the matter of an unpaid bill.

BOTH the Far East and the Near East will be represented by women speakers over WMAL this week in two programs from Chicago, where the International Congress of Women is now in progress.

The first speaker will be Dr. Yi Fang Wu, president of Ging Ling College, of China, who will be heard at 1:30 p. m.

The other talk will be given over the same station at 3:45 p. m. on Saturday by Miss Selma Ekrem, a leading Turkish writer.

Orville Harrold, former tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will be the guest on the Ship of Joy for its weekly cruise over WRC at 9:35 o'clock tonight.

Harrold, formerly of Muncie, Ind., will be introduced as the "man who did the impossible." After leaving the Metropolitan eight years ago he suffered a complete loss of voice and was forced to retire. After years of careful voice culture and training he has recovered his rich tenor quality and again sings in his old manner.

Capt. Hugh Duncan Grant, noted meteorologist, will speak on "The Southern Transatlantic Air Route" over WJSV at 3:15 p. m.

Gen. Italo Balbo and Col. Lindbergh, who has just begun a survey for the best aerial path to Europe, have chosen the northern route. Capt. Grant's talk will present the opposing point of view. Grant is meteorological adviser to the Armstrong Corporation, which is planning to manufacture seadromes, or floating islands, for the proposed southern transatlantic route.

"WASHINGTON High Spots" will be heard for the first time tonight over WRC at 8:15 o'clock. It will be made up of local talent directed by Shara Kerbell, the cast to be changed each week. Those who will participate tonight will include Margaret Latimer, pianist; Hanna Sisters, harmony duo, and Edwin Rogers, N. B. C. announcer, barytone.

Visitors to the Showboat program are always curious to know if Charles Winninger, the Capt. Henry of the broadcasts, ever breaks his spectacles. When he is not reading his script, Winninger allows his glasses to dangle precariously from one ear.

While he is at the microphone Winninger usually looks over his "specs" in what has been described as "a devilish manner."

New Yorker Today

By Mark Barron.

New York—Two of the town's most pleasant summer diversions are extraordinarily inexpensive. One is (price 25 cents) to loll against the Greek pillars of Lewisohn Stadium and listen to symphony concerts.

Another, especially recommended for those nights when there isn't a breeze, is a ferry ride (price 10 cents) across the harbor to Staten Island and back. The round trip requires 46 minutes, but a shorter one is a trip across the Hudson to the Jersey shore and return. That takes only 20 minutes.

Too, most of the ferries carry street singers and musicians. Very romantic under moonlit skies and with ship whistles sounding their melancholy notes in the distance.

Another thing I observe on the waterfront is that the city has quit being politically minded in naming ferryboats. Once the boats were christened the John F. Hylan, the Patrick J. O'Brien and such. Now they are given more romantic names, often of Indian origin.

Errant Skipper.

Incidentally, that humorous cartoon of the ferryboat pilot who lost his way in the fog and ended up on a desert island almost came true a year or two ago. A passenger on one of the Staten Island ferries went slightly berserk, entered the wheel house and knocked the pilot unconscious.

Before the crew discovered something was wrong and recaptured the pilot house, the loco passenger had taken the wheel and headed the ferry on a course that would have sent it straight to Europe.

Dog Stuff.

"Will you please file away my telephone number," writes a Mrs. Sara Pennoyer, "if you should ever want any information about dachshunds? Our club has appointed a special committee to supply data on this breed of dogs."

Dorothy Parker has always been my dachshund information bureau. She insists that the reasons she chooses a dachshund is that when her apartment gets too crowded, she can always push her dachshund under a bureau and get him out of the way.

Legalization of 3.2 wine has revived that after-dinner delicacy which was so popular with Sarah Bernhardt—peaches crushed in iced champagne.

A course that attracts many uptowners to those push cart eating counters in Fourteenth street is steamed clams dipped in melted butter.

The manager of the Hippodrome received a summons for playing opera on Sunday. On the same Sunday a New York movie house offered a stage presentation which featured a condensed version of the opera, "Faust," and no interference was reported.

Varieties of Fun.

ONE man is dreaming, wishing, while toiling, keeping books, for pleasant days of fishing along the babbling brooks. To me that weird employment can offer no delights; it's barren of enjoyment, it brings mosquito bites. One fellow has the habit, when all the signs are right, of chasing quail or rabbit o'er all the land in sight. To me it looks like toiling for insufficient pay; such labor would be spoiling, for me, a pleasant day. For I can buy a rabbit, and I can buy a quail, from any local Babbitt for very little kale. One neighbor's always talking, until he gives me pains about the joys of walking along the country lanes. From gorse and shrub and heather he brushes morning dew, he wears out costly leather, without a goal in view. He camps beside a river and eats a can of beans, while I have luscious liver, all garnished with fine greens. From walking tours returning, he tells of joys he's known; but I am never yearning to tramp the veldt alone. All kindred recreations to me seem doubly vain, and in my meditations I sneer at t'other swain. While he is thus proceeding upon a foolish quest, I'm in my study reading the latest books and best. And doubtless he is saying of me, and looking wise, "He sits around decaying for lack of exercise."

Boiler Explosion Kills Spanish Navy Machinist

Cadiz, Spain, July 18 (AP).—A boiler explosion on the Spanish light cruiser Mendez Nunez killed a machinist today and four sailors were expected to die of their injuries. The blast came as the ship was lying off the Cadiz Shipyard.

The 5,000-ton cruiser carried 100 men and 20 officers. Considerable damage was reported done to the magazine and oil stores. Fire resulting from the explosion was extinguished before the ammunition was set off.

Building Gains In June Noted By Many Cities

Total Expenditures Reach $34,065,704; First Rise Over '29.

By Dun & Bradstreet, Inc.

New York, July 18.—The continued improvement in the building industry is reflected in the June building permit value total, which is just about double the low record of last February.

Returns to Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., from 215 cities of the United States for the month of June reveal a total of building expenditures amounting to $34,065,704, as compared with $31,525,523 for the identical cities in May, an increase of 8.1 per cent.

As compared with the June, 1932, total of $32,173,221, a gain of 5.9 per cent is shown. This is the first increase recorded over the preceding year's total since April of 1929, when new regulations pertaining to construction of large buildings went into effect in New York.

Three Areas Higher.

Three geographical sections of the country showed increases in June over the previous year. The middle Atlantic group had a rise of 31.1 per cent, Pacific 27.6 per cent and South Central 5.3 per cent. The New England, South Atlantic, Mountain, East Central and West Central groups reported decreases ranging from 0.6 per cent to 29.1 per cent.

In May, slight increases were reported only in the New England and Middle Atlantic groups. Comparing the various groups in June with the preceding month all sections reported larger totals, except the Middle Atlantic and Mountain groups.

The total value of building operations for the 215 cities for the first six months of 1933 amounted to $140,387,833, as compared with $235,146,971 for the first half of 1932. This represents a decline of 40.4 per cent from last year, but if the present rate of increase is maintained througout the balance of this year, building expenditures for the entire year will no doubt exceed those for 1932. This will be the first yearly increase since the boom year, 1925, when building was at its peak in this country.

Danubian Nations Join Wheat Curb

London, July 18 (AP).—Henry Morgenthau, American wheat negotiator, announced today that the "big four" wheat producing nations had reached an agreement with the Danubian countries providing for restriction of exports from the Danube area to 54,000,000 bushels this year and 50,000,000 next.

From other sources it was learned that Thomas A. Le Breton, Argentina's representative, and Stanley M. Bruce, Australia's delegate, had been present at the negotiations only by proxy. It was said, however, that they were likely to agree to the scheme published by Mr. Morgenthau.

The Czechoslovakian representative asked 24 hours to communicate with his government before saying acceptance was final, but it was indicated that a favorable response was expected.

500 Men Recalled By B. & O. Railroad

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., July 18.—Baltimore & Ohio Railroad authorities stated today that an order has been issued recalling 500 furloughed car repairmen to work at various points throughout the entire system.

Of this number 100 men have been ordered to return to work at Keyser, W. Va., where they will begin placing coal and other carriers into condition for use on the road. These additional men bring the total working in the car shops at Keyser to nearly 250.

Train No. 5, the Capital Limited ran in three sections this evening, due to increased passenger traffic en route to Chicago from New York, Washington, Pittsburgh, and other points. Two sections left New York this morning, and another was added at Washington.

Marble-Finish Steel Is Made For Buildings

Resin Surface Employed in Manufacture; May Imitate Wood.

Pittsbugh, July 18 (AP).—Preparing for an era of all-metal homes, the Mellon Institute announces a new marble-surfaced steel.

The stone effect is imitation, made by a laminated resin surface woven inseparably with the metal. Any other finish made with the new laminated resins can be added. In this manner steel can be either paper-coated or cloth-covered. It can be made to imitate wood.

Decorative finishes already are applied to steel by other methods, the announcement states, but says this is the first process to make the surfaces such an integral part of the metal.

Alloy Is Used.

The adhesive is an alloy, such as tin or zinc, which fuses with both the steel and the covering.

The process is a development of the felt-lined steel produced by the institute about a year ago. At that time both asbestos and cellulose linings were so strongly bonded on steel that the metal could be stretched and corrugated without loosening the covering.

Laminated resin is made by superimposing layers of resin-impregnated fabrics or paper and combining them under heat and pressure into a dense resin board.

Uses of Material.

The announcement states that by the new method steel can be substituted for most of the layers of fabric or paper now required. Only a very thin layer of surface veneer is needed. It is attached by one pressing operation.

"A sheet of steel may be produced," the statement explains, "having designs ranging from any textile pattern through imitation marble, wood, &c. The metal with these decorative resin surfaces is a potential material for construction for wainscoating in hotels and office buildings; as well as a wall material in kitchens and bathrooms, and in other rooms when the steel house comes into common use.

Doors and interior trim for buildings may also be made from this constructional material as well as certain forms of steel furniture and novelties."

(Associated Press.)

London—The stock exchange had a quiet and irregular session with most business centered around industrials. Chemical and coal shares registered cheerfulness on the Government's proposal to assist in the production of oil from coal. Gilt-edged securities were firm on investment buying, while rubber issues improved with the price of that commodity. Other sections, however, including transatlantic issues, were easy. The markets closed uncertain.

Paris—Prices on the bourse were irregular and mostly lower as traders, uncertain of the tendency of the market, lightened their holdings. The closing was indecisive.

Berlin—The tone of the boerse was generally firm.

Bonds Ascend Ladder in Spite Of Profit Drive

Foreign Obligations Hold Popularity; Sales up to $19,757,000.

New York, July 18 (AP).—The bond market stepped up another rung in the ascending price ladder today, although it had to climb over considerable profit taking to hold its advance.

As in recent sessions, foreign obligations, especially the South American, were in demand, but many domestic corporation loans recorded gains of 1 to 4 or more points. United States Government securities were dull and moderately irregular.

Sales totaled $19,757,000, par value, against $16,975,000 yesterday, and the average for 60 domestic corporate bonds advanced three-tenths of a point to another new year's high at 83.3.

Issues of the gold standard countries of France, Belgium and Holland were active with gains of 1 to 3 points, while similar advances were recorded by loans of Argentina, Brazil, Buenos Aires, Australia, New South Wales, Japan, Sao Paulo and Uruguay. Better financial prospects for South American countries, because of rising commodity prices, aided their maturities, while the buying of leading European bonds was attributed to "capital flight" is based on the fear of further dollar depreciation.

The most active domestic railroad gainers included mortgages of Alleghany Corporation, Santa Fe, Chesapeake Corporation, St. Paul, Great Northern, New York Central, New Haven, Nickel Plate, Southern Pacific, Southern and Union Pacific.

Among the better utilities and industrials were International Hydro-electric 6s, up 4½; Keith Corporation 6s, up 4⅝; Paramount Publix 5½s, up 3; Western Union 5s, up 1; American Smelting 5s, up 1⅛; American Telephone convertible 4½s, up 1⅛; Colorado Fuel 5s, up 2¾; Houston Oil 5⅛s, up 2, and National Dairy 5¼s, up 1¼.

Stocks Ride to Peaks Through Wild Market

Course of Trading Is Bumpy as Gain Averages Five-Tenths; Sales Volume Increases to 6,605,793 Shares.

New York, July 18 (AP).—Stocks stormed through a wild market today. They emerged with an average net gain, which meant a new high for the composite, but on the whole their course was somewhat bumpy. Sales totaled 6,605,793 shares.

Stocks began the day with a brilliant splurge, in which blocks ran as large as 30,000 shares. Extreme gains of 1 to 4 points were well tempered by profit-taking before noon, but the market then firmed a bit; however, it appeared rather nervous. Mining issues, notably the gold stocks, came forward with a rush in the afternoon, replacing the "repeals," which found the going heavy. On the whole, the market was a specialty affair.

Gold equities came into prominence when brokerage houses heard rumors that the Government was considering establishment of a free market for the metal, a report often circulated in the last month or so. There was no confirmation during market hours, but McIntyre, Alaska, Juneau and Dome jumped 3½ to nearly 6. Homestake added 18 points. Anaconda, Kennecott, American Smelting and International Nickel rose more than 1 point.

Elsewhere, shining performers included Hershey, Congoleum-Nairn, Simmons, Mengel, Devoe & Reynolds "A", Dunhill International and Superheater. Canada Dry Ginger Ale, which did not open until nearly noon, closed with a gain of 10⅛.

"Wet" stocks faltered. American Commercial Alcohol, U. S. Industrial Alcohol and National Distillers lost around 4 to 5. Commercial Solvents slipped 3. Standard Brands had an enormous turnover, finishing nearly a point higher. Net gains for U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Sante Fe, Southern Pacific, National Biscuit, Allied Chemical, Union Carbide, Bethlehem, American Can, Westinghouse and General Motors ranged from small fractions to more than a point.

Dollar weakness attracted attention. The British pound and the French franc went to new highs, sterling being of particular interest as it approached the old gold parity.

Statistics on the number of persons working at higher wages or shorter hours made cheerful reading; so did the increases of 7 and 10.8 per cent, respectively, in June employment and factory pay rolls reported by the Federal Labor Department.

General Foods increased its quarterly dividend from 40 to 45 cents a share and noted an 11 per cent expansion of sales in the first six months.

Dollar Hits Bottom On Foreign Marts

New York, July 18 (AP).—The dollar fell to a new low level today in terms of European currencies, and conversely the latter soared to the highest range in some years.

Sterling rose 5¼ cents, to $4.85 for cables, a figure within a couple of cents of the old parity of $4.8662. The French franc climbed nearly .7 of a cent, to 5.70½ cents; the Dutch guilder .69 of a cent, to 58.82 cents; belgas ¼ of a cent, to 20.34, and Swiss francs .27 of a cent, to 28.15 cents.

Pressure on the dollar was strong throughout the trading and virtually all of the important foreign monies closed at the top levels. The Canadian dollar followed the trend gaining 1⅛ cents, to 96.62½ cents. Far Eastern curencies were firm, with the Japanese yen ¼ cent higher and the Shanghai dollar up ⅝ of a cent.

Curb Advance Is Checked by Profit-Takers

Distillery Group Trimmed Under Selling; Trading, 1,502,000 Shares.

New York, July 18 (AP).—Heavy profit-taking in the distillery group was a disturbing influence on the curb exchange today and the general market closed hardly better than steady. Volume was again heavy, approximating 1,502,000 shares, compared with 1,405,000 yesterday.

Substantial buying in mining shares occurred at the close and leaders such as Newmont, Lake Shore and Pioneer Gold closed 1 to 2½ points higher. Utilities were quiet and leaders like Electric Bond & Share and American Gas & Electric showed negligible changes.

Oils were mixed. Humble improved a fraction while Gulf eased slightly.

Among the alcohol stocks some recovery was staged at the finish but losses at the close ranged 4 to 6 points in Hiram Walker, Canadian Industrial Alcohol A and Distillers Corporation-Seagrams.

Among industrials, Aluminum Company of America firmed a point but Swift & Co. was slightly reactionary. Jones & Laughlin rose 4 points on a small turnover, while General Tire & Rubber lost some ground.

U. S. Collects First 45 Cents Of New Taxes

Process Act Brings Income From New York; Lists Expenditures.

(Associated Press.)

The Government collected its first income from the wheat processing tax on July 15.

The statement for that day made public today carried this line under receipts:

"Processing tax on farm products —.45."

Treasury officials said they did not know what caused such a small payment.

It was in the Second New York District, which comprises part of New York City.

The statement showed that for the first 15 days of the 1934 fiscal year the Government had spent $27,495,359 on its emergency program. This money was distributed with $9,707,574 to the Federal emergency administration of public works, $19,324 to the administration for industrial recovery, $11,718 for the agricultural adjustment administration, $8,983,994 to the administration of emergency conservation work, $8,770,856 to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and $1,890 to the Tennessee Valley Authority.

In that same time the ordinary expenditures of the Government amounted to $168,644,537, while receipts from all sources totaled $85,971,324.

So at the end of the first half month, the Government had piled up a total deficit from general and emergency expenditures of $110,168,571.

That made the public debt on July 15 amount to $22,617,772,366.

Wheat Declines On Argentina's Export Plans

New High Price Records Set Before Drop Starts; All Grains Lose.

Chicago, July 18 (AP).—Staggered by reports that Argentina was offering to ship wheat to New York and undersell United States wheat, grain prices suffered sharp setbacks today.

New high price records for wheat, rye and barley preceded the downward plunge of grain values, with barley momentarily up 19 cents and wheat as high as $1.28⅛ a bushel.

All the cereal markets, however, were apparently in a strained, overbought condition for the time being, after eight successive days advance, and a shock from any source was sufficient to induce a landslide of selling, much of it to realize profits and not a little to stop losses.

Wheat Falls Sharply.

Despite assertions that the United States Government would likely intervene if necessary, with measures to prevent wheat imports into this country, wheat fell 4¼ cents from the day's top level, and notwithstanding violent transient rallies was hardly more than a cent up from the bottom when the speculative pits were cleared out by the final gong.

Wheat closed nervous, ¾ to 1¼ cents under yesterday's last transaction; corn, 1¼ to 2¼ down, and oats ¼ to ⅞ off, with rye and barley, respectively, showing gains of 1½ to 2⅝ and 2⅜ to 7¾ cents.

Spectacular price changes in the barley market were associated in some quarters with prohibition repeal elections in Alabama and Arkansas, but traders said fluctuations came about chiefly because a single broker who had an accumulation of buying orders with no offerings in sight, was able to bid the market up temporarily to a surprising extent. The result was to lift barley like wheat and rye to above $1.00 a bushel.

Weakness in Wheat.

Acute weakness which developed in wheat was attributed in part to the fact that wheat available for immediate use was not following the sensational upturns in speculative future delivery contracts. The basis for immediate delivery wheat today was 1 to 2 cents a bushel lower. In contrast, highest prices for futures were reached just at the opening, with May wheat at $1.28⅛, about 75 cents a bushel higher than eight months ago. Friends of still higher prices vainly pointed out that in 1925 with a much larger crop the United States May wheat had sold at $2.05⅞.

Adding to selling pressure on speculative deliveries of wheat was the fact that many commission houses were raising patron's margin requirements to 15 cents a bushel on account of recent big sudden price fluctuations in grains. The Board of Trade clearing house was also increasing its rates from ½ to 1 cent a bushel.

Beneficial rains in the Southwest and West parts of the corn belt tended to pull corn and oats prices down. Scarcity of barley offerings served to check would-be sellers of rye.

Provisions slanted upward, helped by $5 for hogs reached the first time in months.

Wool Market.

Boston, July 18 (A.P.) (U. S. Dept. Agr.).—Sales of wool are rather slow in fleece and territory lines. Prices remain very firm on the limited volume of business being transacted. Graded strictly combing 64s and finer territory wools have sold at 78@79 cents scoured basis. Moderate quantities of good French combing and average strictly combing 64s and finer territory wools in original bags sell at 77@78 cents scoured basis. Occasional sales of fleeces are being closed at steady prices compared with last week.

London, July 18 (A.P.).—A total of 10,372 bales of wool were offered at the auction today, of which 8,367 were sold. The good selection placed on the market met a better demand from the home trade and Germany. Withdrawals were still frequent and chiefly among slipes and inferior crossbreds owing to firm limits.

National Crude Oil Yield Gains 8,361 Barrels on Daily Quota

Tulsa, Okla, July 18 (AP).—The national crude oil output last week increased 8,361 barrels in daily average to 2,791,421 barrels a day despite a decrease in east Texas, the Oil and Gas Journal reports. Texas production fell from 1,312,798 barrels to 1,297,949 barrels a day, while east Texas' output dropped from 732,550 to 704,870 barrels.

In Oklahoma production gained from 573,605 to 587,980 in daily average.

California showed a 3,250-barrel increase to 488,000 barrels daily.

The Kansas fields held their high average of last week and gained a few barrels, production rising from 131,600 to 132,570 barrels a day.

In Eastern fields output increased 2,000 barrels to 112,000 barrels daily, while in the Rocky Mountain area output fell 360 barrels to 73,300 barrels daily.

Cotton's Gain Slashed From Record High

December Sells at 12.09 General Market Rises 8 to 15 Points.

New York, July 18 (AP).—An early advance in cotton which carried prices into new high ground for the movement was followed by nervous and irregular fluctuations today.

After selling up to 12.20 on the early demand, December closed at 12.09. The general market closed steady at net advances of 8 to 15 points.

Initial prices were 8 to 21 points higher in response to relatively firm Liverpool cables, and weakness in the dollar. Buying appeared to be stimulated after the call by the higher opening of the wheat market and strength in some other commodities.

Improvement of Industry.

Talk of improving industrial employment and pay rolls was also an encouraging feature on the advance which carried October contracts up to 12.00 and March to 12.38 making net gains of about 19 to 23 points on active positions.

October closed at 11.90. Last prices were about 7 to 10 points up from the lowest. Exports today, 36,054, making 8,261,184 so far this season. Port receipts, 21,069. U. S. port stocks, 3,222,277.

The showers reported in the Southwest were thought likely to be beneficial in some sections, but it was felt that general soaking rains were needed in the droughty sections, and there was considerable uncertainty as to the probable showing of tomorrow's weekly weather report. A cable from Liverpool reported a more two-sided market there. And houses with Liverpool connections had orders on both sides of the market here during the early trading.

R.F.C. Opposes Frisco's Plans To Reorganize

Federal Unit Joins Group of Banks in Fight; Capital Critized.

(Associates Press.)

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation yesterday joined with a group of banks and insurance companies in opposition to the plan for reorganization of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway Co., which is presenting its proposal for revamping its capital structure to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

A. A. Berle, special adviser to the corporation, appeared at the opening of hearings.

In the hands of the Federal Court at St. Louis, under the new bankruptcy act, the line has been in difficulties for nearly a year, and prior to going into receivership was ordered to make some change in an effort to reduce its interest and rental payments.

Capital Held Top-Heavy.

The commission held at the time that the road's capital structure was top-heavy.

The banks opposing the reorganization plan contend the stockholders of the road have not been called upon to make sufficient sacrifices, and that bankers for the road have received preferential treatment.

Several railroads which connect with the Frisco served notice that they will oppose any plan which does not provide for payment of their claims, such as traffic balances, car service per diem and damage claims. These roads include the Atchison Topeka and Sante Fe, the Chicago Rock Island and Pacific, the Illinois Central and the Southern Railway.

Bonds Return Asked.

The Bank of New York & Trust Co., holder of $2,500,000 of bonds, asserted its opposition to the plan and asked the return of its bonds, which have been deposited with a bondholders committee.

Other banks and life insurance companies which appear in opposition include the First National Bank of New York, owners of $5,306,000 of bonds; the Bowery Savings Bank of New York, owners of $937,000 of bonds; the Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York, owner of $1,750,000; the New York Life Insurance Co., owner of $9,000,000; the Equitable Life Insurance Society of the United States, owner of $1,171,000 of bonds, and the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks.

Move Started For Unionizing Steel Industry

Pittsburgh, July 18 (AP).—Officials of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers today announced a national campaign to unionize the steel industry.

Louis Leonard, secretary-treasurer of the union, which is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, said the fight is against the new "company unions" sponsored by some steel companies in anticipation of provisions in the new steel code.

Leonard said the battle may be a determined factor in settling whether the financial giants of the steel and coal industries will be permitted to maintain their traditional open shop policies.

U. S. Steel as Key.

The Amalgamated is concentrating the campaign on the United States Steel Corporation, king pin of the industry, and some of the larger independents.

Michael F. Tighe, of Pittsburgh, international president of the Amalgamated, was in St. Louis Monday to complete final plans for unionization of the Granite City Steel Co.

Leonard just returned from Gary, Ind., and announced the formation of a large union in the United States Steel Corporation plant there. He said similar work has been done in the Calumet district near Chicago and at the Indiana Harbor, Ind., works of the Younstown Sheet & Tube Co.

Fight on Code.

Amalgamated officials are to join other labor leaders in Washington next week at the steel code hearings to protest what they term objectionable features of the code outlined by the American Iron & Steel Institute.

"We have a code that is 58 years old, embodied in agreements drawn and signed with many independent steel concerns at our convention last April," Mr. Leonard said.

"That is the code we will submit to the National Recovery Administrator. We are ready to insist that this one-year agreement, which became effective with the independents July 1, 1933, be made the basis of a code to govern the entire steel industry."

Mr. Leonard said his organization is in sympathy with efforts of the International Association of Machinists to organize 25,000 railroad and steel mill machinists into local unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Appalachian Gas Assets Are Sold

Wilmington, Del., July 18 (AP).—Assets of the Appalachian Gas Corporation were sold by the organization's receivers today to the corporation's reorganization committee for $825,000.

The sum was the lowest bid fixed by the chancery court in its order directing the sale. The reorganization committee submitted the only bid.

The assets are to be transfered by the committee to a new corporation to be formed. The sale included all the assets except 90,945 shares of common stock of the Allegheny Gas Corporation of West Virginia and 203,169 shares of common stock of the Ohio-Kentucky Gas Co., also of West Virginia. These assets are to remain in the hands of the Appalachian receivers.

Transactions on N. Y. Curb Market

Total stock sales today, 1,502,000 shares; year ago, 64,495 shares. Total bond sales today, $7,400,000; year ago, $2,663,000.

The Theater Betrays a Healthy Sign—Some Film Previews

Juvenile Fare Scheduled for Child Theater

Fine Season Announced by Children's Theater; an Exchange Offer.

By Nelson B. Bell.

One of the signs of a healthy theater is the growing favor in which the yearly seasons of the Children's Theater of New York, at the National, are coming to be held by discriminating parents who wish their children's early knowledge of the playhouse to be fairly grounded in the juvenile classics of dramatic literature.

When the Children's Theater opens its second full series of six plays at the National in October, it will provide entertainment for the most varied of youthful tastes, according to most recent announcement.

The first play of the new season, "The Five Little Peppers," will appeal to both boys and girls, from the youngest to the most nearly grown-up. It relates in engaging fashion the sprightly story of a very real family of three boys and two girls, whose adventures and misadventures—as, of course, is known to all who have read the book—provide a morning of rollicking and completely wholesome entertainment.

"Curdie, the Princess and the Goblins," the second bill, appeals, on the other hand, to the childhood love of fantasy, just as does that famous old fairy tale of "Cinderella."

The last half of the season program offers a play especially for girls, another particularly for boys and a third of equal appeal to both—Louisa Alcott's "An Old-Fashioned Girl," Washington Irving's "Rip Van Winkle" and John Ruskin's "The King of the Golden River."

This entire series, as was the case last season when the offerings of the Children's Theater of New York met with enthusiastic approval, will be presented by professional adult companies recruited for their conspicuous facility in interpreting intelligently and realistically these gems of imaginative and innocuously romantic writing.

Tha Children's Theater will again be presented under the local auspices of the Women's International League.

Quick to vitiate this column's sinister suggestion of gastronomic disturbances that mght follow overindulgence in the gratuitous piece de resistance marking the proposed Saturday "Screen Snappies" matinees at Loew's Fox and Columbia Theaters, City Manager Carter Barron, of the Loew interests in Washington, yesterday indulged in a disarming display of precautionary generosity that has left this department prostrate in abject and defenseless humility.

Feeling impelled to controvert our skepticism as to the delightful savor and easy digestibility of the delicate confection that is to make it possible for youthful devotees of the cinema to acquire a handsome set of 32 tinted likenesses of the stars and featured players laboring in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer vineyard, and at the same time fearful of our tacit implication of an alimentary mechanism not quite up to the more mucilaginous of the treacles, and a flawless metabolism, the good Doctor Barron, obviously, was left in a bit of a quandary.

He wished to present us with a prodigal, not to say prodigious, package of "Screen Snappies" as a fair sample of their goodness, freedom from adulterants, artificial colorings and the other pet abominations of the late dean of the pure foodists, Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, and at the same time take no chances with the suspected weaknesses in our assimilatory organization.

With typical resourcefulness, the good Doctor Barron finally hit upon a scheme.

He sent us a bundle of "Screen Snappies" that a Coolie could hardly lift, with an urgent behest to see for ourselves whether gustatory disaster lurked in any of the gayly decorated packages.

There was another smaller parcel that accompanied the "Screen Snappies." Ever a cautious soul, the good Doctor was risking no unnecessary hazards.

Upon investigation, it proved to be a hefty carton of a standard product of one of our famed pharmaceutical chemists — a neutralizing and enormous box of Sodium Bicarbonate!

That, I submit, is what might in all reason be termed playing both ends against the middle!

But, after all, the joke is on the cautious and kindly Doctor. What I neglected to hint in the earlier remarks upon his projected adventure in dietetics was that this particular column combines with the avaricious appetite of a hippopotamus and the food capacity of an elephant the pig-iron-and-horseshoe-nail digestion of an ostrich.

So if you have an old Buick you'd care to trade for a can of bicarbonate or soda, I am open to any honorable proposition. Not too honorable, of course!

Speaking of Mr. Barron, yesterday evidently was his day for heaping Ossa on Pelion. At 1 o'clock in the afternoon in the private projection room of the Fox Film Exchange, he regaled the ladies and gentlemen (sic) of the dramatic desks with an anticipatory glimpse of practically the entire bill to be inaugurated at the Palace Theater, come Friday. The newsreel—not out yet—I believe, was the only item not revealed.

"Mama Loves Papa," the major feature, we saw; "Inflation," a well-gauged pictorial impetus to industrial recovery, we saw; "Nertsery Rhymes," a natural color, musical tabloid, starring Ted Healy and a cast of some note, we saw. All of them, either in whole or in part, I think, we liked.

"Mama Loves Papa" is a comedy that is really comic. Based upon a rather more substantial idea than most farces contrived primarily for laughter, this merry product of the collaborative wit of Nunnally Johnson and Arthur Kober reflects a quality of humor that has long been an eagerly sought feature of our most popular magazines.

The authors have been fortunate in having their amusing script intrusted to the titillating talents of such skilled farceurs as Mary Boland, Charlie Ruggles, Walter Catlett and George Barbier. They are equally competent in the extraction of humor from situations and from lines.

It is no part of the present purpose of this reporter to divulge the minutiae of "Mama Loves Papa's" fun, but it may be said without detracting from the element of surprise for future audiences that "Mama Loves Papa" possesses fun in unusual measure and of unusual quality. Not continuously convulsing—that would be both impossible and tiresome—it is, nevertheless, continuously interesting, with a not unwelcome touch of genuine drama about three-quarters of the way along.

It will prove beyond question to be one of the summer season's lustier laughs—which ought to be recommendation enough.

"Inflation," with running comment by Pete Smith, whose running comment very seldom slows down to a walk, by a process of logic that seems pretty thoroughly bullet-proof, attempts with considerable success to point out what was bruited about with some insistence as long ago as March 4—that happy days are here again, believe it or not. If you follow the picture close, you will probably believe it.

"Nertsery Rhymes" is peculiarly at war with itself. Spectacularly, it is at times profoundly impressive and in the matter of its ensemble singing it ranks near the top, but in the item of Ted Healy's comedy it wobbles slightly. Mr. Healy himself is not so bad, but his three inevitable stooges could be suppressed without serious damage to anything but their pride.

However, in the large view, "Nertsery Rhymes" is a step in the right direction in the salvaging of revue scenes from earlier feature pictures and the consequent enhancement of the opulence of short-reel production.

Walter Abel, whom Washington knows as both comedian and tragedian, has signed a contract with Paramount to appear as one of the leading men with Dorothea Wieck in her first American-made picture, "White Woman." He is en route from New York to Hollywood by motor in a leisurely trip to the West Coast for his first film assignment.

Mr. Abel will be remembered locally for his deeply emotional performance in Eugene O'Neill's tragic trilogy of "Mourning Becomes Electra" and as the engaging young practical joker in Rachel Crother's sprightly comedy of "When Ladies Meet," the part which has subsequently been played on the screen with slightly less success by Robert Montgomery.

Producer Jesse L. Lasky has a golden gift for the picture industry.

He'll give it away without strings, without royalties and sans restrictions, even though the idea is patentable and worth thousands.

This present to the industry is the "static-pan lap dissolve," as developed by James Howe, cameraman for the production of "The Power and the Glory," and it is available to any film unit seeking a 100 per cent improvement in photographic and dramatic effects.

The "static-pan lap dissolve" is a new method for depicting transitions of time and place—a moving dissolve originating from a static scene.

Now if someone will only make clear what is meant by "a moving dissolve originating from a static scene" everything will be just dandy!

I think I know vaguely what is meant by "static" in this connection and can cite a convenient example.

It is what this becomes right here!

Making a New Kind of Whoopee!

It is not quite clear whether Eddie Cantor—for it was, indeed, none other!—is playing some sort of new game or laying out a subdivision, but no such perplexity exists at the Columbia this week, where he is up to his old, familiar trick of knocking the customers ga-ga in Sam Goldwyn's opulent all-Technicolor picturization of the late Flo Ziegfeld's "Whoopee," which is full of it!

Italian Fliers Due Tomorrow For Short Visit

Public Will Be Welcomed at Ceremonies on Bolling Field.

By Charles E. Planck.

Ten Army, Navy and Marine Corps planes will land the 24 officers of the Italian armada at Bolling Field at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning, where the youthful Italian minister of air will be welcomed by the highest authorities in United States military and diplomatic circles.

On a stand now under construction at Bolling Field, Secretary of the Navy Claude A. Swanson, Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper and Secretary of War George H. Dern, flanked by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff, U. S. Army, and Admiral William H. Standley, chief of naval operations, will extend the Capital's first welcome to the fliers.

Brig. Gen. Alfred T. Smith, U. S. A., in charge of the Military Intelligence Division of the Army, and Capt. Hayne Ellis, U. S. N., director of Naval Intelligence, will also occupy the receiving stand, together with the Italian Ambassador.

Gen. Balbo will fly to Washington in an Army Lockheed plane. It is the plane ordinarily used by the chief of the Air Forces. In addition, the Army will use a Martin transport, and three Ford transports. The Navy will send two Ford planes, a Douglas amphibian and two Bellanca transports.

Assigned By Navy.

Navy pilots will be Lieuts. F. D. Owers, C. M. Huntington and Ford N. Taylor, one aviation pilot from the enlisted personnel, and Capt. H. C. Major, of the Marine Corps. Commander E. W. Spencer, Naval aid assigned to Gen. Balbo, will accompany the flight to New York, and then to Washington.

The flight will take off from Floyd Bennett Field at New York, and Gen. Balbo's plane will land at Boling first. Then, alternately, Army and Navy planes will land and unload their distinguished visitors.

The arrival of Gen. Balbo and his officers will be described over WJSV, WMAL and WRC. At 12:45 p. m., the President's greetings will be broadcast from the White House.

Col. B. K. Yount, commanding officer of Bolling Field, conferred with Navy officials yesterday afternoon as to the procedure in welcoming the Italians with due regard to international and military etiquette.

Full military honors will be extended in honor of the 37-year-old air minister. These consist of four flourishes and four ruffles by the Navy Band, followed by a march and salute of nineteen guns. For this ceremony, a guard will be furnished by the U. S. Army.

Attendance by the public will be welcomed at these ceremonies, and it is believed that Gen. Balbo will make a short, informal address to the Italian World War veterans and Italian citizens of Washington, gathered at the field.

Following the welcome the general will be accompanied to the Mayflower by Gen. Foulois, of the Army Air Corps; Rear Admiral Ernest J. King, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, Navy Department, and Secretary of Commerce Roper.

Luncheon With President.

At noon tomorrow Gen. Balbo, Gen. Pellegrini, Commander de la Compana, Lieut. Col. Cagna, Lieut. Col. Longo, Lieut. Col. Sbernadori, Capts. Nannini, Rocagno, Giordano, Biani and Questa will call at the White House for luncheon with the President. The other officers will be guests of Herbert Corey, president of the Overseas Writers' Club, at the Carlton Hotel for lunch.

In the afternoon Gen. Balbo, accompanied by the Italian Ambassador, Senor Augusto Rosso, will make brief calls on the Secretary of War, Secretary of the Navy, Secretary of Commerce and Secretary of State. At 4 p. m. he will leave the Mayflower for Arlington Cemetery, where he will lay a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

At 8:30 tomorrow night, Secretaries Dern and Swanson will be hosts at a dinner at the Army and Navy Club for all the party. They will leave Bolling Field at 8:30 Friday morning for New York, to resume the flight to Italy.

There are 97 officers and men in the entire flight, of whom about half are officers. It is not known definitely which officers will be among the 24 expected here, but it is assumed the commanders of the various planes will accompany their general.

These commanders are Gen. Balbo, Gen. Pellegrini, Capts. Questa, Biseo, Miglia, Borghetti, Nannini, Lippi, Rovis, Baldini, Leone, Teucci, Giordano, Napoli, Vercelloni, Recagno, Gallo, Abbriata, Biani, Ranieri, Aramu, Canistracci and Calo, and Lieut. Col. Longo.

Hannah Williams And Dempsey Wed

Former Champion, Stage Dancer Marry in Elko Instead of Reno.

Elko, Nev., July 18 (AP).—William Harrison (Jack) Dempsey, former heavyweight boxing champion, and pretty Hannah Williams, "cheerful little earful" of the Broadway stage, were married at a surprise ceremony here today.

Justice of the Peace Alvin McFarlane united the noted couple, who had motored across the desert from Salt Lake City during the night and registered at a local hotel as "Mike Costello" and "Jane Gray." Previously they had indicated they would be married in Reno tonight.

Only a few friends witnessed the ceremony. The attendants were Maurice E. Cain, Dempsey's business representative, and Mike Cantwell, trainer of Max Baer, the old Manassa Mauler's candidate for the heavyweight throne.

News of the couple's arrival spread rapidly and a large crowd gathered at the county courthouse by the time the ceremony was completed.

Oliver Newman Takes Post in Santo Domingo

James H. Moyle Appointed Customs Commissioner, Succeeding Eble.

Two men, one a District Commissioner under President Wilson, and the other Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in the same regime, yesterday announced they had accepted posts under two separate governments.

Oliver P. Newman, the former District Commissioner, will go to the Dominican Republic as financial and economic adviser. James H. Moyle will return to the Treasury Department as Commissioner of Customs.

Mr. Newman came to Washington more tahn 20 years ago as a newspaperman. He was appointed Commissioner by President Wilson in 1913, and reappointed for another term. He served only one year of the latter term, resigning to go into the Army. Since the war he has been a public relations counsel in New York.

He recently returned from Santo Domingo, where President Rafael L. Trujillo offered him the post of adviser. Under the terms of a treaty between this country and Santo Domingo, United States approval was necessary before he could take the job. His selection was approved, and he will sail in two or three weeks.

Mr. Moyle was sworn in yesterday even before his appointment had been announced at the White House. He will succeed Frank X. A. Eble, former commissioner of customs, who is now Treasury attache in Berlin. Mr. Moyle said that he had no intention of making any radical changes in the Bureau of Customs.

2 Arrested as Officer Uses Fingerprinting

Using knowledge gained in a fingerprinting course, which he is studying, Sergt. Ralph Brown, Prince Georges County policeman, yesterday arrested two youths in connection with breaking into a filling station.

Edward Carrol, 18, of 519 Roxboro place northwest, and James J. Crosby, 17, 711 Roxboro place northwest, arrested by Constable Warren Peake, confessed to the breaking in of Barrett's Filling Station, Hyattsville, according to police. They will appear in court today for trial.

Dairy Ratings To Be Studied In Milk Probe

Health Department Scores Will Be Scrutinized After Complaints.

Inquiry into practices of the District Health Department in rating dairies will be started today by Elwood H. Seal, special counsel to the Senate Milk Investigating Committee.

His decision to scrutinize closely the Health Department was occasioned by complaints from dairy farmers that their monthly ratings are in direct proportion to their relations with the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association.

These Health Department ratings have a direct bearing on the price the farmer receives for the milk. If his rating is high, he gets a better price. If it is low, he gets a lower price. Numerous complaints have reached Mr. Seal from dairy farmers who say their ratings drop whenever they fall from the good graces of the producers association.

Producers Cite Troubles.

The difficulties of entering the field as a milk producer were disclosed to Mr. Seal by Montgomery County producers who were interviewed yesterday.

One producer was advised not to go into dairy business by officials of the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association. In spite of their advice he started a dairy farm. Then his troubles began with the Health Department, he said.

An inspector ordered him to make improvements. He did. The inspector came back and ordered more improvements before he would issue a license to ship milk to the District. Then, the farmer again applied for a license and the same inspector ordered additional alterations.

Claims Ratings Changed.

After considerable difficulty at the end of which he threatened legal action to compel the issuance of the license, he finally succeeded in securing it. Mr. Seal said the same inspector ordered all the improvements.

The dairy farmer said he protested so vociferously against the scorings that the inspector raised his rating so the milk could be shipped here.

Other cases of poor ratings by the Health Department have been cited to Mr. Seal. In these cases, he said, the poor scores always followed difficulties between the farmer and the producers association.

Browns Drop Nats to Second Place as Yanks Win 9th Straight

This Morning

With Shirley L. Povich.

I SEE by the papers that Joseph Francis Cronin is so heavily burdened by the weight of his managerial duties that his batting has slumped to a mere .3696, which is only sufficient to give him the lead among all the American League batters this morning.

Of course, the figure filberts had to carry it out to four decimal points to prove that Cronin is outhitting the second-place man, Jimmy Foxx, by .0004 points, but I still maintain that, for a fellow who is supposed to be all wrought up over his slumping ball club and otherwise distracted by his daily piloting duties, Cronin isn't doing badly.

Gleam of Hope Seen.

These are dark days for the Nats, what with them losing six of their last nine games against such as the Indians, White Sox and Browns, but there was a gleam of light yesterday in the form of those ten hits off George Blaeholder and Sam Gray.

Time was when 10 hits was a subpar day's work for the Nats, who averaged 15 or more hits per day throughout their Western tour, but compared to their feebleness throughout their present home stand, 10 wallops are not to be sneezed at, particularly when they have been getting the kind of pitching that will win with 10 hits, barring errors.

Those 10 hits yesterday were no true indication of the way the Nats apparently were snapping out of their hitting doldrums. Three times the hitless Heinie Manush smacked the ball on the nose directly at some fielder. Carl Reynolds twice robbed Bluege of extra-base blows and once he committed a piece of no less than grand larceny against Fred Schulte.

Could Do Nothing Right.

A taste of a losing club's breaks was handed the Nats yesterday in that harrowing first inning when they couldn't do anything right and presented the Browns with the three runs that won the ball game.

Throughout the West last month, when the Nats were a winning club, they could do no wrong. It was the opposition which made the errors at the opportune time for the Nats. A Washington error, rare as it was, usually entailed no serious consequences. An error by the opposition, and presto, the Nats had three or four runs.

That's the way with a loser, and now the Nats know how it feels.

Runs, Hits and Errors.

The Nats have one consolation . . . third place is ten full games behind . . . that Monty Pearson, of the Indians, who held the Red Sox to four hits yesterday, is the same guy who deserved a shutout against the Nats two Sundays ago . . . Blaeholder's ineffectiveness yesterday dated from the moment he was spiked by Joe Kuhel in a race for first base in the fifth inning . . . out West the Nats were slug-nutty . . . now they're merely sluggish . . . if Jack Russell had been given his dues, he would have had a 3-1 victory over the Browns . . . Sam Gray, the Browns' relief pitcher, wasn't a success until he fractured his arm in the Texas League and was forced to pitch side-arm.

Pirates Rout Dodgers For 3d in Row, 11-8

Pittsburgh, July 18 (AP).—The Pirates made it three in a row over Brooklyn today by coming from behind to whip the Dodgers, 11 to 8, in a wide-open slugging match. The Dodgers had a six-run lead in the fifth, but Van Lingle Mungo weakened and the Pirates waded through the relief pitching for nine runs.

1-Game Lead Is Taken by New York

Walker Drives in 5 Runs in 9-4 Victory Over White Sox.

Yankees Pound Lyons; Allen Hurts Arm and Retires in Ninth.

NEW YORK, July 18 (AP).—The Yankees regained the league lead today, forging ahead of Washington as they defeated the Chicago White Sox, 9 to 4, for their ninth straight victory while the Senators suffered a setback at the hands of the St. Louis Browns.

The Yanks smacked Ted Lyons, the veteran knuckle-ball star, for an early lead and were too far ahead to be worried when Johnny Allen weakened in the ninth and Wilcy Moore had to be hurried in to stop a Chicago rally.

The triumph not only gave the world's champions a full game margin over Washington, but it gave them the longest unbroken winning streak that has been compiled in the major leagues this season.

Fred "Dixie" Walker, young center-fielder and lead-off hitter, set the pace for the Yanks, driving in five runs with a single, a double and his ninth home run of the season. The two-bagger sent in Tony Lazzeri and Bill Dickey in the second inning with the third and fourth Yankee runs. The homer came in the eighth with two aboard through singles by Dickey and Doc Farrell.

New York got off to a two-run lead in the first when Joe Sewell and Babe Ruth walloped doubles and the Babe came home from second on a passed ball and Lou Gehrig's fly. Walker helped make it 4-0 in the second, and a walk to Ruth, another passed ball by Charley Berry and Lazzeri's base hit gave the Yanks a fifth run in the third before Chicago made its first tally.

Tigers' Homers Beat Macks, 5-2

Philadelphia, July 18 (AP) — A home-run attack by John Stone and Erv Fox in the eighth inning sent three runs across and broke up a pitchers' duel to give the Detroit Tigers a 5 to 2 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics today.

Prior to that, the two teams had been deadlocked at 2-all.

Warneke Pitches Cubs to Victory

Chicago, July 18 (AP).—The National League champion Chicago Cubs maintained their slim margin over Pittsburgh for second place today, defeating Boston, 4 to 1, as Lonnie Warneke turned in his twelfth pitching victory of the season.

Warneke gave seven hits, widely spaced, and would have had a shutout but for an error by Bill Jurges in the eighth inning, which permitted Joe Mowry to score an unearned run.

Strong Helped by Veach in Suit

Former Tiger Star Tells of Wrist's Importance to Baseball Player.

DETROIT, July 18 (AP).—Bobby Veach, former baseball star, took the witness stand today to show why Ken Strong, athlete who is suing Dr. Alfred D. La Ferte, of Detroit, for $250,000 damages, needs strong wrists to play baseball.

Strong has charged that Dr. La Ferte, in performing an operation on his wrist, which was fractured in a baseball game in 1931, removed the wrong bone, impairing his career as a baseball and football player. Strong was a former star football player in the East and was to have joined the Detroit Tigers' baseball team.

Veach said he regarded Strong as a baseball player of exceptional promise, and, in a pitching demonstration in the court room of Federal Judge Ernest A. O'Brien, demonstrated why strong wrists are needed.

Mrs. Strong also took the stand, stating Dr. La Ferte had admitted removing the wrong bone from Strong's wrist in an operation, but declaring he assured her Strong would be in perfect condition after a second operation.

Dr. La Ferte, the first witness for his case, admitted removing the wrong bone in the first operation, but said that he told Strong his playing days were numbered and that the operation was his only chance of regaining even temporary control of his wrist.

2,000 Watch Burl Beat Sarron

Ceaseless Body Attack of Floridian Wins Nine of Ten Rounds.

Loses Only First Session; Brown-Tow Draw in Semifinal.

By Lewis F. Atchison.

THE rising star of Petey Sarron in the local fistic firmament met up with two-fisted Eddie Burl last night at the Laurel Arena and was drenched by a convincing defeat over the ten-round route.

Sarron, who mopped up the local talent during the winter's boxing at Portner's Arena, and then carried his unbeaten Washington career through a host of importations from other sectors, went down to defeat before the withering body attack of Burl, the Jacksonville, Fla., featherweight.

Two thousand fight-goers, the record outdoor crowd of the season at the Twin City bowl, saw Sarron threaten to knock Burl out of the ring in the first round with a whirlwind offensive to both the head and body, only to subside for the remainder of the bout before the Florida feather's dogged and ceaseless firing.

Sarron Suffers Cut.

Burl opened a cut over the little Syrian's left eye in the third round and the wound bled profusely. He worked on the injured orb throughout the remainder of the fight, but his best weapon was a tireless right to the body.

There were times when the pair stood toe to toe and flung both hands recklessly while the crowd rose in a body and screamed for Burl to put Sarron on the canvas. He did his best, but Petey was just a bit too tough and careful for him.

Sarron held continually as Burl beat him at his own game of rushing in and pounding the body. Sarron stood off and cracked the Floridian with long rights to the head, but heedless of the blows Burl retaliated with his unwavering boring-in tactics.

Both Tire Near Finish.

Both men tired perceptibly in the closing rounds, but even then action was at a brisk clip. Sarron rallied in the tenth and final round apparently trying for a knockout, but Burl rose to the occasion, beating him off with his right.

Bow Tow and Natie Brown struggled through six listless rounds to a draw in the semi-final. Flatfooted Brown stood and waited for Tow to come in to him, which he did, but very infrequently.

Arthur DeBeve's aging legs carried him into the well-timed and punishing blows of Ray Bowen in another six-rounder. Bowen won the decision by a comfortable margin. DeBeve tried for a knockout, but the few blows he landed were incapable of accomplishing this.

Quick knockouts ended the first two preliminaries. Kayo Broide, Baltimore sensation, knocked Frankie Vance cold in 61 seconds of the first round. Vance was out for a good five minutes. Jack Bullock punched Sailor Cross almost senseless in the second round of their scrap, the referee stopping the bout to save Cross further damage.

Field's Eclair Winner.

Leicester, England, July 18 (AP). Marshall Field's Eclair, at 5 to 2, today won the Leicestershire Oaks, a 1¼-miles run valued at £800 sterling, from Aga Khan's Parson and seven others.

8 Irishmen, 4 Pats, Invade U. S. Looking for a Fight

By Westbrook Pegler.
Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, July 18.—Eight young Irishmen came off the steamship Majestic in New York today, each of them looking for a fight. They will be accommodated in the great arena of Soldier Field, Chicago, on the night of August 2 in a card of bouts with the Chicago Golden Gloves Team. This is the third invasion of this kind in the international Golden Gloves series. The French began it in 1931, losing to the Chicago team of that year, five bouts to three, and the Germans were the guest gladiators last summer. They held the Chicago young men to a draw.

Four of the fighters and the coach are named Patrick or Paddy, but there is nobody in the party by the name of Mike.

Reading up from the flyweight, Paddy Connelly, a soldier in the Free State army, the fighters are as follows: Frank Kerr, bantam; Paddy Hughes, featherweight; Ernie Smith, lightweight; John Kennedy, welterweight; Paddy Hennelly, middleweight; Dick Hearns, light-heavyweight, and Paddy Mulligan, heavyweight.

Fought in Olympic Team.

Sergt. Paddy Dwyer is the coach, a veteran of the first Irish Olympic Team which fought in 1924. He fought as a welterweight and afterward turned professional.

The bearing of the Irish fighters was distinctly different from that of the French and the Germans as they landed in New York. They seemed much more at home and much more casual about it. The French youths were very wide-eyed and, regarding themselves as not quite up to international competition had no real notion that they might win. Consequently they were well pleased to have just missed a draw when it was all over. The Germans wore Olympic uniforms and were held under top-sergeant discipline during most of their time in the United States. They peered out windows and touched things wonderingly, much impressed by the strangeness of it all. Then, too, neither the French nor the Germans could ask the time of day in the language of the country, a fact which tended to drive them into a huddle.

Smith, who is tall for a lightweight, a kid with light fluffy hair, was told that his opponent would

Cutting the Potomac at an Angle With Goose Goslin

Louis Johrden, Post Staff.

Giants' Punch Routs Reds by 14 to 1

Vergez Seals Victory in First With His Tenth Homer of Season.

CINCINNATI, July 18 (AP).—The league-leading New York Giants hit almost everything the Reds' pitchers sent their way today and slaughtered Cincinnati, 14 to 1, in the final game of their series.

Johnny Vergez settled the game in the first inning when he walloped one of Larry Benton's pitches over the left field wall for his tenth home run of the season with the bases loaded. Benny Frey and Eppa Rixey followed and the trio yielded 19 hits. It was the most lopsided victory the Giants have scored this season.

Roettger's double and Chick Hafey's single in the sixth netted the Reds their first earned run off Hal Schumacher in four games.

Water Polo at Airport

A water polo game will be played tonight at the Airport Pool between the Airport team and the Municipal outfit at 8 o'clock.

High Speed Is Keynote of Nats' Slugger on Land and Sea.

A large tan sedan came hurtling out of Goose Goslin's garage, made a sharp right turn and sped noiselessly across Taft Bridge. It's occupant spied a familiar little blue sedan chugging sedately along about a block ahead. Goslin drew abreast of the little blue sedan, which was conveying The Post photographer, innocent of what the morning held in store.

"Hop in my car and we'll go for a boat ride," greeted the Goose. Right then and there one error was chalked up against the cameraman. He accepted with alacrity. Almost before the speedometer on the Goslin equipage had shot up, past the 40-mile mark, the photographer realized that he would have been more happy rolling peacefully along in his own inimitably serene fashion.

Inside Yacht Club Gates.

By the time they came to a screeching, rubber-burning stop inside the gates of the Corinthian Yacht Club, the passenger was more than vaguely uneasy.

Goslin is an avowed speed enthusiast on water as well as on terra firma. His own speedboat is a familiar figure on the waters near his Salem, N. J., home—hence this morning's excursion. He was on speaking terms with many of the craft tied up on both sides of the long wharf. The Hacker, Walter A. Saunder, jr.'s, entry in the President's Cup regatta, was his choice for this morning's ride. As she pulled alongside the float, the picture-snapper made his second error. He jumped in.

Gives Boat the Gun.

Goslin slid under the wheel, gave her the gun and they tore away in a shower of spray. The cameraman was silently hoping the Goose knew as much about speedboats as he does about baseball.

"There's nothing much to this unless you hit a log or sand bank," opined Goslin, sending the Hacker into a series of serpentine convolutions by bearing first hard to port, then hard to starboard. "I hit a sand bank once," he added helpfully.

Followed a figure-eight, topped by a hair-breadth miss of an ominous looking buoy. If Clarke Griffith could only have seen the right-field portion of his baseball nine now!

Finally Docks Craft.

After much cutting of spray-dispensing didoes, the "Hacker" was docked. As her passengers alighted, a monoplane soared off the ground at Bolling Field. Goslin gazed wistfully.

"If we hurry, we can just about get over there for a . . ." He was talking to empty space. The Post photographer had beaten a hasty retreat.

As for Goslin, he went out to the ball yard and slammed out a home run and two singles. Whattaman!

Strideaway Moves Up at Turn Into Stretch to Take Feature Race at Arlingto

Three D Star Beats Out Clarify

Wins by Three-Fourths Length; Boilermaker Third.

ARLINGTON PARK, July 18 (AP).—The Three D's Stable's Strideaway gave the form players some anxious moments in the Hickory Hills Purse at Arlington Park today, but made a fine stretch run to win the 1-mile event.

Strideaway, ridden by A. Beck, trailed the field until the last turn, when he started to move up. Beck shook him up and he responded with a rush that carried him to victory by three-quarters of a length over M. L. Schwartz' Clarify. E. R. Bradley's Boilermaker, which cut out the early pace, held on to save the minor end of the purse.

The winner ran the mile in 1:37, and as favorite paid $4.30 for each $2 straight ticket.

Warren Wright's Hadagal, a 2-year-old son of Sir Galahad III, breezed to an easy victory in the fourth race, a 5½-furlong test. Jockey Wayne Wright hustled Hadagal to the front at the lift of the barrier and kept him there to win by two lengths. Discovery made a challenge in the stretch, but did not have enough to overtake the winner. The Greentree Stable's Sky Hill was third. The time was 1:05 3-5, and the victor paid $3.32 for $2.

Imelda Wins At Latonia.

Latonia, Ky., July 18 (AP).—Closing with a cyclonic rush, J. Neel's Imelda got up in the last jump to beat J. T. Hughes' Pompatic in the principal offering on today's make-shift program. I. Kort's Proud Princess, the favorite, finished third.

The card was minus a fancy-named feature, seven of the eight events being given over to platers and the other to maidens. The best field, however, competed in the fifth dash, and certainly it produced the most exciting contest of the day.

Pompatic, showing his usual early speed, opened up a two-length lead after a half mile, with Proud Princess in closest pursuit. Turning for home the latter began to tire, and Pompatic appeared to have the race as good as won, but Imelda loomed a threat a sixteenth out and under vigorous hand ride got up in the final stride to win by a neck. Black Comet, one of the favored ones, quit after showing brief early speed.

Imelda was an outsider in the mutuel betting and rewarded her backers at $16.48 for $2. She negotiated the six furlongs in 1:13 1-5.

Strange as It Seems

—By John Hix

LOUIS XVI, whose hobby was watchmaking, invented the famous meridian gun that for more than a century announced high noon in Paris with a loud boom. The cannon was constructed so that a large burning glass would touch off the charge every day at noon, provided of course the sun was shining.

It was put in operation in 1786 and continued to boom its noonday greetings from the garden of the Palais-Royal in Paris until August of 1914, when it was stopped because its sound was mistaken by Parisians for German bombardment. Recently it was planned to recondition the gun and put it in operation again. Strange as it seems, the gun will have gained an hour in the interim—because Paris is on daylight saving time, the cannon will fire at 11 a. m.

The sense of smell in the Chinese moth is developed to an almost incredible degree. It is, however, a highly important development, playing as it does a vital part in the mating season. It is by a sense of smell that the male finds the female. Investigators have found that more than a fourth of the males liberated seven miles from an imprisoned female returned to her cage. Strange as it seems, to the human the Chinese moth gives not the slightest hint of odor.

Dear Al:

Arlington Park, July 18.

Col. T. Fred Moore, of New York, the big Liberty Loan Poster man, who is now cooperating with the recovery act, was around today for the first time this season. It was the colonel who figured out a foolproof system for beating the races and then, being a friend of the turf, discarded it because he reasoned such a system would end all racing. He left a parlay on Islam and Pairbypair before flying East tonight. I couldn't find Mike tonight and we'll probably be better off. His good things have been plenty sour lately.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—DAWN CHILD is a nicely bred youngster. She comes to this maiden test backed by good workouts and may provide the chief speed in this race. FANCY FEATHERS may be a good one. MUMSIE has as much right being third as any of the others.

SECOND RACE—We have a tough field in this sprint. Personally, I'm going to recent winners. I mean LOUIE DEAR and OUTBOUND. Both are at tops and they are mighty hard to separate. MORSUN for the show.

THIRD RACE—CHOKOLOSKEE seldom wins twice in a row but that last was so impressive that I'm inclined to try to make it two in a row. HAPPY ANNE is ready to do the pressing. FIDDLER for the rest.

FOURTH RACE—ELF LOCK is another recent winner that I'm going to string along with. Must be right, however, to take the measure of CLOUD D'OR and DON MANUEL.

FIFTH RACE—ISLAM is in rare form now and I can't see this field stopping him. That last will take care of this group. COG-AIR is sprightly now and should be no worse than second. CRAP SHOOTER for the show end.

SIXTH RACE — PAIRBYPAIR, formidable as a weight carrier, gets in action here tomorrow with the top of 115 pounds. However, this is much less than usual and the speedy fellow should make no mistakes. If beaten, SUN DOT may turn the trick. SUPREME SWEET to take the lesser award.

SEVENTH RACE — BATTLING ON seems ideally suited here and is likely to draw Westrope. Looks like a set of brackets. OATEN and TARNISH to complete the money picture.

EIGHTH RACE — HARAMZADA was being whispered around the paddock late today. LONGUS and BETTY BARRETT will be ready if the good thing makes any mistakes.

67 Golfers Tee Off Today at Indian Spring in Maryland Title Play

Medal Round of 36 Holes Is Listed

23 District Golfers Will Compete; Peacock Is Among Choices.

Baltimore Sends Best Men; 145 Will Win Medal, Says Pro.

By Dave Herman.

GOLF stars from Baltimore and Washington will invade Indian Spring's course this morning to try their fortunes in the 36-hole qualifying round of the Maryland State Amateur championship.

Four additional entries yesterday boosted the field of participants to 67. Of this number only 23 are District golfers, but it is safe to state that by teeing off time at least 15 more Washington players will be among the eleventh-hour entries.

Morning and afternoon rounds will be played today, with the first threesome, composed of Howard L. Stephens, Henry L. Zouch, both of Baltimore, and Harold N. Graves, jr., firing off at 9 o'clock.

32 Lowest to Qualify.

The first 32 low scorers will be placed in the championship flight for match play starting tomorrow and continuing through Saturday, when the two finalists will be brought together in a 36-hole battle.

Baltimore is banking heavily on such seasoned campaigners as B. Warren Corkran, defending champion, and also winner in 1921 and 1928; Ernie Caldwell, 1932 Middle Atlantic titleholder; Dave Crook, who succeeded Caldwell this year, and Donald McPhail.

Practice Round of 72.

In a practice round yesterday Peacock pounded out a 37-35—72—the lowest reported. Harry Pitt, of Manor, is a good bet to outlast the field. Maury Nee, of Columbia, who has been shooting in top form of late, is listed among the local favorites. And you can't overlook John Jankowski, of Catholic University, a smooth performer.

Indian Spring's pasture is in prime condition. The greens, spongy yesterday, are expected to be fast today. A scorching sun will be just the thing to help make the fairways fast.

The golfer who shoots the 36 holes in 145 will win the medal. Such is the verdict of George Diffenbaugh, pro, and other observers.

Harvey Johnson, Kenwood; George F. Miller, Manor; Dick Kruezberg, Indian Spring, and Harris Jones, Baltimore C. C., are the latest entries.

Welsh, D. C. Netman, Advances in Tourney

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., July 18 (U.P.).—Barney Welsh, of Duke University and Washington, D. C., today advanced to the third round of the West Virginia State tennis tournament by defeating R. Sutter, of White Sulphur Springs, 6—0, 6—0.

Welsh will play W. Williams, of Charleston, W. Va., in the third round tomorrow.

Another Washington player, R. Willis, of the University of North Carolina, lost a second-round match to Paul Pollard, of Huddleston, Va. The winner's score was 3—6, 10—8, 8—6.

In the women's singles, Miss Bobsy Turney, of Washington, won by default over Mrs. Frances Smith, of Huntington, W. Va.

Miss Betty Cochrane, of Washington, defaulted to Miss M. Taylor, of Alleghany, Pa.

Dempsey Wedding Gave Town Break

Elko, Nev., July 18 (AP).—An alert member of Elko's police force claims he persuaded Jack Dempsey and Hannah Williams to select Elko as the setting for their wedding today.

The officer, W. W. Cook, spotted Dempsey and Miss Williams a few minutes after they registered at a hotel under assumed names. He had known Dempsey for 20 years.

"Are you going to be married?" he asked.

Dempsey replied that he and Miss Williams intended to be married in Reno or at Calneva, Lake Tahoe.

"Why don't you give Elko a break and be married here?" Cook asked. "Elko has had no celebrities since President Hoover made a speech here last November."

"How about it, honey?" Dempsey inquired of Miss Williams.

"It's okay with me," was the answer, so Cook says he went ahead and arranged for the wedding.

Golf Card of 81 Mark for Miss Dettweiler

Round at Kenwood Called Lowest for Woman on District Course.

HELEN DETTWEILER, 18-year-old Manor Lassie, came within 2 shots of tying Maureen Orcutt's unofficial record for the Kenwood golf course yesterday.

Playing in a match with her 15-year-old brother, Billy, against Virginia Pope and Harvey Johnson, of Kenwood, Miss Dettweiler scored an 81, believed to be the lowest ever registered on the course by a District woman player.

Miss Orcutt, the famous Englewood, N. J., golfer, blazed the trail for women shooters last April on her perennial visit, producing a 39—40—79.

Has Incoming 40.

Hitting her shots long and accurately, and knocking her approaches almost stone dead to the pin, Miss Dettweiler traversed the first nine in 41 strokes, and the incoming side in 40. A birdie 3 on the 320-yard fifteenth, thanks to a 225-yard drive, was the spark that enabled the Manor girl to par the next two holes. Only a bad second shot prevented her from playing the last four holes in 1 under standard figures. Her card showed 6 pars. There was but one 6—most unusual for a woman player.

Despite her fine score, Miss Dettweiler and her brother lost to Miss Pope and Johnson by 1 up. Billy shot an 80, Johnson a 77 and Miss Pope, junior champion, an 85.

Miss Dettweiler's score, 5 strokes below her previous best, is considered remarkable, since her golf career is not quite two years old.

Her card:
Par out	444	453	434—35
Miss D'weiler	545	454	545—41
Par in	345	544	434—36—71
Miss D'weiler	465	553	435—40—81

Connelly Upset in City Golf Title Play

Choice Bows to M. Oliveri by 3 and 1; Allen and A. Oliveri Advance.

THE first upset of the District public links championship occurred yesterday and found young Johnny Connelly the victim.

Connelly, Rock Creek open champion, and rated as one of the big favorites, was eliminated in the opening round of match play at Rock Creek by Mike Oliveri, 3 and 1.

The match was waged in dingdong fashion until Oliveri took advantage of Connelly's numerous miscues along the fairway and put on full steam when he reached the 15th hole. Oliveri finished the 18 holes in 74 and Connelly in 75.

Allen, A. Oliveri Win.

Only two other matches were played in the championship flight at Rock Creek. H. R. Allen, who was one shot back of the medalist, John Baer, with his 73, scored an easy victory over Eddie Stolack by 4 and 3.

Andy Oliveri advanced to the second round by putting out Bob Sibley, 3 and 1.

In the lone match played in the second flight, John Cantwell scored a thrilling 1 up victory over Harry Day.

In the third flight, Bob Morris beat Ken Wood, 3 and 2; J. C. McGrew trimmed Bob Leapley, 3 and 2; E. H. Allison defeated Jack Osborne, 2 up, and W. H. Bissell put out Willard Turner, 1 up.

J. J. Reilly won from G. C. Dorsey, 8 and 7, in the only match turned in in the fourth flight.

No matches were played at East Potomac, but the big guns will blaze away today. All first-round matches both at East Potomac and Rock Creek must be completed by tomorrow.

U. S. Chances in Cup Final Improve

Perry, British Star, Nursing Torn Muscles; May Not Play Friday.

PARIS, July 18 (AP).—America's Davis cup forces, growing steadily in favor in the eyes of the French as the Interzone Davis Cup final with Great Britain approaches, practiced lightly today on the Roland Garros Stadium center court, where play starts Friday.

Conjecture over the condition of Fred Perry's shoulder was increased, and Britain's chances of beating the United States slumped accordingly, as England's top ranked star left for France today saying he was "all right," but that a muscle had been torn in his shoulder during the conquest of Australia in the European zone final last week.

With Perry in anything but top condition, Britain is conceded little chance to conquer the Americans and advance to the challenge round with France next week-end.

Lee May Replace Perry.

Perry took part in two of Great Britain's three match victories over Australia, beating young Vivian McGrath in the singles and pairing with the veteran George Patrick Hughes in the doubles. The injury kept him out of the final singles, where he would have met Jack Crawford, new Wimbledon champion who beat both Henry W. Austin, who will also play singles against the United States and H. C. N. Lee, who substituted for Perry in the final singles match.

Lee probably will be named to take Perry's place in the doubles, teaming with Hughes, if it is decided that Perry's shoulder can not stand the strain of three successive days of play. Perry was pronounced fit by his physician before leaving London today.

"My shoulder now is quite sound," Perry said, "I intend to start practice as soon as I reach Paris."

The French believe that Austin will be the underdog against both Ellsworth Vines, American champion, and Wilmer Allison, second singles player, making it necessary for Perry to beat both and help further with a doubles conquest of George Lott and John Van Ryn if Britain is to gain the challenge round.

Vines today concentrated on his service in practice, acclimating his fast ball to the soft Roland Garros Courts, a complete change from the hard surface of Wimbledon, where he last played. Bernon S. Prentice, captain of the squad, kept all from serious work. Lott amused himself banging hard shots against the backwall.

Nats Now Second As Browns Score

and Reynolds scored with the second run of the inning.

The third run of the inning was just as heavily tainted. It was wrapped around a double steal. Campbell, on first, started for second and drew a low throw from Sewell. Burns, on third, dashed for home, and Buddy Myer, taking Sewell's throw far out of position, could only fling it back in the general direction of the plate. The direction was too general, however, and Campbell slid in safely.

Cronin had shaken up his batting order mildly for the game, dropping Manush to third and advancing Goslin to second. The Goose rewarded him with a home run over the right field wall to touch off a two-run fuse in the sixth inning and close the gap to 3-2, but the Browns boosted it to 4-2 in their next turn at bat and the Nats' one run in the seventh was one run too few.

Fred Schulte left two stranded on base in the first inning and Sewell hit into a double play in the second. Schulte did the same stunt in the fourth and the Nats had been shut out for five innings before they solved Blaeholder.

Goslin wheeled on an inside curve and rammed it over the wall to launch the third and Blaeholder was lucky to escape with only two runs in that frame. Manush was out on a terriffic liner to Burns and Cronin whacked a triple to the center field wall, scoring on Schulte's liner that Reynolds caught with a butterfly flutter out in the left field wall.

Then the Browns came back to score the run that won the ball game. Blaeholder singled and Scharein advanced him with a lucky hit that bounced a mile over Russell's head. West's looper into left was the finishing blow.

With two out, the Nats turned a walk to Russell into a run when Buddy Myer doubled him home, but Manush left both Myer and Goslin, who had scratched a single, stranded with the tying and winning runs when his liner made a bee-line for Levey's glove.

The Nats had the tying run on again in the ninth when Sam Rice, pinch hitting, popped a single over Mellilo's head, but Buddy Myer, the hero of the seventh, was the goat of the ninth, missing a strike which happened to be the third one.

Burke to Pitch Against Browns

the Brownies today, while Manager Joe Cronin will use either Bobby Burke or "Prof." Monte Weaver. It probably will be the former in view of his five-hit shutout performance against these same Browns last Saturday in the second half of the twin-bill.

"General" Al Crowder probably will not be available for two or three more days. The injured finger nail on his pitching hand seems to be getting no better fast, despite Trainer Mike Martin's treatments.

As Heinie Manush has been the most consistent hitter for the Nats of late, Manager Cronin shifted him from second to third in Goose Goslin's place in the batting order in the hope that his blows would come with an occasional man on the runways. All the change did was to pep up the Goose and to jinx Heinie.

Those two errors in the first, one by Cronin and the other by Sewell as Scharein was scoring, also indirectly gave the Browns their two other runs in this frame. Following the miscues, the infield played close and this let Campbell's pop go as a hit, although it dropped just behind the grass out of Cronin's reach.

Goslin made a good try for a shoestring catch of Reynolds' liner opening round 3. The ball carommed off the glove directly to Schulte; otherwise the batter would have gotten a triple instead of a double.

Burns made a fine glove-hand stop of Kuhel's hot grasser opening the home fifth, but pegged poorly to Blaeholder, covering the sack.

Reynolds came through with a sensational catch at Schulte's expense in the sixth, taking the ball over his head flush against the stands in left.

Lady Luck smiled on Scharein in the seventh. He bounded one a mile high off the home plate and was on first for a hit before the ball came down.

Blaeholder did not have a strike-out victim or issue a pass until the seventh. Then he fanned Bluege and later walked Russell.

The veteran, Sam Rice, hit for Russell with two out in the ninth and dropped a Texas league single to right.

Scout Aquatic Prize Won by Robert Wood

Boy Scouts of the District and vicinity, some 2,000 strong, held sway yesterday in an acquatic meet in the Crystal Pool at Glen Echo Park. The fancy diving contest, won by Elmo Legg, was very closely contested. Anthony Auth and Richard Boss were second and third, respectively. Legg also won the 30-yard free style for boys 106 pounds and over.

Robert Woods won the special prize awarded for showing the highest degree of sportsmanship.

Irish in U. S. Looking for a Fight be a colored boy named Eddie Ward.

"A dark man?" said Smith, raising his head from the pillow. "That's fine. Then I can see him better."

Campe Was Upset.

Last year, Erich Campe, a little German police cadet from some barracks around Berlin, had been visibly upset when they told him he was to fight a negro boy named Johnny Fagan. He had never seen many colored men and his hearsay about them was not comforting. And in the first round of the fight Fagan hit him one well-timed clip on the chin which knocked him out of the ring, and laid him among the typewriters while the referee, under the amateur rule counted 20 over him.

The anxious fighter is likely to ask questions about his man. Smith laughed, rolled over and made no inquiries about Eddie Ward, the dark man with the Irish name.

But dark men were no more common in Ireland than in Germany.

Fortunately, there were no professional halter-men hanging around the pier as the Irish fighters came ashore. Otherwise, the young Hibernians might have had to go into action prematurely to beat the piece-workers off two very impressive young fighters who might be brought along to very profitable operations in the prize-fight business in this country. These two would be Dick Hearns, the light-heavyweight who has the look of a good fighter in every line and move and Paddy Mulligan, the heavyweight, who stretches six feet seven and weighs about 225 pounds.

Hearns Tall as Primo.

With none of the monstrousness of Primo Carnera, who was worth a nickel a peek even to the frugal French before he ever started to fight, Hearns is about as tall as Primo and a bigger man than any of the prominent professionals who will be asked to fight him in the next year or two. He is bigger than Sharkey, Baer and Schmeling, and yet he is fighting in Chicago a little heavyweight of the exact type which is usually recommended for cutting down big, tall people. His opponent will be John Pacek, about five feet eleven, who weighs no more than 185, and might be able to come in under and then up, throwing presents at his chin.

Klein Hits 18th; Cards Win, 9-4

St. Louis, July 18 (AP).—Dizzy Dean was effective today and the St. Louis Cardinals won from the Phillies, 9 to 4, to get an even break in the series. It was Dean's twelfth victory against ten defeats.

Chuck Klein went into the lead in the National League by hitting his eighteenth home run of the season in the eighth inning, scoring behind Bartell.

Mt. Rainiers to Meet Grocery Nine Today

Boasting 22 wins out of 24 starts, the Mount Rainier Unlimiteds loom as strong contenders for the Prince Georges County championship. They are now gunning for the Hyattsville All-Stars, Dixie Pigs and any and all other teams that consider themselves in the running for the county title.

Post Mortems . . .

Wanted by the Nats . . . a pitcher of the 1913 type of Walter Johnson . . . all the Big Train did that season was to win 37 games and have a record stretch of 58 scoreless innings . . . Young Van will resume training tomorrow at Frankie Mann's gym . . . and maybe Henry Irving won't be pleased to hear this . . . the two probably will be matched again for a big purse . . . taking advantage of Everett Marshall's mat popularity here, Promoter Joe Turner plans to build him up for bigger and better things, it is said . . . George Simpson's 2-year-old son was given a set of golf sticks yesterday by George Diffenbaugh, Indian Spring pro . . . something close to a record of some kind for soft baseball games was established at Laramie, Wis., last night when the Grothe Lumber nine initiated a new league season with a 71-1 victory . . . the Phi Delts were the victims . . . both teams were exhausted after five innings and the hostilities were declared off.

The streamer line on the first page of yesterday's home edition of The News read: "Post 17 hours ahead" . . . what a newspaper! . . . Harold N. Grange, jr., young Indian Spring golfer, shot a 32 for the last nine Monday over the Hillandale course in Baltimore . . . he did this in the pro-junior tourney, which he and Mel Shorey won . . . Grange had four birdies in succession . . . Oscar Melillo, the Italian infielder of the Browns, is nicknamed "Spinach" . . . it seems he prefers this weed to spaghetti . . . Harry Peacock, whose son, Roger, is the District amateur champion, set something of a putting record at Indian Spring Monday, when he took only 22 putts for the 18 holes . . . he canned putts from all angles on the first nine, using up only ten on that side . . . His brilliant putting streak enabled Peacock to turn in the best score of his life—a 76.

Youth, Hoaxed On Depth of Water, Drowns

John Flynn, Jr., Dies at Mt. Rainier When Told "Come on Out."

Accepting a challenge from an older boy to enter deeper water, 10-year-old John Flynn, jr., of 2523 Third street northeast, was drowned yesterday in "the old swimming hole" in Northwest Branch, near Mount Rainier, Md.

After more than 10 minutes of submersion, he was pulled from the water by Jack Thompson, 16, of 3567 Warder street northwest, who happened to be passing nearby on Queens Chapel road.

Thompson, a junior life saver, was unable to revive the boy. The Bladensburg and Mount Rainier Rescue Squads responded and used artificial respiration for approximately one-half hour. He was pronounced dead by Dr. H. T. Willis, of Hyattsville.

Accident Reconstructed.

The accident was reconstructed last night at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Robert E. Joyce, of Mount Rainier. Thomas Rapp, 11, 2500 Third street northeast, testified that he and Kenneth Fenton, 11, 232 Channing street northeast, and John Flynn, had gone to the swimming hole without the knowledge of Flynn's mother.

At the creek, both Thomas and Kenneth said, they met seven other boys, slightly older than themselves. These boys, they believed, were from Mount Rainier. John, who couldn't swim, asked one of the youths already in the creek how deep the water was.

"Oh, not deep," the boy is said to have replied, "come on out." So John waded out.

In a minute he was struggling in water over his head. Thomas and Kenneth, they testified, immediately jumped to the rescue, while the other boys stood on the bank and watched, apparently paralyzed with fear.

Under Third Time.

The drowning boy grasped Thomas by the neck and Kenneth by the wrist. Twice they went under, Thomas said, before they could free themselves. The third time John went under alone and failed to return to the surface.

Young Rapp ran to the road, where he found Thompson, while Kenneth and the other boys ran for other assistance.

At the close of the hearing Justice of the Peace Joyce stated that it was a clear case of accidental drowning and ordered a certificate to that effect. The names of the other boys at the scene had not been learned last night.

John Flynn is the son of John M. Flynn and Mrs. Frances Flynn, of the Third street address. Besides the parents, the boy is survived by one sister and two brothers, Ann, 11; Buddie, 7, and Bernie, 6. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Bridge Design To Be Aired at Meeting Today

Commissioners Will Hear Masonry and Single Span Steel Plans.

The question of what kind of structure will replace the existing dilapidated Calvert Street Bridge will be discussed before the District Commissioners and Senator King, chairman of the Senate District Committee, this morning.

Maj. George Oakley Totten, jr., whose masonry design started the controversy more than 16 years ago, is scheduled to defend his plan, while Engineer Commissioner John C. Gotwals is prepared to submit a detail report in support of the single span steel structure designed by the municipal architect's office.

Representatives of the Board of Trade and Washington Chamber of Commerce will participate in the hearing. Senator King has indicated his preference for a masonary design.

Commissioner Gotwals will call Maj. Totten's hand at once, however, for placing on his plaster model a placard stating that his plan was approved by the District Commissioners and the Fine Arts Commission in 1917. As a matter of fact, Maj. Gotwals said, both agencies decided that the design was too ornate.

After the Commissioners act, the Fine Arts Commission must approve the design before the bridge can be built. So far no money is available to start the structure although the Budget Bureau has been asked to approve an initial appropriation of $575,000 out of the gasoline tax surplus to begin work. The total estimated cost is $1,250,000.

Plans for the single span steel bridge are already drafted. New plans, according to the Engineer Commissioner, would cost $50,000. Totten's bridge would cost $250,000 more than the steel arch span, while a masonry-covered single span would cost about $400,000 more, according to Maj. Gotwals.

Wives Win!

Two Husbands Ordered to Jail for Neglecting to Pay Alimony.

One man was sent to jail and an order directing the commitment of another was signed in District Supreme Court yesterday because of alleged defiance of court orders directing both to pay alimony.

Earl C. Hill, an insurance agent, was sent to jail for 90 days because he was in arrears $489 in the payments he was directed to make in support of his wife and two children. The other, Paul Thomas, a cab driver, who had been ordered to pay $3 weekly, was behind in his payments some $63.

Both men can purge themselves of contempt by making up the back payments, or at least by "refinancing" them in some manner. The specific charge against both was contempt of court.

Carpenters Air Cut in Pay Scale On School Job

Bricklayers Also Employed as Helpers, Testimony at Hearing Discloses.

By J. D. Secrest.

Fifteen workmen yesterday afternoon testified that they were paid less than the prevailing wage while employed by the Catalano Construction Co., of Baltimore, on the Phelps vocational school at Twenty-fourth and H street northeast.

Testimony insofar as the wage scale was concerned went uncontradicted at the public hearing conducted in the District Building board room by Corporation Counsel William W. Bride. The contractor's sole defense was that the workmen were hired as helpers, despite years of experience as carpenters and bricklayers and that no actual wage scale has been set up by the Labor Department under the Bacon-Davis act.

No recommendation will be made to the District Commissioners before the first of next week, Mr. Bride said. It is expected that at that time he will urge revocation of the contract in whole or in part with the understanding that the project will be completed by the bonding company.

Ready for Adjustments.

Counsel for the contractor yesterday stated at the outset of the hearing that his client is ready to make adjustments with the complaining workmen and to adhere hereafter to the Bacon-Davis act. It is believed, however, that Mr. Bride will propose some punitive measure.

Witnesses called by Assistant Corporation Counsel Robert E. Lynch and William H. Wahly, who conducted the case for the complainants, included veteran carpenters, bricklayers, hodcarriers, and unskilled laborers. In no instance was a workman paid more than 60 per cent of the prevailing wage for his classification, and most were paid less than half.

Three carpenters introduced by the contractor, however, testified that they were paid $1 an hour, which is the prevailing wage.

About the only point of controversy throughout the hearing was whether the construction of wooden forms for concrete foundations requires the skill of a carpenter. The District attorneys and their witnesses insisted that it does; the contractor's counsel said it doesn't, although his own witnesses testified that they were paid at the rate of $1 an hour to do the same type of work.

Refused to Sign Paper.

John Herzing, Baltimore carpenter, said that he was asked to sign an affidavit stating that he was being paid $1 an hour when he was actually receiving but 60 cents an hour. He said he refused. Other workmen testified that they had been required to sign cards signifying that they were being paid $1 an hour while receiving only 50 cents an hour.

The carpenters for the most part testified that they were hired as carpenter's helpers, but Howard T. Colvin, commissioner of conciliation of the Labor Department, stated that the Labor Department has never recognized any classifications of carpenters or bricklayers.

While the Labor Department has never set up a prevailing wage scale for the District, Mr. Colvin said that advisory opinions had been given as follows: carpenters, $1 an hour; bricklayers, $1.50 an hour; laborers, 35 to 50 cents.

Bricklayers engaged on the Phelps School stated they were being paid but 62½ cents an hour, while laborers said they received but 25 cents an hour. Hod carriers, whose prevailing wage is 75 cents, were paid but 35 cents.

Two Washington building contractors, George E. Wyne and James R. Skinker, were introduced by Mr. Lynch to testify regarding the District's prevailing wage scale. A cheer arose from the packed board room when Mr. Wyne said he always employed union workmen because they were the best obtainable when the prevailing wage law is obeyed.

District Scale Offered.

A copy of a District government wage board's classification of mechanics as junior and senior was introduced by David Wiener, counsel for the Catalano company. Rolan M. Brehnen, chief clerk of the District engineer department, testified for the District regarding the municipal wage scale.

John Thomas, Berwyn carpenter, whose complaint started the whole inquiry, repeated his story that he had been paid but 50 cents an hour, although he signed a carpenter's card which specified $1.

When pay day rolled around he was asked to sign a receipt for $35.50, but was offered $21. When he complained, the contracting firm finally paid him the full $35.50, but subsequently dismissed him, Thomas said.

Among the witnesses offered by the Catalano firm was Salvator Manifre, 21-year-old carpenter, who said that he had been a full-fledged carpenter for three or four years. He was paid $1 an hour, he said. The District's witnesses, who were paid but 50 or 60 cents an hour, reported as much as 30 years' experience in some instances.

Seven Spades!

13-Suit Card Bid, Doubled and Redoubled; Score: 2,800 Points.

A bid of seven spades, doubled, redoubled and made good, was responsible for a score of 2,800 points in a single game of bridge last night at the home of W. M. Weston, 3817 New Hampshire avenue northwest. Mr. Weston held thirteen spades when he made the bid. His partner was O. M. Cassidy, 6510 Ridgewood Road northwest, and the other players were S. Ward Marr, 2100 Massachusetts avenue northwest, and N. R. Miller, 1809 Belmont Road northwest.

Mr. West appears to be the fortunate victim of an epidemic of such bridge hands. Another hand of thirteen spades was reported in Washington just a few days ago.

D. C. Will Press Claim for New Relief Funds

Commissioners Expected to Send Appeal to Government Today.

The District Commissioners are expected to send forward today to the Federal Unemployment Relief Administration a request for $173,351, representing a third of expenditures for relief in Washington during April, May and June.

This will be the second request for a Federal grant, approximately $140,000 having been granted shortly after the Federal Relief Administration was established on the basis of expenditures during the first three months of the year.

Leroy A. Halbert, director of the District emergency relief division, said he knew nothing of a reported dissatisfaction on the part of the Federal administration with the handling of local relief. An investigator from the Federal office, he said, recently voiced his approval of the administration.

About a third of the relief workers, Mr. Halbert said, are taken from the list of those who applied for aid. The division is greatly handicapped by a shortage of welfare workers, despite the allowance of 10 per cent for administration expenses.

Whereas, most cities require one relief worker for every 150 or less cases, the District agency is operating with one worker for every 250 cases, each of which averages four persons. At a recent meeting of the emergency relief committee Mr. Halbert made a plea for additional assistance in order to check more closely on questionable cases.

Thugs Loot Home Of Jailed Gambler

Undetermined Loss Discovered by Sam Beard's Caretaker.

Police yesterday were searching for thugs who ransacked the palatial residence of Sam Beard, wealthy local gambler, at 7400 Alaska avenue northwest.

Beard is now serving a term in a Maryland prison for income tax evasion. His wife is vacationing in Cedarhurst, Long Island.

The ransacking was discovered by J. Perry, caretaker, who summoned police. Detective Sergt. Arthur T. Fihelly and Joseph Caw, of the police fingerprint squad, said the entire contents of the house had been turned "inside out" and that they were unable at this time to tell what has been stolen due to the absence of the family.

Perry told police a diamond stickpin he recently had purchased from a local gambler for $50; a gold cigarette case given him by Beard, and a pair of cuff links were stolen from his room.

Police Killer Arrives—They Take Him in Tow

At least that is what he was telling a crowd yesterday at Fifteenth street and Florida avenue northwest until a policeman came along.

Officer R. C. Cunningham, of the Traffic Bureau, took the would-be destroyer of the human race off to Gallinger Hospital, where he is undergoing mental observation.

Lorton to Get New Stockade For Jail Rebels

Board Orders 25-Ft. Brick Structure; Barnard's Methods Approved.

A large crew of "good" prisoners shortly will begin construction of a 25-foot brick stockade at Lorton Reformatory, inside of which future "bad" prisoners will be housed.

This project, affecting a 10-acre tract at the District's model penal institution in nearby Virginia, was approved yesterday at a meeting of the Board of Public Welfare.

Bricks made at the Occoquan Workhouse, another District penal institution, will be used in building the prison citadel.

Near Normal Routine.

Normal routine was declared almost reached at Lorton yesterday, Judge Michael Doyle, chairman of the penal committee of the board, announced. Forty-six remaining recalcitrants in the recent near-outbreak there will be transferred shortly under heavy guard to the Federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa.

The methods of Capt. M. M. Barnard in restoring peace at Lorton was approved formally by the board yesterday after the penal committee had made its report on the recent disorder. It was decided to recommend deferment of appointing a successor to A. C. Tawse, resigned superintendent, until Barnard finally had completed his reorganization.

No Attack Expected.

Judge Doyle said the brick wall will be erected instead of an iron fence with brick foundation formerly expected. He said Capt. Bernard had pointed out that a surprise attack by jail-breakers, armed with rifles and shotguns, could command the inside of such a tract through bars, but could not through a brick wall.

Of course, said Judge Doyle, any such attack is not expected, but he pointed out the virtues of preparedness. Some day, he said, the prison may house a more desperate crowd, with powerful allies outside.

Two guards constantly will pace the tops of the walls surrounding the separate prison being erected for malcontents. They will be armed with rifles and thus will be able to have command of the entire open space around the prison structures.

Pitts Opens Fight Over Trust Notes

Former Smith Co. Head Asks Court to Prevent Sale of Bonds.

G. Bryan Pitts, one-time head of the F. H. Smith Co. and now serving a 14-year sentence following his conviction of embezzling $5,000,000 from the company, yesterday launched a court fight to prevent the Bureau of Internal Revenue from selling for $10,000 second-trust notes secured by the Investment Building that have a face value of $189,250.

The bonds, according to an affidavit by Pitts, were taken from an agent, Henry O. Hart, and are in danger of being disposed of for alleged deficient income taxes by him. He revealed in the paper that Emory L. Coblentz, former Maryland banker, had allegedly offered $10,000 for the bonds, which are a portion of a preferred group of $450,000 like notes.

The building has a $2,000,000 first trust and a second trust, in addition to the $450,000. Pitts asks that a receiver be appointed to conserve the building and work out an equitable plan of paying the notes.

Commissioners Approve Annual Beer Permits

The District Commissioners yesterday formally approved the issuance of annual beer sale permits to 20 holders of temporary licenses, in accordance with recommendations of the Beverage Permits Board.

Among those approved were permits of the National Press Club, the Shoreham Hotel and the Club Michel.

Killed in Crash

MISS ANNIA L. LEDDY, Treasury Department employe, who died in Emergency Hospital of injuries received when struck by a taxi while en route to work yesterday morning.

U. S. Employe, Hit by Taxicab, Dies of Injuries

Miss Annie Leddy Struck on Way to Work at Treasury.

Miss Annie L. Leddy, 60-year-old employe of the Treasury Department, died in Emergency Hospital at 10 a. m. yesterday from injuries received when she was struck by a taxicab on her way to work.

The accident occurred at Eighteenth street and Connecticut avenue, just a short distance from Miss Leddy's late residence, 1906 N street northwest, at a few minutes before 9 o'clock.

Dies Within Hour.

Miss Leddy had started across Eighteenth street about 30 feet from the pedestrians' crossing lane, said Wilbur R. Funk, 38, driver of the cab. Funk did not see her, he said, because she came from between two parked cars and walked into his cab before he had time to turn or stop.

The women was struck by the right side of the car and was thrown to the street. Funk lifted her into the taxi. He was assisted by Miss Jerry Clark, a trained nurse who came along just after the accident, and who helped him to rush to Emergency Hospital. She died within an hour of her arrival there. The coroner's inquest will be held tomorrow at the Morgue, to which her body was removed.

Victim Was Deaf.

Miss Leddy, a native of Huntingdon, Pa., came to Washington during the World War and has been employed in the Treasury Department since. No relatives survive as far as authorities have discovered.

Funk, who claims to have driven a car for 15 years, is being held at the Third Precinct Police Station pending the report of the coroner's jury. Friends of Miss Leddy say that she was deaf, and that this might help to explain the accident.

Ickes Creates New Office for Park Service

Division to Handle Public Buildings and Cemeteries.

The present administration of the Park service will form the skeleton organization of the new Office of Public Buildings, Parks, and Cemeteries, Secretary of the Interior Ickes said yesterday.

The new office will be formed on August 9 by the consolidation of a number of other government activities. The administration of public buildings in Washington probably will be done by a new division of the Park Service. The Washington parks are likely to come under the control of another new division, Secretary Ickes said.

The Secretary has given no thought to the selection of a man to head the new office. He did point out that Arno B. Cammerer, who will head the Park Service after August 10, has had much experience with local affairs. This was seen in some quarters as an intimation that Mr. Cammerer would direct the whole new organization.

The status of Col. J. A. Woodruff, director of the present Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks, under the new establishment is unknown. Col. Woodruff succeeded Col. U. S. Grant 3d several weeks ago. He has been detailed from the Army to an organization which will go out of existence next month. So far he has not been notified whether he will be taken over along with the functions of his office, or whether he will be returned to the Army.

The transfer of the control of Federal property in the District to the Interior Department means that all future construction and road work in the local park system will be done by the Bureau of Public Roads. This bureau, a part of the Interior Department, does all construction work for projects under the department and therefore will take over the local work.

Units which will be abolished by the consolidation order include the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks, the Arlington Memorial Bridge Commission, the Public Buildings Commission, the National Memorial Commission, and the Rock Creek and Potomac Parkway Commission. The functions of all these will be taken over by the Park Service administration, although the service also will lose its identity in the merger.

Bread Price Rise Watched by U. S.

Prosecutions Will Depend on Developments, Assert Agents.

"We are just watching the situation," Department of Justice officials said yesterday when asked if any action was contemplated in connection with Monday's increases in bread prices here.

The increases have been made by three chain stores. In each case the pound loaf, formerly selling for 5 cents, has been raised to 6 cents. An increase from 8 to 9 cents in the price of a pound and a half loaf was noted by one of the concerns.

Senator William H. King, chairman of the Senate District Committee, said that if conditions warrant it, the committee will take steps to stop any further increases.
